A GOOD ACCOUNT BY AUTHORITY.

First Washington Man Writes of Fighting.

Moving on Sheltered Natives—Some Gallant Charges—Capture of Field Pieces.
James J. Butler, a member of the First Washington Regiment now in Manila, writes to M. Loala of this city as follows:
Our company went out on outpost duty the night of February 4th near blockhouse No. 11. We arrived there at about 7 o'clock and spread our blankets for the night. About 9:15 we heard shots near blockhouse No. 2 on our left. About 2 o'clock they commenced firing at us, but we did not fire a shot until daylight. About 10 o'clock five companies came out and took their places on the firing line with us.
On the right, about two hundred yards in front of us, was a creek waist deep. On the opposite side the natives had a strong breastwork. At daylight we commenced to shoot, and I tell you it was something awful. The bullets flew thick and fast over and around us. After firing about half an hour we commenced to advance. We had no breastworks to get behind. The best we could do was to lie flat on the ground. At last we reached their breastworks. Nearly all the boys dipped their guns in the water to cool them off. Soon after we started on the move again. We drove those fellows clear up to the Pasig river, where a number of them tried to swim across and were drowned.
Companies I and G had a hard fight also during this time. They went through rice fields and charged a small hill where the natives had a strong breastwork. Here is where they killed over eighty men in one place. We went over an open field of 800 yards and through the woods to the river. Companies I and G captured the field piece while they were throwing shells at us. The First Washington, together with the California and Idaho regiments, belong to Gen. King's brigade. At the Santa Ana headquarters of the Philippines we found over 5000 knives.
We went into the trenches at San Pedro and stayed there for some time, having a small fight every day until the Regulars arrived. We then moved to Guadaloupe, but the natives didn't stay long enough to give us a fight.
We are now near Manila and shall move into the city soon. Stamps and paper are scarce. This paper I found in a hut before we burned it.
METEOROLOGICAL RECORD.
