HAWAIIAN GAZETTE AN INDEPENDENT JOURNAL.

DEVOTED TO HAWAIIAN PROGRESS. PUBLISHED AND EDITED BY HENRY M. WHITNEY.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 30. HURRAH!

AMERICA AND HAWAII! (From the S. F. Chronicle, Aug. 27.)

Last night's dispatches brought us the gratifying intelligence that the Act to carry into effect the Reciprocity Treaty with the Hawaiian Islands had passed the Senate by a vote of 29 to 11.

The glorious news at last! Hurrah! OUR LUCK STILL "CONSISTENT"

ARRIVAL OF THE P. M. S. CITY OF SAN FRANCISCO. BRINGING THE NEWS OF THE PASSAGE OF THE BILL RENDERING OPERATIVE The Treaty of Reciprocity!!!

THE TREATY GOES INTO EFFECT AS SOON AS THE BILL IS SIGNED BY THE PRESIDENT!

PRESIDENT GRANT SIGNED THE BILL ON TUESDAY OF LAST WEEK, AUGUST 15th.

HIP! HIP! HIP! HURRAH!!! WITH A TIGER.

Yesterday afternoon, August 24th, at 1:30 P. M., the approach of the P. M. S. City of San Francisco, Captain Waddell was telegraphed from the outer station.

It being understood that she would bring news of the fate of the treaty either for weal or for woe, the announcement caused much excitement, and her appearance was awaited with solicitude.

When she rounded Diamond Head, and it was discovered that she was decked with a rainbow of bunting from bowsprit to stern, all were confident that she was the bearer of good tidings, and enthusiasm ran high.

The news spread like wild-fire through the town, and when shortly after three o'clock she entered the harbor, and the news for which we have for eighteen long months watched and waited that the Treaty Bill has passed the Senate, and had been signed by the President, reached the large crowd on the wharf the popular joy was intense, men's hearts jubilated to be too full for utterance—the town was jubilant. We give below full particulars of the passage of the Treaty, with the list of the votes and yeas.

The measure met with bitter opposition at the last moment from Morrill of Vermont and several of the southern senators. The former, endeavoring with deep-laid malignity to introduce an amendment which would have necessitated its return to the House, and a postponement of its passage for another year; but he was out-generaled by Sargent, who, together with Luttrell has labored most heroically in our behalf.

Both of these gentlemen have earned the lasting gratitude of Hawaii. Great credit is also due to our friends in California, who, seeing the imminent danger that the Treaty was in, brought a powerful pressure to bear upon the Senate. Blow will be found copies of two petitions which were forwarded by them to Washington on the 9th and 10th insts. The following letter from the Hawaiian Consul at San Francisco will be read with interest.

San Francisco, Aug. 15, 1876. To Mr. H. M. WHITNEY, Honolulu.

DEAR SIR.—You will be glad to learn of the passage of our Bill to carry into effect the Treaty. The Press here has the news in advance of anything official sent to me. I expect an answer from our Envoy at Washington every moment, to leave when the Treaty becomes operative.

We owe a debt of lasting gratitude to Senator Sargent and Congressman Luttrell. Every effort to co-operate with our Pacific Coast delegation and to urge a vote on the Bill has been made by means of strong petitions got up and signed, and transmitted to Washington at great expense and labor by our friends in this city, and the result has convinced all the friends of Hawaii here, that without the political influence we secured in our petitions coming right from the Republican Convention in session, the passage of the Bill would have been very doubtful in the Senate.

Both, as you observe, voted against the Bill, his being the only dissenting vote from the whole Pacific Coast. His greatness, if he ever had any, has vanished.

Great thanks are due to San Francisco for her interests, in short had not Sargent and this city stood by us the Bill could not have passed.

Mr. Williams, Mr. Blanchard, Mr. Welch, Mr. Diamond, Mr. Phillips, Mr. Hyman have stood by us nobly, and I have added my humble efforts at all times.

I enclose copy of the two petitions, which represent a political and financial capital, large as any man could desire. With congratulations, very respectfully.

H. W. SEVERANCE. P.S.—President Grant signed the Bill on the 15th.—H. W. S.

San Francisco Influence. SAN FRANCISCO, AUG. 9, 1876. HON. A. S. ARGENT, Washington, D. C.

The political and commercial interests of this coast demands passage of the Hawaiian Treaty Bill this session, its failure will be most disastrous to the interests of Republican Unity.

Signed by—Geo. G. Blanchard, Alex. R. Athell, T. G. Phelps, N. W. Spaulding, Ira P. Rankin, W. T. Whitton, Louis Stow, E. H. Parise.

SAN FRANCISCO, AUG. 19, 1876. The Hon. the Senate of the United States, Washington D. C., and Hon. A. S. Argent.

The honor of the Country, its national and Commercial interests urge Hawaiian Treaty Bill, we the undersigned humbly pray for immediate action.

Signed—Horace Davis, L. Friedlander, D. O. Mills, A. Hecht, Strauss & Co., A. M. Sack & Co., Redington & Co., Jno. Sedgwick, W. most of them resorted to Honolulu to get their supplies, and of late years they have discharged their cargoes there, for shipment to the East in other vessels. The Americans have from the first had a large majority among the whalers of the North Pacific, usually from three-fourths to four-fifths, so that the whaling trade was predominantly American.

The destruction of a large part of the whaling fleet by a Confederate cruiser, in the time of the civil war, was felt almost as severely in Honolulu as in New Bedford, where most of the vessels were owned.

Whatever increase there may be in the productions or commerce of the islands will pay a profit to this city for the commercial and other relations between this port will now be more intimate than ever before. Hawaii will require more laborers in its sugar plantations, and will come hither for white men as well as Chinamen. A little emigration to the islands may be expected immediately; and some whites, who have been afraid they would have to leave Honolulu, will now remain.

The Debate on the final passage of the Treaty.

When the Hawaiian bill came up, Norwood of Georgia, continued his remarks against it. He argued that there is no inducement for acquiring the Hawaiian Islands as an outpost in the Pacific Ocean. It had been asserted that the population of the Islands had been rapidly decreasing, and if the Bill is passed the Islands will naturally fall into our hands.

He denied that the rapid decrease of population was of the per centum claimed, and said that even if it was, at that rate it would take fourteen years, with the present population of 40,000, to dwindle down to 30,000. He quoted from the book of Nordhoff at length to show the condition of affairs in the Hawaiian Islands, and argued that the production of sugar there was weighed down with difficulties which did not exist anywhere else. He said it was the most remarkable fact in the whole world, that the King of a country with which a treaty had been negotiated, had a Minister here urging the passage of the measure, which that Minister argued would be the destruction of the kingdom to which he represented. He argued that this measure was urged by the Hawaiian government for pecuniary advantage. That country would reap the benefit of the sugar which it produced, and the United States would be the sufferers. In his opinion King Kalakaua had far more State-craft than the United States, and he knew that the passage of the bill would be a benefit to the Kingdom. The effect of the bill would be to give to the Hawaiian Islands a bonus of $1,000,000 a year, and it would increase the high price in the way of the sugar being acquired by the United States. He said that the Chinese on the islands were on the increase. Cattle labor was increasing, and sugar the staple of the islands, and he said that it would only get a rate of Chinese coolies and laborers. The people of his section were more interested in the defeat of the bill than all of the rest of the United States besides. To take the duty off rice would be to diminish its price below the cost of production in this country, and 300,000 people were dependent on the production of rice in South Carolina, Georgia and Louisiana, and the interests of all the people would be injured by the passage of the bill.

Morrill of Vermont, then addressed the Senate in opposition to the bill, and said that it had been argued by the Senator from California (Sargent) that there was something of honor involved in its passage at the present time, and that it would be a credit to the nation. He said that the Senate was independent of the Executive, as it was of the House, and in his opinion it was the duty of the Senate to oppose the bill, and to prevent its passage. He argued that the passage of the bill would set disastrously upon the production of sugar in the South, and he would do nothing to strike down the interests of our Southern brethren. Instead of discouraging the growth of sugar in the South, Congress should, by every possible means, encourage it. He thought this might be considered as one of the worst bargains ever presented to the American people.
