Where to Draw the Line

Gallant Colonel Points Out Danger of Too Much Politeness on Occasions.

"A man should always try to be polite to women, except, of course, on street cars," said Col. Wilbert Wimble the other day after he had stepped on a policeman's foot in his effort to return a feminine handkerchief. But there is one thing politeness should never lead you to do. Never try to pick up a woman's purse for her. If you see a woman drop her gloves or a book or a parcel, jump for it with all the eagerness of a bull pup, and return it to her in your best manner. You will be rewarded with a smile. But do not jump for her pocketbook. No, sir, do not. I once made that mistake, but never again. The owner did not understand. With the cry of a wounded lioness saving her cubs she pounced upon her property, nearly driving a hatpin through the padded bosom of my frock coat. "No, you don't!" she hissed. "You can't snatch my hard-earned woman's purse like that."

"When you see a woman drop her money, give a yell and spring back from her about four feet and stand with your hands up. Then she can not possibly misunderstand your intentions."

GIVING THEM A FAIR START. Warden of Colorado Penitentiary Says Discharged Prisoners Should Have Some Funds.

Tom Tynan, warden of the Colorado penitentiary, believes the released convict should be given money upon his discharge. George Creel, in an article in Success Magazine, quotes him as follows:

"And when the prisoner has been reformed—strengthened in body and mind, taught means of livelihood and the habits of industry—what then? Must he go out with nothing in his pockets but his hands? I don't think so. No fair man can think so."

"The released convict must have some money; enough at least to tide him over the first few months—to keep him from feeling like a vagrant—to prevent his despair and relapse. I am in favor of a law that will pay the men a certain salary toward the end of the sentence—say $1 a day for the last sixty days. It is my endeavor to have every prisoner go back into the world from the ranch or road—clear eyed, brown faced—and heaven knows these fellows can't and haven't."

In all the world, according to the records, no woman was convicted of murder in 1912, although a large number of persons came to their deaths at the hands of women. The juries being composed of men, they just won't find them guilty of a capital offense.

Everyone who receives THE APPEAL and has not paid for it is expected to pay for it. No one is entitled to receive it free. This means you!

Messrs. Banks & Watkins, 40 E. Third street have taken charge of "The Grill" formerly operated by Wm. Gibbs and are prepared to furnish first class meals at all hours. Miss Adah Smith, of Chicago better known as "Brick" has been secured as entertainer.

Why not patronize the business houses that invite you to trade with them through their advertisements in THE APPEAL? They are helping to support your paper, show them that you believe in helping those who help you, or your enterprises. Trade with the people who advertise in THE APPEAL.

HOT TIME FOR DELINQUENTS.

We clip the following from one of our exchanges to warn our delinquent subscribers what a hot time they will have if they fail to pay their newspaper bills. The same fate awaits our slow-paying advertisers:

"An editor who died of starvation was being escorted to Heaven by an angel sent for that purpose. 'May I just glance in at the other place before we ascend to eternal happiness?' So they went below and skrimishing around, taking in the sights. It so happened that the angel lost track of the editor and went around Hades' hunting him. He found him sitting by an enormous furnace, fanning himself and gazing with rapture upon a crowd of lost souls in the fire. Over the furnace was a sign bearing the words, 'Delinquent subscribers.' 'Come,' said the angel, 'we must be going now.' 'You go on,' said the editor, 'I'm not going. This is heaven enough for me.'"
