ATTENTION.

Young gentlemen, young ladies, Old gentlemen and old ladies, any one with intelligence, and all they that desire intelligence and are desirous of and willing to aid in the formation of a literary society, conducted upon a mutual benefit basis, are invited to meet in Pilgrim Church on Thursday 8 p. m. July 2, 1885 to perfect such an organization.

We are glad to mention that the Pilgrim Baptist church has secured the services of a regular pastor, and on last Sunday evening the Rev. Byrd Wilkins was duly installed; he delivered a very eloquent discourse, taking his text from 120 Psalm, first verse; "In my distress I called unto the Lord, and he heard me."

The subject of the sermon was, the identity of Christian experiences of all ages. There was a very large attendance, and after services many accepted an invitation to make the Pastor's acquaintance. Rev. B. Wilkins is a young man of no little ability, and we heartily welcome him among us, as the harvest is ripe and the workers few. We hope he will be the means of gathering many around him in his good work.

A NEW CLUB.

On Wednesday eve last, about twenty-five of our young men met at 378 Minnesota street, and organized a club for pleasure and social entertainment. The meeting was called to order by Mr. J. H. Cunningham, who stated its objects in a few well chosen remarks; Mr. J. J. Chur was appointed president pro tem, with I. W. Evans as Sec'y. A committee on permanent organization was appointed and reported the following officers:

Thos. Jefferson, Pres.
John Garrett, Sec'y.
E. Lewis, Treas.

A committee on Constitution and By-Laws was appointed, who will report at next meeting. Addresses were delivered by Mr. John Garrett and others.

This club starts out with a goodly number of members, and we hope they may succeed.
