Mrs. J. R. White is in New York City visiting her husband, pastor of the Universal Spiritualist church of that city, which held its first anniversary services last Sunday. The church was crowded and the services very interesting. Mrs. White attended the meeting of the B. M. C. at Boston and then returned to New York. She will remain in the East for several weeks.

Comparing reports from other cities with conditions in St. Paul the financial situation in this city probably is better than anywhere else in the world, and at least the best in the United States. During the past week, St. Paul banks lent to Minneapolis grain firms more than $5,000,000. Deposits are increasing rapidly and the banks are lending to customers to the last dollar allowed by law. The statement credited to Secretary of the Treasury, McAdoo, that banks are hoarding cash and not lending to their full power, does not apply to this city. Evidence to this is found in the fact that although the rules of safeguarding cash and otherwise preventing unduly alarmed persons from causing trouble are still in force, St. Paul banks are not adhering to this rule.
