OUR UNSUNG HEROES. Have you seen the great picture, "Our Unsung Heroes," published by Shepherd Photo Co. It is a large 24x30 inch half tone picture, comprising five different events in which Afro-Americans have made a name for themselves: viz., Defending the early settlers against the Indians in 1680; as naval heroes in the war of 1812; during the Civil War; as Indian scouts and fighters; and for a centerpiece, "The Charge at San Juan Hill." In each corner appears a life-like portrait of the four leading benefactors of the Afro-American: Abraham Lincoln, Charles Sumner, Frederick Douglass and Booker T. Washington. The lower margin is filled with short paragraphs incident to the subjects in the picture. A copy of the picture will be sent to any address for 25 cents. Send all orders to SHEPHERD PHOTO CO., St. Paul, Minn.

WAITERS ATTENTION! The first annual convention of the Afro-American Headwaiters' Mutual Benefit Association will meet in Chicago, Ill., at Bethel A. M. E. Church, Wednesday, September 20, 1899. All head and second waiters are cordially invited to become members of the association. For particulars address J. B. Goins, cor. secy., Hotel Nelson, Rockford, Ill., or W. F. Cozart, chairman, Hotel Beckel, Dayton, Ohio.

You Bet There Are. "If you look me over, you are after there are others; if you're duffered by lars rare, don't suseumb to foul de spare, nor your coety clothing tear—there are others; if your friends desert and mock you—there are others; if your sweetheart flirts and shooks you—there are others; you're not the only jay who's been treated in this way, so just look at her and say—there are others."

"MISTAKES WILL HAPPEN"

At the Grand Opera House, St. Paul.

On Sunday evening next the stage at the Grand will be held by one of the best comedy organizations that has ever left New York City, presenting the comedy success "Mistakes Will Happen." The story of the play is intensely funny and the comedy was one great big laughing success last year and has no rival in the field for its humor this season. The second act especially is said to be one of the greatest novelties that has been presented in farce comedy for many a year, and is, so one critic tersely puts it, "worth braving a blizzard to see." The company is headed by Charles Dickens and includes A. H. Stewart, J. H. Standish, Ben Deane, L. E. Willard, Lansing Rowan, Eicie Esmond, Lottie Hyde and other well known players. The theme upon which the comedy has been built is essentially a new one for the story revolves about the hunt for an "ange" by both an actor and his charming wife. That they succeed, of course, goes without saying, but the many complications which arise during the action of the play are ridiculous in the extreme. "Mistakes Will Happen" is presented under direction of Jacob Lit and he has given to the play a most elaborate production. This organization of fun makers will be one of the comedy events of the season at the Grand.

God takes a thousand times more pains with us than the artist with his picture, by many touches of sorrow, and by many colors of circumstance, to bring man into the form which is the highest and noblest in his sight, if only we receive his gifts and myrrh in the right spirit.—John Tauler.

INQUISITORIAL

Methods of Collecting Taxes Instituted by an Official of San Francisco.

They are going to collect the tax, the whole tax, and nothing less than the tax out in California. It seems that there have resided in the city of ups and downs many of that ubiquitous class of citizens who believe it cheaper to lie than to pay taxes. Salaries, it is rumored, were falling behind; his honor needed cupids in his office. The methods adopted by the new assessor, elected on a reform platform of his own making, whose name, curiously enough, is Dodge, savors pungently of the ancient inquisition. The way the thing has been done in most cities is for the deputy collector to call and hand a blank. This receiving no attention beyond a few minor items, such as "Stetwin piano, twenty-five dolls," "household goods, furniture, chattels, etc., one hundred dolls," the deputy humbly pockets what he knows to be a lie and goes his way; the result being that the very signer of such a libel is obliged for another year to stumble over the pavement he has since childhood decried, and stand up for more months in the street cars, whose overloaded condition he has in print so violently execrated. These unmethods are declared by Dodge archaic. The new way is to force one's way into a house and estimate the value of the goods from the standpoint of an outsider. The procedure is naturally meeting with much opposition, even by those who voted for reform and Mr. Dodge. The latter gentleman, however, is seemingly careless of a re-election and pursues the even tenor of his way all undisturbed. The constitutionality of the case is being contested in the San Francisco courts.

A Newspaper Trust. A syndicate has just been formed in London with a capital of £1,000,000 to purchase the Sketch, the Illustrated London News, the English Illustrated Magazine, the Penny Illustrated Paper and the Lady's Pictorial. Shares to the amount of £750,000 will be offered to the public, £375,000 of which will be in common stock paying 5 per cent, at a shilling premium, and £375,000 of 4 per cent bonds. It is believed that the shares will be taken up by the market as readily as those issued by the Newnes, Harmsworth and Pearson syndicates. Unless America has gone mad on the subject of trusts it is not believed by conservative citizens that such a project in this country would be received with favor. However, this is a matter of opinion, and the only way its truth or falsity can be proven would be to make the attempt—Fourth Estate. The prediction was made some time ago by a Spanish general, who has seen much service in the Philippines, that the Americans would win every battle in the island of Luzon and yet lose the campaign. The following is a summary of the enlistment for the line of the army for the month of March, 1899, as shown by the records in the adjutant-general's office: Enlistments for general recruiting service, 7,880; enlistments for special recruiting service, 424; total, 8,304; enlistments in cities, 7,079; enlistments at military posts and in the field, 1,225; total, 8,304. The greatest number of enlistments at city stations was in New York city, where 563 recruits were enlisted, and 1,994 applications rejected. Philadelphia stands second, with 432 enlisted and 1,712 rejected. A number of recruiting sergeants for the British army were told off a few months ago to beat up a district in a remote part of the Scottish highlands, where crofters earn a precarious livelihood and the population is sparse. When, after three months' energetic work, they returned to the depot to report progress, one, luckier than his colleagues, brought along with him a raw-boned highlander, and the expedition involved in bringing this solitary lamb to the fold exceeded $1,000. This does not bode well for the ready enlistment of the new Scotch guards' regiments, if it is to be confined to Scotsmen. Scotland contributes a very small quota of recruits to the army every year and the dislike to soldiering is on the increase. If a peahen culls, a donkey brays, pigs carry straw, geese flap their wings, a pot boils dry or the clouds move northward it will rain. Like Napoleon, Abraham Lincoln always believed he was a man of destiny. He thought he would rise to some lofty station in life, but that he would have a sudden fall. He was pleased, yet alarmed, at what he looked upon as a rent in the veil which hides the future from mortal sight, for the vision he saw was of glory and of blood.
