MRS. L. B. GROSS.

Only Colored Female Bacteriologist in the United States.

It may not be generally known that we have in the city of St. Paul the only colored female bacteriologist in the United States, in the person of Mrs. L. B. Gross, of 419 Western avenue, who for about a year has been studying bacteriology at the Beebe Laboratories, 161-163 West Third street. Mrs. Gross is employed in the laboratories at a good salary and at the same time pursuing her studies. She had the distinction of assisting in the preparation of the tablets to fill the first war order of the United States last March.

Bacteriology is one of the courses at the State University but it costs about $2,000 to complete the three years course.

DO YOU?

- Do you believe in fire protection?
- Do you practice it in your home or place of business?
- Do you make periodical inspections of your premises, to make sure that attic, basement, store rooms and closets are in good order?
- Do you have a metal receptacle for rubbish and waste?
- Do you have metal receptacles for ashes?
- Do you have your heating plant inspected and the flues or chimneys cleaned at least once a year?
- Do you inspect your gas and electric light fixtures and extension cords occasionally?
- Do you protect your home or place of business with an approved hand extinguisher?
- Do you carry fire on your car?
- Do you keep fire insurance? Of course you do. Then you should make an effort to reduce the fire hazard by following the above suggestions.

—no matter how attractive goods & prices may look elsewhere, you never will know how much more you can get for your money here until you come and see for yourself.

would be very much against public interest, the notice goes on to say: "Colleges and universities are organized primarily to train men and women for leadership in the various activities of life and in the affairs of the nation. It is a well-known fact that college men everywhere in large numbers have been among the first to offer themselves for service in army, navy and reserve officers' training corps. These leaders may very likely be lost in the cause.

"The ranks of the universities must be kept filled in order that the nation's need be met now and at the close of the war when the need will be greatest. The period of reconstruction will make severe demands upon all educated and thoroughly trained men and women."

MINNESOTA STATE FAIR
To Be Held From September 3 to September 8 Bigger and Better Than Ever.

With the possible exception of the entertainment features, which have not yet been completely arranged for, every department of the Minnesota State Fair, to be held September 3 to 8, has reported an increased demand for space and, with the government placing exhibits for the first time, there is every reason to believe that the fair will be the biggest ever held in the country.

"All that we are worrying about this year," stated Thomas H. Canfield, Secretary-General Manager, recently, "is the weather. Give us good weather from now until the fair, and especially during the week of the fair, and we will break all records."

One of the departments that will far surpass its work of previous years is the School Exhibits Department, of which George F. Howard is superintendent. Recently Mr. Howard issued an appeal for more space, stating that the exhibits already accounted for would more than fill the space allotted to the department.

Similar conditions seem to prevail in many of the other departments and the fair managers are very optimistic indeed.

Mr. Ray P. Speer, Publicity Manager of the Minnesota State Fair, to be held this year September 3 to 8, is authority for the statement that the government food exhibits and demonstrations will materially add to the attractiveness of the annual fair.

"This food conservation movement, which will be made the chief feature of the State Fair," said Mr. Speer, who is a member of Food Administrator Hoover's advisory board, "is bigger than anything of the Northwest realize. It is, in fact, the greatest problem the government has ever had to solve and when one realizes that it covers such a broad field and takes in everything we eat and things we wear it is not difficult to see that it is an important work."

Practical demonstrations in food conservation will be held daily at the State Fair. These will be under the direction of government experts.

Citation on Petition for Letters of Administration.
STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF Ramsey. In Probate Court. In the Matter of the Estate of Mary Schropfer, Decedent.

The State of Minnesota to All Whom It May Concern: The petition of John Schropfer having been filed in this Court, representing that Mary Schropfer then a resident of the County of Ramsey, State of Minnesota, died intestate on the 22nd day of July, 1917, and praying that letters of administration of said estate be granted to John Schropfer.

It is Ordered, That said petition be read and that all persons interested in said matter be and hereby are cited and required to appear before this Court on Monday, the 20th day of August, 1917, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon or as soon thereafter as said matter can be heard at the Probate Court Room, in the Court House in the City of St. Paul, in said County, and show cause, if any they have, why said citation should not be granted and that this citation be served by the publication thereof in THIS APPEAL according to law, and by mailing a copy of this citation at least 14 days before said day of hearing to each of the heirs of said decedent whose names and addresses are known and appear from the files of this Court.

Witness the Judge of said Court, this 26th day of July, A. D. 1917.

How the Operators Pronounce Numbers

- 1—"Wun"—strong N.
- 2—"Too"—strong T and long O.
- 3—"Th-ree"—slightly rolling R and E.
- 4—"Foor"—short, with long O.
- 5—"Fiv"—long I and short V.
- 6—"Six"—strong X.
- 7—"Sev-en"—Two syllables.
- 8—"Ate"—long A and strong T.
- 9—"Nien"—short, with strong final N.
- 0—"Oh"—long O.

If you will use this method of pronunciation and then speak slowly and distinctly directly into the telephone, it will prevent most of your wrong number calls.

WAR SERVICE FOR CHILDREN.

The children as well as the grown-ups must do their bit for their country. The Minnesota State Fair Food Training Camp, Sept. 3 to 8, will devote an entire department to stimulating interest in children's work and to pointing out ways in which the children may best serve their country.

LIVE STOCK SHOW WILL BE BIG ONE

Minnesota State Fair To Co-operate With Government Officials In Campaign To Save The Fast Diminishing Producing Herds—Stock Exchange To Be Held To Bring Buyer and Seller Together.

One of the most important features of the Minnesota State Fair, which this year is to be held September 3 to 8, and which is to be conducted as a government "Food Training Camp," will be the livestock exhibits.

These exhibits have always been an important part of the State Fair, but they are made doubly important this year because of the fact that the great world war has for several years been draining the supply, especially in America, which has been obliged to feed the world almost from the very start of the struggle for humanity.

Realizing the great necessity of producing and conserving food, the government officials at Washington have joined the movement recently started to make the fairs and expositions throughout the country centers where the people can be taught these things. Especially are the government officials eager to stimulate the raising of sheep, swine, horses, cattle and poultry and they will leave no stone unturned in the effort to produce greater efficiency.

To this end the State Fair management has offered inducements in the way of attractive premiums for the best in the various branches in the livestock department.

A Livestock Exchange.

Among the various features which will interest those who are interested in the raising of stock and also those who attend the wonderful shows held each year at the fair, will be the cattle exchange, which is to be located near the livestock pavilion. This exchange will serve a double purpose; it will bring together men who have high grade cattle to sell and men who wish to buy such cattle.

The idea of instituting a cattle exchange was originated by Prof. H. H. Kildes, head of the dairy husbandry department of the Minnesota College of Agriculture, who is recognized as one of the best authorities in the country on the dairy industry, and who has long realized that stringent measures must be adopted if the producing herds of the country are to be saved. He is authority for the statement that the dairying industry of the United States is being seriously threatened by the rapidly with which the herds are being killed off and that something must be done at once to impress upon the people that they must do their share or there will be a disastrous shortage of food from those sources.

The wonderful opportunity afforded the government to spread the doctrine of production and conservation of food through the big state fairs and expositions will doubtless do more than anything else to remedy the situation which exists at present and which each year has been getting more serious.

At the Minnesota State Fair, which is to be the model "Food Training Camp" for the country and which will be copied by the other big fairs and expositions, thousands of people from all sections of the Northwest will gather and to these persons will be given the urgent message of President Woodrow Wilson—that each and every individual in the country must do his share in producing and conserving food if America and her allies are to win the titanic struggle for democracy and humanity.

Farmers and stock growers all over the West will doubtless take advantage of the opportunity to show their stock this season. The State Fair officials are of the opinion that the livestock show this year will far surpass any yet held, despite the war conditions, and that the campaign already started by the government to encourage production and conservation will have its effect.

Secretary Thomas Canfield of the Minnesota State Fair is optimistic over the prospects of the big annual show and believes that, with the government behind it to the extent of sending several exhibits and also speakers to the 1917 State Fair will be the best ever.

"We are doing everything in our power," said Mr. Canfield, "to encourage the raising and showing of livestock of all kinds. We want to cooperate with the government so as to stimulate activity, especially in the raising of stock. No efforts will be spared this year to make the displays in the different departments of the livestock section the best we have ever had. We have experts who this year will give their co-operation in every possible way and, I believe, the results of the fair will be evident in the next two or three years."
