DR. BAKERS, Great Vegetable

Blood and Liver Cure

Scrofula, Syphilis, Rheumatism, And all other diseases arising from tainted and impure blood with special action on the liver, kidneys, genital and urinary organs.

Cures Catarrh, Piles, Etc.

It positively cures all blood and skin diseases, inflammation of the kidneys and liver, chronic liver complaints, diseases of the bladder, pains in the back, irregular periods, convulsions, female complaints, change of life, impotency and dropsy.

It has proved almost infallible in heart disease, dyspepsia and in diseases caused by derangement of the kidneys and liver and impurities of the blood.

The medicine cures all classes of cold sores, also cures piles and catarrh, fever and ague. Death to malaria.

This is a new medicine; there has not been a bottle of it on west side of Mississippi river until I came here and made it. It is purely vegetable, is made of roots of the woods and will cure everything it is advertised to cure where the parties take enough of the medicine and follow the directions. It is entirely harmless and is the best medicine discovered for all diseases common to Indians. Sold at

The Muskogee Phoenix says: "We understand that Judge Stuart ruled in a case in court at South McAlester last week that an Indian who has taken the oath of allegiance of the United States becomes in every sense a citizen of that government, with all of the additional privileges and duties of a United States citizen, while it does not deprive him of the advantages or responsibilities of Indian citizenship. An Indian who has become a citizen of the United States is not a citizen of the same tribe in the United States court, or such citizens may sue him there in like manner, the same as if he were a white man. Or he may sue or be sued in like manner in the Indian courts. In making this ruling Judge Stuart reverses the ruling of Judge Shackelford, who construed the law providing for Indians to become citizens of the United States without impairing their Indian citizenship, only gave them the additional protection of the United States in their dealings with others outside of their own nation. This is one of the most important rulings that Judge Stuart has made and will probably open up a great deal of business to the court."

THE CHINESE CURE-ALL

Superstitious Belief in the Virtues of Ginseng.

To the Chinese ginseng is a whole pharmacopoeia, possessing all the virtues of every known medication, and they place a high value on it, particularly, as a curative agent in dyspepsia, vomiting, nervous disorders. They carry it about with them, chewing it whenever they feel the need of a stimulant, but its chief consumption is in the form of an infusion. The Chinese ginseng differs slightly from the American variety, the latter being somewhat larger, and possibly possessing properties not found in the latter, but each is almost identical with the other in shape, and a description of the American variety, as given in the Pharmacopoeia, applies to both. It is a species of panax belonging, as its name implies to the natural order araliaceae. The root is perennial, sending up annually a smooth, round stem, terminating in a branched, which bear compound leaves of five leaflets and yellowish green or white flowers. The American root, like the Chinese ginseng, or aralia panax, bears a slight resemblance to the body of a man, with head and arms, the latter being a little brown color, the interior being white. It has a faint, sweetish odor, and its taste is sweet and slightly aromatic. Its component parts are starch, gum, albumen, resin and a sweet principal, "panaxin" at panax, a derivative of panacea.

Chemical examination has failed to substantiate any of the claims made for ginseng by the Chinese, and but for the export trade with that people it is highly questionable whether the root would have any commercial value in this country. All that European and American therapeutists are willing to concede is that it may possibly have some value as a mild stomachic. From colonial times the gathering and preparing of the root for market has formed an important industry in certain parts of America. It is found in Canada and thence as far south as Georgia, flourishing only in the cool woods of hilly countries. The method of gathering is a process of cultivation, for the root is dug as soon as the shoots appear above ground in the ear-

GROCERIES!

In good times people buy what they wish; in bad times they buy what they must. When money comes most easily it goes most readily; but when a silver dollar looks as large as a Kansas Jimmi-cape and is fearfully lonesome its owner clings to it until he finds a bargain. He has a big dollar and wants a big dollar's worth, and he is right. We have endeavored at all times to sell Groceries and Provisions at prices that satisfied the most exacting. And now with a fair prospect of good crops, together with the Strip money floating around, we are still in the front. We want your trade, and if low prices and fair dealing be any inducement we are bound to have it. You will find everything that may be had at a first-class Grocery Establishment. Call and see what the purchasing power of a dollar will do for you.
