VINITA, IND. TER., JUNE 14, 1894.

We risk to state again, and positively the last time, that Col. Bill Dalton is dead.

The faces of a good many boys and girls are missed since the schools have closed.

It would require a very loud-mov'd candidate to be heard in this country during this payment.

CATTLE are getting fat enough to market and several shipments have been made from this country already.

AFTER the late freeze in the spring the oat crop seemed to be a failure but a fair crop will be harvested after all.

THE way the Strip payment was conducted will be the issue in next summer's campaign; a record is being made now.

THE first peaches made their appearance on the market this week; they were shipped from Texas. The crop in this country is a total failure.

A NOTE received from Tablequah yesterday states that the payment will begin at Vinita on Wednesday, June 20th, and continue nine days.

THERE is a great deal more interest manifested in what will be the result of the Dawes commission's work in this country than who is to be the next chief of the Cherokee nation.

THE action of the city council in closing up the alleys during the payment has met general opposition by the property owners and business men of the town. The project should be abandoned.

IT is pretty safe to say that the millennium is not coming to Vinita next week, notwithstanding a large amount of money is to be turned over to the people. This town already presents the appearance of the rush onto the Strip last year.

THE element that stands for law and order has very little to do with political conventions in this country. The men as a general thing that are to be trusted the least and watched the most, are the ones who forge their way to the front seats in the public meeting.

THE delegates from the five tribes at Washington have represented to the president that the work of the Dawes commission is very unsatisfactory to the Indians. We should not wonder if the work of this commission would be still more unsatisfactory to these same Indians yet.

THOSE who live near Claremore and so desire may draw their per capita money there of course, but the statement that the people in the western part of Coowescoowee district will not be allowed to draw at Vinita is misleading and untrue. Delaware and Coowescoowee will be paid at the same time, beginning Wednesday morning, one set of clerks handling the Delaware rolls and another the Coowescoowee rolls.

RUMORS attempted to bag George Eaton's store at Claremore Monday, but made a disastrous failure. Two of the four got themselves arrested and jailed just like any ordinary sneak-thieves would have been, and the others were chased out of town and one of them wounded. The bandit business is getting more and more unpopular, not to say unsafe. The halo of glory that has hovered around the bandit of this western country is being rapidly dispelled.

WHILE the Cherokee Advocate is pitching into Byers for operating a citizenship bill it neglects to state that two leading Cherokee lawyers were arraigned at the same time and for the same offense. The lands and moneys of this nation are being peddled out to non-citizens, not only by men of Byers' stripe, but by a score or more of Cherokee lawyers. Why do they do this? Because holding lands in common make it possible for them to do it. The remedy is apparent.

REV. W. A. DUNCAN, one of our delegates in Washington City, appeared before the senate judiciary committee last week and espoused the cause of Vinita in the court contest between this place and Muskogee. No man amongst the Cherokees understands the situation here better than does Rev. Duncan and his opponents will not "catch him napping," either. If we must have more courts here, Mr. Duncan is in favor of locating the courts where they will be most convenient for his people.

DEATH OF JUDGE MASON.

Judge Charles H. Mason died at the Bechtel Hotel in this city Monday night at 11:30 o'clock. Judge Mason came to Vinita from Cannelton, Ind., in the summer of 1890, having been appointed United States commissioner for the first judicial district of the Indian Territory by Judge J. M. Shackelford. As a lawyer, a judge and an honorable and genial old gentleman, Judge Mason had an enviable reputation in Vinita. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. B. H. Grathouse at the Methodist church yesterday morning and his remains were interred in the cemetery north of town.

Judge Mason was born August 9th, 1822, in Cheshire, county, New Hampshire, and was thus nearly 72 years old. At an early age he graduated from Phillips Exeter college. Not long afterwards was admitted to the bar and began the practice in Louisville, Ky., so for nearly half a century he followed the honorable profession of an attorney at law. In 1849 he went to Perry county, Indiana, where he was soon elected judge of the court of common pleas and afterwards judge of the circuit court. For a time Judge Mason was editor of the Economist, the first newspaper ever printed in Connetton Indiana. He was also a regular correspondent of the Connetton Reporter, in which he advocated the election of United States senators by the people, a measure now becoming popular, and which he hoped to see enacted into a law before he died. During the four years of his residence in Vinita he has made many friends and his dignity and culture have made him a popular figure in our little city. Among his most intimate friends here were H. C. Barritt and wife at whose home he lived, and with whom he died, and many were the kindnesses rendered him by this family with whom he spent his last days. He leaves behind him three sisters and four brothers, none of whom could be present at his obsequies. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Isabella De la Hunt, who was principally raised by him, and her son, Mr. Thos. J. De la Hunt, came Tuesday and joined the people of Vinita in paying a tribute of respect to his memory.

THERE has been some trouble at Tablequah, caused by the action of brokers who are buying per capita shares at $255, a discount of $10.70. A man from any district signs a power of attorney for his money. It is then sent to the treasury and if the number in family, etc., is correct an "O. K." is put on it, when the money is paid by the brokers. This makes it practically impossible for the merchants to collect their doubtful accounts. The brokers seem to be using the same money as the treasurer, which gives the transaction a bad appearance. The question of validity of such a power of attorney was referred to Attorney General Hastings and he decided in the brokers' favor. The rush is over, but there are many on the rolls that have not yet appeared for their money. Payment will probably not begin at Vinita before Wednesday morning. The whole of Coowescoowee and Delaware can easily be paid in the nine days allotted to this place.

THE national party of Coowescoowee district held a convention at Claremore last week and elected delegates to the general convention in August at which time candidates for principal and assistant chief and circuit judge will be nominated. The delegation was instructed for Judge H. T. Landrum for chief and Johnson Spade for assistant chief; J. M. Keys, judge.

STRAIGHT TALK.

Some Wholesome Words From Capt. McKennon.

Capt. McKennon of the Dawes commission, in a speech at Purcell last week, among other good things said:

"Now I ask you my friends what is the condition of affairs to-day? Under the present laws a few are growing rich. I ask you if our government would not be justified in giving these good people their rights. These land holders talk about the sacred treaty. Why, they are growing rich off the people's land while the ones who own the land are really getting nothing out of it. Now I think this is enough on this point because there is a great deal to talk about and you will have to exercise a good deal of patience, for we want to talk to you about all these things, and then when we are gone away you can think of these matters and talk of them and make any suggestion that you wish."

Now, as I said before, we find this country in a very bad condition, and if this condition should remain five or ten years longer it would be almost impossible to adjust it without a revolution. I will ask the Indian citizens that are here to-day, can this remain always? and you say no. Well then, if there is to come an end when shall it come? I will answer, now, because every day that it goes on it makes things more difficult to a just these matters, and it becomes our duty to attend to these matters now. I tell you, my friends, when you take this matter in hand even now it is the most difficult problem on earth to solve. I tell you you have no idea the importance it brings to the commission."

We have gone to the authorities and pleaded with them and endeavored to make propositions with them and get them to help us with this work so their people might be protected, but they have been as indifferent as the rock of Gibraltar. The love of gain has consumed all their other faculties and they are going on in their dishonorable way to gain wealth. Now you understand we have asked these people earnestly to take hold with us. If they would select good men you see how much responsibility it would relieve us of? But they say the end is not yet. They send their delegates to Washington to represent the Choctaw and Chickasaw people. Who are they representing? They go and represent themselves. Hereafter they will have a very poor hearing. Now what are we going to do with this?

We are going to protect these people and we will do most anything they want us to do to protect them and their rights.

The Indian's title to this land in the territory is just as perfect as the people's in the states are to their land. There isn't an inch of land but what the Indian has an absolute title to. We mean to protect the land among you in the most equitable way possible. In the Cherokee country there will be about 170 acres to the head, and about one-half of that is suitable for cultivation. So you see there is no more land than they should have for them to make homes; therefore there is nothing there for the white man. Now come down to the Creek nation; they have about 200 acres to the head, about one-half fit for cultivating purposes. Go on down to the Seminole, poor creatures, they have got a piece of land that rests over a ridge like an old-fashioned saddle pocket used to rest upon the old poor pony. They need it all. Now the Chickasaws and Choctaws have about six or seven hundred acres to the head. We might say it would be a good thing to give them 100 acres apiece; but they are opposed to anything of this kind, and they are decidedly opposed to it, and we propose to let them do just as they please with it.

The Chickasaws Speak.

The following resolutions were adopted at Purcell upon the occasion of the visit of Capt. McKennon to that place:

WHEREAS,—It is the policy of the United States to enact such legislation as shall establish territorial government over the five civilized tribes of Indians, and provide for an equal division of lands between the members of said tribes, and

WHEREAS, we believe that the various influences which have been brought to bear upon the congress of the United States, directed toward the dissolution of tribal autonomy and the abolition of community tenure of lands and funds have now developed a crisis in our affairs in which we see that prudence and the exercise of our best judgment requires us to prepare and provide for the inevitable changes, therefore be it

Resolved, 1st.—That while the common sentiment of the Indian people is positively opposed to the radical changes proposed by the United States; that these demands are unequal, unnecessary and unjust to the Indians; that we have a right to the full, free and uninterrupted enjoyment of our present form of government and land tenure and protection in the same as guaranteed by treaty stipulations with the United States; we realize that we are placing our best interests in jeopardy by attempting to prolong the present form of government in direct opposition to the avowed purpose of the United States.

2. That we earnestly advocate the acceptance of the last proposition of the Dawes commission as the best policy we can pursue; that we understand the proposition provides for an equal division of lands and the equitable adjustment of leases and investments in mining lands and townships; that the lands shall be divided among the Indians at the expense of the United States; that all trust funds shall be distributed between the members of the tribes by a United States officer; that all claims of the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations against the United States shall be adjusted and settled in full and Indians be located upon their lands, and our present government continue until all these promises are fulfilled.

3. We desire to state to the United States commission our appreciation of the conscientious efforts made by them in our behalf to secure for us full protection in our property rights, and that the great obstruction to the success of their mission here is made by boudle politicians and coal mine monopolies; that their pretended belief in the perpetuation of Indian autonomy, even for a limited number of years, is not made in good faith, but is promulgated for the purpose of obstructing the settlement of these pending questions, with a view to securing for themselves personal gains, usually by corrupt methods and fraudulent schemes in our legislatures, robbing our people of enormous sums of money, as took place in the distribution of the "net proceeds" fund and also in the enormous wrong of granting to the Chickasaw and Choctaw National railway an extensive land grant by bribing a sufficient number of council members to pass the bill; also in granting charters to enormous areas of mining and mineral lands to a few individuals.
