New York, Sept. 4, 1876.

Dear Clarion:—A ride of ninety miles, in less than three hours, transfers one from the Centennial city to New York.

In a visit to the principal hotels, I met many familiar faces—among others, our townsmen, John W. Robinson, who is waiting the arrival of his chief salesman, Robert L. Saunders.

On the Atlantic City Great Western Road, we have to wait here, however, for the midnight express, and as it is late in the afternoon, a great fire burst out from a furniture factory just as we reached the Sherman House on the principal street.

Democratic delegation to Congress. Three heavy cheers were given for Tilden and Hendricks and three for Mississippi. It is something to be a Democrat in Vermont for the State seems to be the very hot bed of Radicalism.

Now mark the increase: In 1870, the Legislature cost $241,191 93, at least eight times as much as the average before the war, and over three times as much as in the years of 1871, the Legislature cost $218,770 45.

Thanks to the courtesy of William Pool, Esq., editor of the Gazette, we explored the papers of Niagara to-day in a few hours. We gave the back drivers a wide berth, and the average visitor has to hand over from twenty-five to fifty cents.

They are not doing any more making; they will stand by all the results of the war; they are in the Union to go out no more forever. They are laboring toly in our State for public education, without regard to color.
