In some way the child's clothes caught fire while her mother was in the yard. The dog saw it and went tearing about the premises to find Mrs. Gillard. He found her, seized hold of her skirts with his mouth and commenced pulling in the direction of the room where the child was. The mother concluded to follow the dog, and presently saw her little one all in flames. She seized a blanket and threw it about the child, extinguishing the fire before the girl was scarcely burned upon the flesh at all.

A LETTER.

To The Colored People Especially, and all Who Love The Colored Race.

Whenever some white man dies who has done a very little if anything, towards assisting the Colored people, every Colored man is willing to attend his funeral. All will speak words of praise. Let the present governor die, and all the Colored people will with a few exceptions attend his funeral and not stop to ask the question, "What has he done to elevate the Colored race of this state?" and if some few come to a conclusion, they dare not express it; and say he is not giving the Colored man employment such as he deserves. Why is this? Is it a lack of manhood? I think it is! What then can the Colored people do? Only one thing, i. e. Stand together, and be real men. Let a man's denomination and color alone, and like any other race we will stand together and be respected. Last Sabbath the most loved and most respected of Colored men was placed beneath the earth. His work was done, and James K. Hilyard passed beyond the portals of glory. Why should we not respect his memory. Let us raise a desecrating voice and I will brand him as coward and a traitor to the Afro-American race. James K. Hilyard was the leading Colored man in the Northwest and he was loved by all staunch Afro-Americans, and because of his loyalty to his race his memory should be revered.

On Sabbath evening May 10th at 8 o'clock at St. James Church, corner Fuller and Jay Sts. there will be a memorial meeting held in honor of the great Negro in the west, James Kidd Hilyard. There will be the most prominent Colored speakers of the state and elsewhere present. All lovers of the Colored race should be present, for all are invited. Remember Sabbath eve May 10th, 8 o'clock. D. P. Brown, pastor.

Park Theatre.

The original owners of the Peoples Theatre recently known as the Harris, corner of 6th and St. Peter, have again assumed control and will on to-morrow open for the summer season. The management wish it distinctly understood that every lady and gentleman who desires to attend their beautiful theatre will be treated as such, and there will be no discrimination in the matter of seats, you pay your money and you take your choice. The company engaged for this season is comprised of thirty-five artists of recognized reputation. Miss Juliette Marco, of the Boston Ide-Is, has been engaged to take the prima donna roles. Charles Huntington, of the Hess Opera company, will create the leading comedy roles. The tenor is Hamilton

Tetley, of the Baker Opera company. The company will open with a production of "La Mascotte" instead of "Fatinizta." This change is due to the fact that the costumes for the latter opera could not be finished in time for the opening, which is to take place on Sunday evening, May 3.

Improving Electric Service.

The city railway will soon put fifty-horse power motors on the interurban line in place of the thirty-horse power ones now in use. These will pull from one to two open trailers each, during the warm weather. Their speed between the cities will be twenty-five miles an hour. Forty of these heavy motors are about ready for use, and they will be divided between the interurban line and the Hennepin avenue line to Lake Harriet in Minneapolis, the larger share going to the interurban.

Grand Opera House.

Charles A. Gardner, that clever German dialect comedian and sweet singer, will be the attraction next week at the Grand opening Sunday night. "Fatherland" will be the play presented, a romantic idyl of life on the Tyrolean mountains. Mr. Gardner assumes a part which fits him admirably, one which gives him ample opportunity to introduce his tuneful songs and clever manner tells when he will be satisfied. Mr. Gardner is one of the best impersonators of eccentric German characters on the stage and gives a faithful picture of the happy whole-souled Tyrolean mountaineer. Among the many special features introduced throughout the play are a genuine old-fashioned German spinning bee, and a troupe of Alpine yodlers who appear in the holiday attire of their native land and furnish a feast of pleasing melody, their Alpine and echo calls being a decided novelty.

The boys and girls are on the qui vive for the grand May ball of the Chicago Club, which takes place Monday night, May 11th, at Turner Hall. The organization has turned for itself an enviable name as a caterer for public amusements in the city and the fact that it will give an entertainment is all the guarantee the public asks as to its being well-out of sight. The coming event will be in keeping if not superior to former entertainments. Special arrangements have been made to secure the attendance of a number of the folks of our sister city and the prospect for a delightful affair daily grows stronger. The most handsomely dressed lady will be crowned queen. There will be a special bar and the supper will be under the supervision of Mrs. Lucy Herndon. Tickets of admission 50 cents. Tea officers of the club are: L. E. Green, president; Phil. E. Reid, vice president; S. A. Revel, secretary; C. H. Scott, treasurer. Every body is invited to this entertainment and the more there are present the more fun there will be.

The Ardel Club's private entertainment of Wednesday evening excelled all its previous endeavors in that line, and reflects much credit upon the executive ability of Mr. Britton the president and speaks well for the interest and enterprise of its members. By 9 o'clock the cosy dancing room of Prof. Golden's in the Wood block was well filled by the club and its invited guests. The grand march led by Mr. Shirley Tyler and Miss Florence Johnson was followed by all to the strains of Thiel's justly famed orchestra. After this dancing was the order of the evening until the hour appointed to serve the elegant repast which awaited in an adjoining room. The refreshments were interspersed with short and witty responses to toasts, among which that of Mr. Will Turner was certainly the most entertaining. After supper dancing was resumed and continued until an early morning hour. The guests then left with pleasing recollections of the Club's hospitality. There were present: Miss Hattie Hughes of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Alice Watkins, Mr. Frank Darnell, Chicago, Miss Hattie Shepherd, Mr. Wm. Howard, of St. Paul; Misses Fannie and Florence Johnson, Mamie Samuels, Callie Simpson, Nettie Moulton, Carrie Owen, Lizzie Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Settles, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Britton, Mesdames S. Johnson, C. S. Blake, Mand Parker, Zee Burney, Cleve Hogan, Henry Ogden, Messrs. Sherlev, Tyler, Carter, Richardson, Jesse Jackson, Thomas Jaks and Geo. Johnson, Henry Clay, Wm. Turner, Chas. Johnson, Perry Lee, Alex. Ross, A. L. Buckner, Edward Porter, James Harrison, Rufus Moore, Gerlie Winn, Ed. Stuart, Oscar Clayborn, Arthur Adams, Cornelius S. Turner and THE APPEAL.

St. James A. M. E. Church.

A grand fair and concert at St. James A. M. E. Church Second street S. E. The fair will open Monday evening, May 15th, and continue one week. The fair will open with a grand concert. On the second evening a children's concert will be given. The third evening an old folk's concert. An excellent programme will be rendered each of the following evenings.

GONE UP HIGHER.

ively the possibilities of his race, and left a ray of hope for us all. But how much more will he be missed by his loving wife and children, they knew him as only such of our households can know. They shared his joys and sorrows. To these the blow comes doubly hard yet their loss is ours too, for he was one of us.

His bodily presence will be missed, but has he lived to no purpose? Surely he has left monuments that will stand long after this body has mingled with its mother dust. Many of these are memories of acts done to uphold and strengthen his fellow men. The establishing and building up of Masonic fraternity in this his adopted state. His musical tastes did much for him, and laying the foundation of our representative sheet THE APPEAL are all lasting memorials. And in his silence may his very name animate and warn us in the great conflicts of our race.

Let this scene citizens and friends tell to us, that soon, so very soon, the place and things that know us shall know us no more. Are we filling well our seat? Do we to the best of our ability, that which a kind and wise providence has assigned. There was one desire of his heart in the closing days of his pilgrimage; it was to see once more his beloved companion, and as he stood at the window in that far distant Quaker City and watched and waited until he perceived made his heart faint. Then leaving the loving farewell message, that she must not be late meeting in heaven; then leaving his head on the strong manly breast of his son, and kissing him a last loving good-bye he fell asleep as peacefully as an infant in the arms of his mother.

Friends is your privilege and mine if Christ be our portion, to lean our heads on Jesus' breast, when life's journey draws near its close, and breathe our life out sweetly there."

At the close of the remarks of Rev. Sheafe, Rev. Pope called on Rev. D. P. Brown, of St. James A. M. E. Church, who spoke as follows:

"Beloved friends have borne a protracted burden to this church this afternoon. Tenderly will they bear it away when these last tributes of respect have been paid, and soon in the silent city of the dead the earth will inclose and cover forever, all that is mortal of James Kidd Hilyard, and I thank God only that which is mortal, for the good soul so devoted to the cause of right and the elevation of our race, I believe is at this moment looking over the battlements of glory into our midst. He is not in this casket, and he cannot be lowered into any grave. James Kidd Hilyard was born nearly 65 years ago, and as the beautiful June sun was peeping over the Allegheny mountains in the Keystone State, there came into the world this man, who was my father's friend, and your friend, and my friend, and the friend of every true Afro-American.

His life was not always sunny, neither was his path way always smooth, but through tears and smiles, joy and sorrow, he was known as the foremost Afro-American in this vast Northwest, and equal to any in this country. The blessed Master has called him home. He saw fit to allow him to pass his last hours in the state that gave him birth, and my prayer is that God may sustain and comfort his dear wife and children, and may we with them, meet him in Heaven, where there is no parting nor death. May we all get ready to die."

The ceremonies were then concluded and the procession was again formed, and as the band played its solemn music, the mortal remains of J. K. Hilyard were borne to their last resting place. The casket was of black broadcloth and velvet, handsomely mounted with silver, and was covered with the floral tributes of the following friends: Heart, J. Q. Adams; anchor, Mrs. L. M. De Minel; square and compass, D. Hardin; wreath, Gustave Hineman; broken wheel, Aubri Club; bouquet, Thos. Stubbs; sickle and sheaf, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. McGhee; bouquet, Mrs. C. B. Lazenberry; pillow, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Lytes; bouquet, Mrs. S. S. Harris; Eastern star, Queen of the West chapter, Minneapolis; square and compass, Anchor Lodge, Minneapolis; heart, Messrs. P. H. Anderson and W. R. Godett. The pall bearers were: John G. Sterrett, W. R. Grey, Israel Grosley, David Talbot, B. C. Yancey, C. H. Hale, D. T. McFarlane, G. W. Turner, Robert Bruce, Allen French.

Arriving at Oakland cemetery, both the Episcopal and masonic ceremonies were gone through with, and the body of J. K. Hilyard was consigned to the embrace of mother earth, there to sleep until the resurrection morning. He has gone on the journey all must take some time, but he left assurances that he took the right road, the one that leads to glory, and with his masonic brethren there is not one among us who will not heartily exclaim, "So mote it be!"
