

PUBLIC LANDS

President Dole Writes Upon Them.

Abstract of His Views as Published in the Last Issue of the Independent.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—(Afternoon Service).—In this week's issue of the Independent appears an article upon "Hawaiian Public Lands," by Sanford B. Dole, President of Hawaii. Following is an abstract:

"In the year 1829 Kamehameha III. issued a proclamation granting to the Hawaiian people the right of acquiring real estate and other property and holding the same without interference. During the year 1848 terms of division of the lands of the kingdom were arranged, after much deliberation, between the King, the chiefs and the people. These, briefly, were as follows:

"To the King a third, to the chiefs a third, and to the people a third. The number of holdings taken up by the common people came up to 11,132, aggregating 25,658 acres and averaging 2.57 acres apiece. A considerable number of the small holdings so acquired have since passed into the hands of foreigners through direct sales or mortgages. The lands of the chiefs have also largely become the property of foreigners by the same methods.

"In the year 1884 the Legislature enacted a law providing for the sale of homesteads to such persons as wished them for permanent occupation. The administration, however, was so little in sympathy with the policy of this law that no action was taken under it until 1888, when the new administration, which had come into power under the revolution of the previous year, took vigorous measures to carry out its provisions. Up to the time of the enactment of new land legislation, in 1895, about 524 homesteads were taken up, aggregating 8,488 acres and appraised at $98,047, or about $8 per acre, and averaging 15.9-10 acres, and a value of $127 apiece.

"The land act of 1895 was far more comprehensive than anything that had preceded it, and covered the whole administration of the public lands, excepting town and forest lands, parks and roads. The settlement of individuals on small holdings was its predominant feature.

"Four special methods were provided for furnishing land to applicants wishing to occupy the same, i. e., homestead leases, right of purchase leases, freehold agreements and special agreements of sale. Of these the right of purchase lease has been the most popular, with a list of 356 holdings taken up; the special agreements of sale comes next, with 122 holdings; homestead leases, 115 holdings; and freehold agreements, 23 holdings.

"The holdings occupied under these different systems, aggregating 615 in number, have a total area of 28,065 acres and an average area of 45.56 acres. Their aggregate value at the time of occupation, as appraised, was $178,464, or $289.70 apiece, and $6.36 an acre.

"The administration of the public lands was considered of sufficient importance since the organization of the Republic of Hawaii to justify the calling of a special session of the Legislature. In view of the possible failure of the project of annexation to the United States, it was deemed necessary to develop a citizen class which should, by its conservatism, industry and intelligent interest in public order, become a reliable support to the Government of the republic. There appeared no more effective way of accomplishing this than by opening the public lands to those, both from the existing population and future immigrants, who would be ready to occupy them permanently as farmers. The privilege of taking up lands under this policy was limited to citizens and such others as might receive the privileges of citizenship through letters of denization. At the same time the Legislature had in view the alternative of annexation.

"The results have been somewhat disappointing. In proportion to their numbers, comparatively few Hawaiians have taken up homestead leases or lands under any of the methods provided in the act.

"Annexation, when complete, will cut off a considerable measure of the cost of carrying on the local government, such as military, customs and postoffice expenses, but such relief will in no wise offset the loss of the customs revenues as they existed before annexation. Moreover, with the rapid development of the country under the stimulus of annexation, there will be need of increased expenses for public improvements.

"As the public lands of the Hawaiian Islands are limited, and a large proportion of them are comparatively valueless, the importance of the leasehold system is apparent. It is equally apparent that a repeal of this system, which would force the public lands on the market, would deprive Hawaii of a material part of the consideration upon which the annexation was effected.

"The Hawaiian leasehold system is also important to the country in another way. The policy of land settlement in small holdings, if necessary to the country in its independent condition, may be regarded as imperative under annexation.

"This system conserves the public domain with adequate provision for furnishing land to settlers according to the demand, under the reservation in the general leases of the right of the Government at any time to take possession of any part of the leasehold for settlement purposes. The repeal of the

A NEW CENSUS

Over Forty Thousand in Honolulu.

Upwards of Four Thousand Leeway Allowed—The Population by Nationalities Given.

The Citizens' Sanitary Committee have concluded their census of the inhabitants of Honolulu, showing a total population in 29 districts which were given into the charge of the committee of 34,589. In addition thereto are districts 13 and 14, Chinatown, which were retained under the direct control of the Board of Health; the detention camps at Kakaako, and the people on the shipping in the harbor.

The census of blocks thirteen and fourteen was made roughly by the paid inspectors under Dr. Pratt, just before the fire, the number being reported as 7,012. An exact census has since been obtained of all who were there, viz: removed to the drill shed 1,208, removed to kerosene warehouse 1,055, removed to Kailii 5,809. Still residing in the district and now included in the above citizens' census 396. Total removed from district thirteen and fourteen 8,063. There were at the same date, in round numbers 600 people in the Kakaako camps, and it is estimated, approximately 1,000 people were on the shipping in port.

A summary of these figures gives: Shipping . . . . . 1,000 Camps . . . . . 600 Removed from Districts 13 and 14 8,063 Thirty-nine other Districts . . . . . 34,589 Total population of Honolulu . . . . . 44,252 The population by nationalities is as follows: Hawaiian . . . . . 12,820 Chinese . . . . . 10,741 Japanese . . . . . 7,238 Portuguese . . . . . 5,468 Other Foreigners . . . . . 7,937 Total . . . . . 44,252

In a few of the districts no distinction was made in registration between those who lived there and those who were there during the day-time only, for business; all being registered, as the main object of the census was to obtain a daily inspection and not an exact enumeration. But in the main business districts, a separate list was kept of those who lived in each district, and these figures alone are used above.

The odd 4,252 shown above is certainly more than sufficient to allow for any discrepancy arising from duplication of registration, and the census demonstrates that Honolulu can with perfect safety claim to have over 40,000 inhabitants.

The population of Honolulu shown by the official census of September, 1896, was 28,920. The increase will be a surprise to even those who have kept in touch with the progress of the city, but the figures can be relied upon as being a close approximation to the correct number.

"I thought I heard a voice cry, 'Sleep no more; Macheb doth murder sleep!' So said Macheb himself, but there is a power which murders more sleep than ever did Duncan's assassin; and to that Mrs. Beattie alludes when she says of her daughter, 'She got no sleep.'"

"In May, 1891," writes the lady, "my daughter Letitia fell into a low, weak condition, and could not get up her strength. She had no appetite, and what little food she took gave her great pain at the chest and side. She got no sleep at night, and became very nervous and low-spirited.

"As time passed by she grew weaker and more feeble, and we thought she would never get better. A doctor attended her, but none of his medicines seemed to suit her case, and for two years she continued to suffer.

"One day she read in a book about Mother Selgel's Curative Syrup and what it had done for others. She got a bottle from Mr. Nicholls, chemist, Donegal Place, and after taking it began to improve, being able to eat, and her food agreeing with her. After having used this medicine a short time she was strong and well as ever, and has since been in good health. For a long time I myself suffered from weakness and indigestion, and seeing what good Mother Selgel's Syrup had done, I took it and was completely restored to sound health. You may use this statement as you like. (Signed) (Mrs.) Mary Beattie, 23, Trinity Square, Belfast, August 14th, 1896."

"In the early part of 1894," writes another, "I began to suffer from indigestion. I had a poor appetite, and all food gave me pain at my chest and a gnawing feeling at the stomach. No matter how light the food I took I had pain and sick headache.

"For over a year I was tormented like this, when Mr. John Weil, living in this place, told me how he had been cured by Mother Selgel's Syrup, and recommended me to try it. I did so, and soon all pain left me, and I have since enjoyed good health. I know many persons residing in this district who have been benefited by taking the same medicine. Often in my shop I hear persons say what it has done for them. You are at liberty to publish this letter. (Signed) Alex. Wilson, General Merchant, Castlewellan, Newcastle, Co. Down, Ireland, Aug. 15th, 1896."

Indigestion or dyspepsia destroys the power to sleep by starving, and thus weakening the nervous system. Indeed, the whole body starves, and is thrown into profound disorder. Food may be taken into the stomach, but, as people constantly say, "It does no good." No; but in a sense it does harm. Fermented, soured, undigested it develops poisons which act upon the system somewhat as a pestilence does upon a community. Flesh is lost, strength gives way to trembling weakness, courage is supplanted by fear, and life is dreary and desolate. That Mother Selgel's Syrup should be able to cure a disease so common and so terrible is reason for gratitude to us all. For the healthy work and sleep.

HONOLULU ALIVE

When you know a good thing tell it. It will not lessen its goodness. But will do good to others. If you've been cured, tell it. There's more misery just like it. Waiting to find out how. There are lots of lame backs in Honolulu.

It's a busy place and people must work. There's kidney trouble to a large extent. Ever notice how many people over 40 complain? Seven out of ten say colds affect their kidneys.

The kidneys are the cause, not the colds. Keep them in shape by all means. You can do it easily and pleasantly. No nauseating disturbances. No effect except on the kidneys. But that effect is quick and permanent.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills do perfect work. Honolulu is full of their praises. Mr. H. G. Crabbe, of Nuuanu street, this city, formerly a merchant and clerk, is now a collector. He writes: "My age is 69 years and I am blessed with children and grandchildren. For about two years I have been troubled with a severe pain in the back. A short time ago I purchased some of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills at Hollister & Co.'s Drug Store, and found great relief through using them. I keep some of the pills by me as a safeguard against attacks of my old complaint, which I need not fear so long as I have a remedy like Doan's Backache Kidney Pills to combat them."

For sale by all dealers; price 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50. Mailed by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

AN EDITOR'S LIFE SAVED BY CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

During the early part of October, 1896, I contracted a bad cold which settled on my lungs and was neglected until I feared that consumption had appeared in an incipient state. I was constantly coughing and trying to expel something which I could not. I became alarmed and after giving the local doctor a trial bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the result was immediate improvement, and after I had used three bottles my lungs were restored to their healthy state.—B.
