FANCIES OF FASHION

COSTUMES SANCTIONED BY THE LEADERS OF SOCIETY.

Fichu Collarette That Makes Ideal Shoulder Wrap—Jacket for the Morning—Handsome Waists of White Lace Very Much in Favor.

For Morning Wear.

House jackets made with yokes that extend well over the shoulders are among the latest shown and are tasteful and becoming as well as fashionable. The very pretty model illustrated combines pink and white dimity with white lawn, the big dots being embroidered and all edges finished with fancy braid; but the design is an admirable one for all seasons and for all materials in vogue for garments of the sort. To make the jacket for a woman of medium size will be required $4\frac{1}{2}$ yards of material 27, 4 yards 32 or 2 $\frac{3}{4}$ yards 44 inches wide, with $\frac{3}{4}$ yard 32 inches wide for yoke and cuffs.

Handsome Waists of White Lace.

Very handsome autumn waists are made of liberty satin and these waists are not necessarily expensive. They may be in a deep shade of oyster white, trimmed with pale white lace, and finished with applications of lace of a deep shade of ecru.

It is very fashionable to make lace waists of half a dozen shades of white lace and to use the lace as one would use flounces of silk, with one flounce falling over the other.

Lace, in a shade of lemon white, is applied with medallions of lace in blue-white, while the whole is embroidered in stitches that are in a shade of pearl. This gives several shades of white and makes the waist much smarter than if it were all of a single tone.

It is very smart, indeed, to fasten your white girdle with small black velvet buttons. Set a double row of these buttons at the side and hook your girdle invisibly underneath. A white satin stock is secured in the same manner, by invisible fastenings, with double rows of black velvet buttons at each side of the stock.

Care for Light Colors.

To preserve light colors in shirt waists that are built of wash goods the amateur laundress is advised to soak the waists in a gallon of cold water to which has been added a handful of salt. Allow them to soak for fifteen or twenty minutes, then hang up in the shade to dry. When once dry colored cotton goods can be washed without fading, provided a little care is used.

Costume of Noted Beauty.

A cloth suit was worn by Miss May Schwartz, who was voted Queen of Beauty at the Mardi Gras carnival at New Orleans a year ago. Her hat was a fine white straw, with a low crown, rather round, with pale blue flowers all around it. The hat was draped with a pale blue chiffon automobile veil. This was caught round to the back and crossed and tied again in a bow in the front. The frock had an Eton jacket reaching to the waist, with each seam strapped with bias folds of the cloth. The sleeves were bell shaped, also strapped and flaring at the elbow, where they were cut off and showed the dainty full white shirt waist sleeve worn beneath. The skirt was a tight-fitting, strapped one, cut walking length, and Miss Schwartz wore white stockings and shoes and carried a pale blue silk parasol.

Boudoir Confidences

French blue is notable among fashionable colors.

The fashionable gloves are champagne or pure white.

Spotted and pastille materials continue to be popular.

Tiny spangled fans in the geisha size come for the hair.

The lace and linen suits are two-thirds lace and one-third linen.

Plain shirt waists are the only kind in vogue for outdoor sports.

Bolera jackets of Irish lace are worn with any handsome linen skirt.

Neckties made of rows of amber, jet, cornelian or amethyst are again worn.

Many sleeves are lifted at the armholes to give a high, square-shouldered effect.

Eton coats, Russian blouses and short sacks of black glace silk are very smart.

Elbow sleeves, consisting of three puffs, each separated by a fall of lace, are smart.

Long coats are surely creeping back into vogue—if, indeed, they can be said ever to have gone out.

Fichu Collarettes.

Collarettes of all sorts are much in demand and make ideal little shoulder wraps that add grace and charm at the same time that they mean slight warmth. This one is peculiarly attractive and takes the fichu form so much in vogue. As illustrated it is made of net banded with ribbon applied to form diamonds and is finished with frills and ties of chiffon, also ribbon banded. It can, however, be made from one material or from various combinations. The cape portion of silk, the frills of chiffon or net makes one that always is attractive and many others might be suggested.

The collarette consists of the cape, two frills and the scarf. The upper frill is applied over the cape on indicated lines, the lower is attached to its edge and passes over the upper ends of the scarf, so giving a peculiarily full and desirable effect at the front.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is $4\frac{1}{2}$ yards 21 inches wide, or 2 yards 44 inches wide, with $\frac{3}{4}$ yard of any width for the cape and 60 yards of ribbon to make as illustrated.

The Father of American Golf.
Robert Lockhart, a New York linen merchant, who died recently in his native Scotland, may well be spoken of with reverence and gratitude on every link in this country, for he was golf's missionary to the United States. He arrived in New York when he was 20 years old. He was devoted to tennis, in its brief term of favor, and when that wanted he brought back from a trip to Scotland two sets of golf clubs, from Tom Morris, called "the grand old man of Scottish golf." He brought his neighbors together under an apple tree in Yonkers, instructed them in the game, exhibited its points in action, and the "Apple-tree gang" soon formed the St. Andrews Golf club, the first in this country. And American golfers will go out of their way, when visiting the other side, to see the tomb of Robert Lockhart in Dunfermline abbey.

Instead of Wedding Cake.
In place of wedding cake in Holland wedding sweets are given—"bruidzuikers" they are called. They are handed round by children and are served in flower-trimmed baskets.

AS EASY
Needs Only a Little Thinking.

The food of childhood often decides whether one is to grow up well nourished and healthy or weak and sickly from improper food.

It's just as easy to be one as the other provided we get a proper start.

A wise physician like the Denver Doctor who knew about food, can accomplish wonders provided the patient is willing to help and will eat only proper food.

Speaking of this case the Mother said her little four year old boy was suffering from a peculiar derangement of the stomach, liver and kidneys and his feet became so swollen he couldn't take a step. "We called a Doctor who said at once we must be very careful as to his diet as improper food was the only cause of his sickness. Sugar especially, he forbid.

"So the Dr. made up a diet and the principal food he prescribed was Grape-Nuts and the boy, who was very fond of sweet things took the Grape-Nuts readily without adding any sugar. (Dr. explained that the sweet in Grape-Nuts is not at all like cane or beet sugar but is the natural sweet of the grains.)

"We saw big improvement inside a few days and now Grape-Nuts are almost his only food and he is once more a healthy, happy, rosy-cheeked youngster with every prospect to grow up into a strong healthy man." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The sweet of Grape-Nuts is the Nature-sweet known as Post Sugar, not digested in the liver like ordinary sugar, but pre-digested. Feed the youngsters a handful of Grape-Nuts when Nature demands sweet and prompts them to call for sugar.

There's a reason.
