A COSTLY COFFIN.

The Magnificent Manner in Which a Colored Lady

Mrs. Kate Teagle was Interred.

Philadelphia, Dec. 26.—The body of Mrs. Kate Teagle, wife of West Chester's famous Colored doctor was interred at that place this morning with more pomp than has attended any recent funeral in this locality. Mrs. Teagle died of a complication of disorders at midnight last Wednesday. By an arrangement made before her death she was to-day laid out in a coffin which she had ordered and inspected herself, and which will cost her wealthy husband the sum of $1,000. In appearance it is an exact reproduction of the casket in which the body of the late Samuel J. Tilden was incased, and it comes from the same manufactory. The wood from which it is made is the very finest cedar that could be procured, heavily lined with highly tested copper. The trimmings are of the finest satin, and the pillow on which the dead woman's head rests is hand embroidered.
All the other arrangements for the funeral are upon a similar scale. The funeral director was given explicit instructions to spare no expense, and he has obeyed instructions. Fifty of the finest carriages have been engaged and a sumptuous dinner provided for those who come from a distance.
Mrs. Teagle was born a slave, but became free by the operations of the emancipation proclamation and came North shortly thereafter. She was a woman of more than ordinary capacity, and borrowing money went into the millinery business. With her savings she bought up real estate, which increased in value and finally made her rich. In her own right she was worth about $100,000 when she died. Dr. Teagle, whom she married twenty years ago, obtained a large practice as a root and herb doctor, and also amassed considerable money. To day he has an extensive list of white and colored patients who will accept medical service from no other physician.

INTERESTING EVENT.

Charleston, S. C., Dec. 22.—An event of more than ordinary interest in Episcopal religious circles occurred here yesterday. It was the ordination by Bishop Howe to the deanery of the Rev. E. N. Holdings, a young Colored theological student. Holdings is the second Colored man who has taken holy orders in the Diocese of Charleston. He is 33 years old, was born in Charleston, and educated at the Saxon School for Freedmen, established here by Northern philanthropists at the close of the war. The ordination services took place at St. Mark's, the Colored Episcopal Church of the city, the clergymen participating being Bishop Howe and the Rev. Doche, A. Porter, and J. V. Welch, white, and J. H. M. Pollard, Colored. There was only a sprinkling of white persons present.
The ordination bears directly upon the color war that has been raging in this diocese for the last ten years. This war led two years ago to the withdrawal from the diocese convention of most of the prominent clergymen. The difficulty was temporary bridged over, but the fight is expected to be renewed at the convention of 1890. The ordination of Mr. Holdings is regarded as a declaration by the clerical wing that they intend to remain steadfast for the rights of Colored brethren.

He became early interested in the anti-slavery cause, and was associated with William Lloyd Garrison in establishing the Liberator in 1831. He was the counsel for the defense of Sims, Anthony Burns and other fugitive slaves. He prepared the arguments and assisted by his counsel and suggestion at the trial of John Brown.
