VARIOUS WAYS OF WORKING.

All Men Can Not Follow Same Methods in Their Labor.
We are not all built alike; what is one man's pleasure is another man's pain. It is impossible for a one-horse power engine to do the work of a ten-horse power engine.
I have a cousin who says his best work is done when he has to do a day's work in a couple of hours. I think my best work is done when I have a month in which to do a couple of hours' work.
Practice is absolutely necessary. Some never have been obliged to accomplish a definite amount of work each day. If you are forced into a narrow path you are likely to accomplish more definite results than you are if you stroll on the boulevard.
A manager of a jobbing house says he can do four times the work now than when he commenced dictating. This is due to practice and to limitations in time. He has improved involuntarily because his work forced him ahead.—Earl M. Pratt.

ROSE HAS MANY COLORS.

Peculiar Flower the Production of Eastern Gardeners.
The Chinese, Japanese and Siamese are peculiarly skillful at botanical feats. One of their wonderful achievements is known as the "changeable rose." The bloom is white in the shade and red in the sunlight. After night or in a dark room this curiosity of the rose family is a pure wax-white blossom. When transferred to the open air the transformation immediately steps in, the time of the entire change of the flower from white to red depending on the degree of sunlight and warmth. First the petals take on a kind of washed or faded blue color, and rapidly change to a faint blush of pink. The pink gradually deepens in hue until you find that your lily-white rose of an hour before is as red as the reddest peony that ever bloomed.

Violets.

A letter with some violets—
Ah, how my fancy backward sets,
Until my brooding thought begets
A face beguiling!
Twin rosebud lips in Cupid's line;
A brow where curls o'er-droop and twine;
Deep eyes that tenderly meet mine,
And answer smiling.
And fastened loosely on her breast
A bunch of flowers! What fairer nest
Could blossom here when to rest
In any weather?
To hear her dear heart beat, and know
If when I whisper so and so,
It throbs a wee bit faster—Oh,
I wonder whether?
Scenting their delicate perfume,
I catch somehow of her sweet bloom—
A loveliness that lends a room
Through which she passes
The wadding whimsiness of spring,
The vernal air and light that cling
To apple branches bourgeoning.
And vernal grasses.
Ah, violets, you cannot dream
How much of blessing and of beam
You bear with you—joy's perfect gleam
Transcended never.
O fragrant breathings of the year,
Because she loves you doubly dear,
Your lover I, and, year on year,
Her lover ever! —Clinton Scollard.

Most Deadly of Snakes.

The cobra de capello, which kills from 20,000 to 25,000 people a year in India, is one of the most beautiful creatures you ever saw. With a red yard and a half long his keeper arouses this most deadly of all serpents, which lifts its head eighteen inches from the ground, and, standing perfectly erect, expands its neck into a hood, as seen in the tales of Indian jungles. The two greenish-yellow spots, one on each side, look like two enormous eyes. The snake is ready for a strike. Its bite is sure death in eight minutes. Science has found no antidote for it. In striking the head goes downward and forward, not straight out. The fangs are permanently erect, not movable, as in the rattlesnake.

Size of World's Mail.

The International Postal Union, formed by the Postal Congress, held at Berne on Sept. 15, 1874, now extends over forty million square miles of territory, peopled by one billion one hundred million persons. The number of pieces of mail handled in 1900 amounted to about eighty millions a day (twenty-nine billions a year). The

THAT'S THE BUTTER

MILTON'S STAR BRAND BUTTER

THE beginning of our Famous STAR BRAND BUTTER

Is in the selection of herds and the care of the milk on the farm; then a critical inspection of the milk at our skimming stations. Doubtful quality cream doesn't go into the "Star Brand" vat. The result of this extra care, at the beginning, is a pure and EXTRA fine flavored butter. Since we began making "Star Brand" in 1888, nearly every store in town has an "Extra Brand" of butter; the paper cap is all the extra there is to it. Grocersmen and butchers don't make butter—they have it shipped from some outside creamery and repack it into jars or prints—consequently comes to you second-handed. Buy our "Star Brand," and you have the freshest, purest and best butter possible. Packed in 2, 3 and 5 lb. jars right from the churn.

The mail routes had an aggregate length of 1,864,000,000 miles, about twenty times the distance of the earth from the sun.

Japanese Medicines.

According to the Chemist and Druggist, the native drug stores in Japan are still largely stocked with dried snakes, toads, lizards, crabs, etc., infusions of which are the popular household remedies throughout the country. Various "secret remedies," which are supposed to be as universal and potent in their curative effects as many of our Western patent medicines, also abound. Magic plasters are much in vogue, and massage is largely practiced; the operators being chiefly blind people. Face paints and powders may also be seen on the shelves.

Another Man Ahead of Him.

An Irishman who had been out of a job many weeks found in the river that flowed through his town the body of the keeper of the railroad drawbridge. He immediately betook himself to the superintendent of the division and applied for the vacant job, saying that he had seen the body of the former keeper in the river. "Sorry," said the superintendent, briefly; "the place has been filled. We gave it to the man who saw him fall in."—Harper's Weekly.

USURERS OF EARLY TIMES.

Lombard Merchants Once the Rulers of English Kings.
Lombard street took its name from the Lombard merchants who, coming from the four Italian republics of Genoa, Lucca, Florence and Venice, settled in London in the reign of Edward I. They were the great money changers and money lenders of early times. The English kings being often in great straits for money to carry on foreign wars and for other purposes, they appealed to the Lombard merchants for advances, granting them exclusive privileges in return. Their extortions became so great that, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, steps were taken to oblige them to leave the country. They are chiefly remembered by their armorial bearings of three golden balls, now the distinguishing mark of the useful pawnbroker, the humble descendant of the proud Lombard money lenders.
