A horse kicked H. S. Shafer, of the Freemeyer House, Middleburg, N. Y., on the knee, which laid him up in bed and caused the knee joint to become stiff. A friend recommend-Balm, which he did, and in two days was able to be around. Mr. Shafer has recommended it to many others

A SAD DEATH.

Mr. Charles Turner Passes Away at Auckland, New Zealand.

The sad news of the death of Charles Turner, well known here, arrived on the Alameda yesterday.

Mr. Turner's body was sent here for burial. Mrs. Turner, a sister of C. M. Cooke of this city, was compelled to remain in Auckland, but will come here in the near future.

The following account of Mr. Turner's death appeared in the Auckland Herald:

We regret to have to announce the death of Mr. Charles Turner, the well known operatic singer, which took place at twenty minutes past one o'clock this morning. The deceased gentleman caught a severe cold on the passage across from Sydney, but it was not thought to be serious. He was able to take part in the opening performance of his company at the Opera House on Monday evening, the 2d instant, but it was then apparent that he was far from well, and it was with difficulty that he succeeded in going through the performance. On the following day he was much worse, and had to take to his bed. Congestion of the lungs ensued, and although all that the best medical skill and most careful could do was done he continued to sink, and expired at his hotel as stated at an early hour this morning, his wife and Mr. Farley, Mr. H. Cross (manager), and one or two other members of the company being present. Much sympathy will be felt for Mrs. Turner in her sad bereavement.

Mr. Turner came of a musical family, his brother James, also a fine tenor singer, being still at the head of one of the best opera companies in Great Britain, playing practically the same parts as Charles Turner. Both were with the noted Carl Rosa Opera Company in its best days. In 1880 the deceased married Miss Annis Montague, then one of the prima donne of the company named, and the same year came out to Australia. Prior to his marriage, however, he had visited and sung in South Africa. In 1885 a return was made to England, where both Mr. and Mrs. Turner again appeared in grand opera. But the Home climate did not suit Mr. Turner, and he was compelled to return South of the line. This he did by way of America, where a long series of engagements were fulfilled. Then, after a brief stay at Honolulu, Mrs. Turner's home, Australia was made their headquarters. This last tour was the third Mr. and Mrs. Turner had undertaken in New Zealand. The deceased gentleman was comparatively young, being not yet 50 years of age, and it is thought by his medical attendants that the cold which ended so fatally must have been hanging about him for nearly a year.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from the residence of Mr. J. B. Atherton.
Many sympathizing friends were present, including the aged mother of the bereaved widow. Shortly before the hour named the body, enclosed in a heavy metal coffin, was brought from the undertaker rooms and placed on the center of the spacious lanai, lovely flowers surrounding it. The service opened with the hymn, "Jesus! Lover of My Soul," beautifully sung by Mrs.
J. H. Paty, Mrs. A. F. Judd, Messrs. J. T. Waterhouse, Jr., and H. F. Wichman, Mr. Wray Taylor accompanying on the piano. The Rev. Mr. Penrose then offered prayer, after which the Rev. Hiram Bingham read from the Scriptures, and also made a few remarks in sympathy with the occasion.
After another hymn, "Thy Will be Done," the coffin was carried to the hearse by eight stalwart policemen.
The pallbearers were Messrs. J. H.
Paty, F. J. Lowrey, Henry Berger, Wray Taylor, George P. Castle and F. W. Macfarlane. The remains were taken to the Kawaiahaeo cemetery, and as they entered the grounds the Hawaiian Band played Handel's Dead March in Saul.
The choir sang the hymn "Rock of Ages," and then the Rev. Mr. Bingham committed the body to its last resting place, the benediction concluding the service.

The American yacht Vigilant has been very unlucky in English waters, having been beaten six times in succession by the Britannia. This looks bad for the sporting fame of the United States.
The Yale athletes, however, who are now at Oxford, are expected to do something to redeem the national glory.

On the 7th inst., when the Mono-wa reached San Francisco, a big force of men were put at work discharging the cargo with the intention of having her sail in the afternoon for Vancouver with the Eastern and English mail. Later in the day, however, that project was abandoned and the rushing work was stopped. The mail was sent to catch the Canadian Pacific trains on the steamer Umatilla which left the next day.
