

COMMERCIAL.

HONOLULU, MARCH 22, 1887. Business during the past week cannot be said to have improved...

Late advices from San Francisco do not indicate any improvement in the sugar market...

The receipts of sugar and rice still continue good, and the few vessels in port awaiting cargo are assured of quick dispatch.

The planters report plenty on the different islands and the young cane promises well.

The Water Front. Last week great activity prevailed all along the water front in the handling of sugar...

There were only four departures during the week for San Francisco, each taking a full cargo of sugar...

The Zealandia, besides her freight list, had some fifty-two passengers for this port.

The arrivals from foreign ports during the week were: The whole bark Andrew Hicks from San Francisco on the 14th...

Kahoolawe.

The new ranch on Kahoolawe is doing well. There are some 800 cattle running there.

These are said to be of excellent quality and abundant. The great drawback on this island has, hitherto, been the lack of water.

This has now been completely overcome. There are five excellent wells giving an abundant supply of water for all the animals on the ranch.

Kahoolawe bids fair to become a very prosperous little spot.

Blue Ribbon League.

Saturday evening the Blue Ribbon League held its weekly meeting at Y. M. C. A. Hall.

An interesting programme of events was presented to a good audience. Mrs. W. Hopper gave a reading, which was loudly endorsed and responded to.

Hon. A. F. Judd delivered an able address on temperance. There was also some excellent singing, which was thoroughly appreciated and encored.

Fatal Accident.

The two-year-old child of Binto Enos, a Portuguese, living at the top of Emma street, was fatally burned on Monday, March 10th.

It appears that the mother was outside attending to household matters, and had left the child in the cook house.

On returning she found that the poor little thing had opened the stove and had burned itself frightfully. Medical aid was summoned, but the poor child died on Wednesday afternoon.

A New Record of Sport.

At Waialuku, Maui, on the 17th, the public were treated to a brutal kind of race, which is not in high favor with people of the 19th century.

A gentleman, say the name, on horseback, drove his wife through the principal street of that place bare headed, lashing her occasionally with a black-male whip.

Of course every one who witnessed the brutal scene was disgusted, and the only wonder is that he did not treat the poor creature worse.

It has the boasted civilization of the group come to naught, or taken a step backward. It would seem by the above that some people can do as they please in Waialuku, and no notice is taken of it by the authorities.

The Lus Hawaiian and the Public Schools.

For favoring the task of instruction amongst the Portuguese school children, the Lus Hawaiian publishes two selections, one English to be translated into Portuguese, and the Portuguese to be rendered into English.

The attention thus given to educational matter by the Lus is worthy of the warmest eulogies and support.

Fatal Accident at Kauai.

At Kilauea, Kauai, a fatal accident occurred, resulting in the death of F. Harrington, Chief Officer of the Inter Island steamer Waialeale.

About 8:30 of the morning of the 15th, a large case of bolts was being hoisted out of the hold for landing, when, by the rolling of the vessel, the package swung across the deck, and struck Harrington, striking him in the abdomen and sending him against the donkey engine.

He was immediately cared for, but did not complain. However, Captain Weir had him conveyed ashore soon after, where he was placed under the most careful nursing possible.

It was done to alleviate his sufferings. He lingered until the morning of the 17th, expiring at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Macfie and his assistants also done all that was possible for the injured man. The deceased was buried at Kilauea the same afternoon.

He was a native of Massachusetts, and was aged about 28 years.

Improvements in Sugar Making.

Mr. Alex. Young, of the Honolulu Iron Works, who has made many improvements in the past, and was instrumental in introducing the maceration process to the notice of the planters, has completed an anti-pollution boiler, which bids fair to become popular with all sugar boilers in the group.

It has been introduced at the Waialeale Sugar Mill, Hawaii, and practically tested with the best results. A sugar was produced by it which is simple in construction, and easy to work.

Young started for the States by the Australia on Wednesday last in connection with his invention. He had previously taken steps to secure it by patent in the United States and Spanish possessions, and has also patented the same in this Kingdom.

Sugar makers will appreciate the value of this mechanical contrivance to them, as the price of sugar increases in the ratio of polarization in excess of 96 degrees.

Death of an Old Resident.

The many friends of Mr. Hugh McIntyre were painfully surprised to hear on Sunday, the 20th, of the death of this gentleman, which occurred at Honolulu on the 19th instant.

Mr. McIntyre had gone to California to enjoy the cooler weather, and advised by the Australia to the effect that he was getting along well. Shortly after he was taken ill, which culminated in his death on the 19th.

His old-time friend, A. P. Everett, formerly of this city, and the best medical skill was brought to bear on his case without avail. His remains were brought to this city by the Zealandia, and interred Sunday afternoon in Nuuanu Cemetery.

His funeral was attended by a large concourse of citizens. Rev. Mr. Cruzan officiated at the residence and Rev. Mr. Ogden at the grave.

Here is another of the old pioneers in this city who has passed away in his final hour, leaving few of his kind behind.

The late Mr. McIntyre was a native of Greenock, Scotland, and arrived here first March 17, 1846, and, with a slight interruption, has continued to reside in this city since.

He early embarked in the grocery business, which he successfully carried on until succeeded by his sons, H. E. and George McIntyre. The deceased leaves a wife, two daughters and three sons to mourn his loss, and the public will miss his kind and genial presence from their midst.

Y. M. C. A.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Committee reports were all read and approved.

Mr. C. M. Cooke, for the Finance Committee reported on the state of the finances, up to the close of the year, viz: Estimated receipts, $297.04; estimated expenditures, $397.04—leaving a deficiency of $100.

Respectfully submitted, ROBERT MCKENZIE.
