

LAST OF THE WRECKED STEAMERS IS TOWED IN SAFETY INTO THE HARBOR

U. S. ARMY TRANSPORT SHERIDAN LIMPING INTO THE HARBOR AFTER HER LONG PERIOD OF STRANDING ON THE REEF AT BARBER'S POINT.

(From Sunday's Advertiser.)

With the water barge on one side and the old scow Melancthon on the other as crutches, the disabled transport Sheridan limped into port yesterday morning. Since August 31 she had lain stranded within sight of the city, first on a coral reef at Barber's Point, and then on the sand beach opposite the Ewa mill, near the entrance to Pearl Harbor.

She was pulled off her last resting place at high tide yesterday morning, a few minutes before five o'clock. Everything had been in readiness for the pull, five anchors were laid, upon which the force of the steam winches could be exerted, and lines had been run to the Buford, Manning and Iwani, and everyone at the scene of operations had been keyed up to work his hardest and get done with the long and tiresome work he had been at for the past month.

She was taken in tow as soon as possible by the U. S. S. Iroquois and towed into the harbor. She was docked at 11 o'clock at the Hackfeld wharf and a long breath of relief was drawn by each one of the members of her crew, from Captain Peabody down to the coal passers, when the lines were passed ashore and made fast.

KUHIO ON COLOR LINE

MAUI, October 5.—Wednesday evening the Republicans of Wailuku held a grand rally on the premises of the old government school house, the orators speaking from the veranda to a large audience seated upon benches in front of the building.

THE BRIGHT SIDE

of life. It is a feeling common to the majority of us that we do not get quite the amount of happiness we are entitled to. Among the countless things which tend to make us more or less miserable ill health takes first place. Hannah More said that sin was generally to be attributed to biliousness. No doubt a crippled liver with the resulting impure blood, is the cause of more mental gloom than any other single thing. And why can't we reckon up the fearful aggregate of pain, loss and fear arising from the many diseases which are familiar to mankind; like a vast cloud it hangs over a multitude no one can number. You can see these people everywhere. For them life can scarcely be said to have any "bright side" at all. Hence the eagerness with which they search for relief and cure. Remedies like WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION have not attained their high position in the confidence of the people by bald assertions and boasting advertisements. They are obliged to win it by doing actually what is claimed for them. That this remedy deserves its reputation is conceded. It is palatable as honey and contains the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. Nothing has such a record of success in Scrofula, Influenza, Throat and Lung Troubles, and emaciating complaints and disorders that tend to undermine the foundations of strength and vigor. Its use helps to show life's brighter side. Professor Raddy, of Canada, says: "I have much pleasure in stating that I have used it in cases of debility and found it to be a very valuable remedy as well as pleasing to take." You cannot be disappointed in it. Sold by chemists.

was followed by County Attorney D. H. Case and County Treasurer L. M. Baldwin. Then came Kuhio, who made a good impression.

The rhetorical events were interspersed with music by two local string bands and a singing band of eight voices.

The Kahului R. B. Co.'s train conveyed to Wailuku and back again a large number of citizens from Puunene, Spreckelsville and Kahului.

LAST NIGHT AT PAIA. Last night, at Paia sugar room, the Republican rally was of smaller proportions than was expected owing to rainy weather. However, there were 100 citizens present from Paia and Hamakua.

Hon. H. P. Baldwin presided and the speakers here W. F. Crockett, County Clerk Kane, Sheriff Saffery and Delegate Kuhio. The latter spoke in English concerning his actions in Congress and in Hawaiian he warned the natives against drawing the color line. Today the Prince will depart for Lahaina, where he will speak tonight and tomorrow he will take the Claudine for East Hawaii.

LITERARY SOCIETY. Last Friday evening, September 28, the Makawao Literary Society held a most delightful meeting at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Lindsay of Paia, between 70 and 80 of the district people being present.

The evening's program entitled "The Makawao Home Magazine," first issue volume one contained the following illustrations and articles including much of a musical nature:

Frontispiece—"Little Red Riding Hood." (Tableau by Olive Lindsay). Music—Piano Solo. (By Miss Ormerod). Music—Quartet. A Story—"Chasing a Rainbow." (Read by Mrs. Taylor). Music—Vocal solo. (By Miss Ormerod). "Political Pointers." (By W. O. Aiken). Music—Cornet solo. (By C. D. Lufkin). Music—Vocal solo. (By Jas. Dougherty). Editorial and News Items. (By F. W. Hardy). Story. (Read by Mrs. Lowell). Music—Duet. (Mrs. von Tempisky and Mrs. Foster). Music—Vocal solo. (By Rev. W. Ault). "Conundrums—"That Reminds me." (By D. C. Lindsay). Fashion Notes. (By Miss Eva Smith). Fashion Plate for September—(Tableau). Music—"Ladies' trio. Advertisements—(Tableaux). Back Cover—(Tableau). The first issue of the Makawao Home Magazine was bright and entertaining and most successful, for surely attained its purpose, amusing the members of the literary society.

Later in the evening there were more songs by Mr. Dougherty of Honolulu, who made quite a hit, and a "magazine game."

the auto must stop. The horn must be tooted at not less than 200 feet, and not more than 200 feet, etc.

NOTES. The masonic building at Kahului, which is about completed, presents a most imposing and artistic appearance. It is of colonial design with porches, dormer windows and round cupola, and is painted in the colonial colors of yellow and white. On each end of the structure the masonic insignia carved in wood are conspicuous. The dedication of the new temple will soon take place.

From Wednesday until next Tuesday the Board of Registration would hold meetings for registering voters in the Wailuku office of W. F. Crockett, a member of the board.

The Kaupakalua Wine and Liquor Co. has just completed pressing out its crop of wine from the season's grapes. It amounts to 7250 gallons, the estimate being only 5000 gallons. The company paid from 25 to 30 cents per gallon to the grape-raisers. Five hundred gallons of brandy have been recently purchased by the factory for the purpose of fortifying this wine.

On Wednesday W. O. Aiken went to Nahiku on government land business. Mrs. H. A. Baldwin of Hamakua returned to Maui on Wednesday from a trip to the Coast.

W. S. Nicoll of Hamakuaopoko has just returned from a visit of several months to Scotland.

Miss Marion de Carmo of Pahala was a visitor at W. C. Crook's Makawao, this week.

A closely contested polo game was played on the Paia grounds last Saturday afternoon, resulting in a victory for the Reds, 2 goals to 1-3-4. The teams were as follows: Reds—F. P. Baldwin, W. O. Aiken and D. T. Fleming. Whites—G. W. Wilbur, L. von Tempisky, D. C. Lindsay and Harold Rice.

DELUGE OF RAIN. Weather—Thursday afternoon an unusual heavy rain took place on the western slope of Haleakala. A fall of 12.70 inches was registered at Makawao postoffice between 12:30 and 5 o'clock p. m. As a result of this "rain" downpour a stream of water so wide and deep ran through a small gulch in one of the fields at Kahului directly makai of Makawao that the laborers who had been planting cane there did not dare to cross it but had to make a wide detour to get safely to the camp. Ordinarily this little Kahului gulch is as dry as a desert.

VOLCANO VISITORS. The following guests registered at the Volcano House from September 23 to October 4: Miss M. G. Scott, Spreckelsville, Maui; Dr. W. A. Schwallie, Pahala; Father C. Louis, Honolulu; G. G. Kinney, C. Wolter, Naalehu; Samuel Kauhane, Waihanu; Father Henry Hallinde, Munster, Ireland; Mr. and Mrs. H. French, Stockholm, Sweden. Dr. and Mrs. F. Olason, Seffer, Mexico; Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Fisher, San Francisco; Mrs. I. H. Tuttle, Watsonsville, Cal.; Mrs. Clara Petrie, Honolulu; Mrs. W. P. Wand, San Francisco; W. E. Bellina, Honolulu; A. J. Williamson, Honolulu; J. Watt, Olay; J. Pritchard, Honolulu; G. C. Hewitt, Kau; J. Deter, Hilo; Miss M. Boyson, San Francisco; Wm. T. Baldwin, Hilo; W. G. Champion, Wainaku; E. C. Brown, Honolulu; Miss Shaw, Hilo; Dr. and Mrs. Moore, Honolulu.

Maui county has received, at the port of Kahului, a ten-ton steam road roller costing $350, furnished under contract by the Honolulu Iron Works Co.

SATURNALIA OF DRINKING AND DEBAUCHERY

Sunday saloon business is apparently more profitable than on some week days, to judge by the flagrant abuses of the law which are carried on almost under the noses of police officers.

Yesterday afternoon, while a police captain and three officers were patrolling beats between Maunakea street and Iwilei road and from Hotel to King streets, saloonmen were selling liquor to noisy crowds in so-called "cafes," and in some instances directly at the bar.

At one place what was seen by an Advertiser reporter could have been seen by a policeman who passed the same viewpoint, but he kept his head dutifully turned away from the saloon windows. Had the officer looked through them he would have seen three persons, a male and two Japanese, engaged in drinking beer in the barroom itself, at a table not three feet from the bar. This, notwithstanding there was an alleged "cafe" next door belonging to the saloon and connected by an archway, established for the purpose of dispensing the amber.

The Kiloana saloon, corner of Maunakea and King streets, has an alleged "cafe" connected with it. This is merely a side or "family" entrance on Maunakea. There are small booths just within the doorway, a table in each place. This apartment gives entrance to the rear of the bar. At 3 p. m. the bartender, a white man and a Chinaman were leaning their elbows on the bar itself and quaffing whisky served in small tumblers, followed by "chasers" of water. The bartender, noticing a reporter viewing this proceeding, was nonplussed for a moment and then invited him to have a drink. "My treat," he said. The reporter declined, but the bartender insisted, because "it was just a friendly drink," adding that it was his treat—that was the reason for the liquor being served directly over the bar.

Later, while the reporter was visiting another saloon, the Asahi, corner of King and River streets, the white man who was in the Kiloana saloon entered the saloon by the cafe door and engaged the proprietor in earnest conversation and described the appearance of the reporter, advising the saloonman to be on the watch for the scribe. At that time a white man and two Japanese, including one Japanese woman, evidently attached to the place, were in the barroom, drinking. After the reporter was described the proprietor hastily closed the door leading to the barroom itself, and withdrew all evidences of drinking.

The Oahu saloon, on King street, between the river and Iwilei road, has a "cafe." That is, the saloon has been divided by a partition about seven feet high and the few tables in the half not devoted exclusively to the bar is termed the "cafe." A dozen men, apparently sailors, and a police officer in plain clothes were in the "cafe," most of the crowd drinking beer. On each table was a saucer containing bits of crackers and cheese. There was big business in this place, as well as in the Rhineland saloon, nearby, where a Hawaiian woman was in the act of passing a big pitcher into the barroom for beer—just "rushing the growler."

And so it went all through that section. The big police captain was busy watching the ball game, and the other policemen spent much time in the vicinity of the police telegraph boxes waiting for the moment they had to turn in their reports, equivalent to meaning that "everything was all right" on their beats.

Drunken men were a plenty in that neighborhood.

A HOWLING DEBAUCH.

The climax to the Sunday violations of the liquor law were apparent in Palama last night, especially at Joe Clark's place, the old Fountain saloon, near the junction of King street and Beretania avenue. The saloon faces on King street and an alleyway runs along the Walkiki side to a large open lot in the rear. In the rear of the saloon a "cafe" has been added on, the roof being of corrugated iron. A door opens out from the rear of this structure into the open lot. An electric light outside the door makes the lot quite brilliant, and with benches and chairs, that spot has become a favorite lounging place for the neighborhood.

Yesterday evening there was a big crowd of drunken men and women about the place, all engaged in a drinking bout, beer being the beverage. The "cafe" was well lighted and beer literally flowed over the little bar which Clark has erected there. The "cafe" is divided by a hallway running from the back door of the "cafe" to the back door of the saloon proper. On the Walkiki side there is a small place in which two men may stand. A patent beer apparatus is placed there with room for the keg. There is a sink for washing the glasses. A tin containing scraps of crackers reposed on the counter, and these were the only edibles to be found in the place.

On the Ewa side are three booths with doors attached. In one room a drunken man lay asleep on a bench in the next room two men and two women were carousing. All were Hawaiians. They were drinking beer and having a lively time. In the third room four women and three men indulged in antics that may best be described as beastly. The women were very careless in their conduct, to say the least, and somewhat negligent as to whether their clothes remained on them or not.

Before the bar the space was taken by the thirsty ones, and the Hawaiian and Jap serving there had their hands full. In fact, the demand for beer became so great that to save time when a glass was drawn and more than half was foam, more beer was drawn into bowls and dumped bodily into the glasses. This method quickly disposed of the froth. The cash register played a merry, tinkling tune, as the dimes were rung up. All one had to do was to ask for a glass of beer, hand over a dime and get the beer. Nobody asked for anything to eat at that "cafe" and nothing was offered.

Late in the evening, when Clark was questioned about the lack of edibles and apparently the lack of cooking facilities for his "cafe," he replied:

"Oh, we have had so much business the sandwiches gave out. We have some crackers on the bar. Just now I sent out and got some fish. You see my man is making sandwiches."

And so he was, but that was hours after the last sandwich was eaten in the afternoon, and the new supply was only furnished after Joe had received a gentle hint that he had better have some eatables in his "cafe."

The women were in a beastly state of intoxication. Some stumbled and some staggered and all indulged in frenzied antics with the men. One fat woman was especially vulgar and gave an indecent exhibition of herself before the whole crowd when a man displeased her with some remarks.

Shortly after this a bicycle policeman arrived at the request of one of the women. He came into the alley, came upon the crowd of people sitting in the lot, looked into the "cafe" and saw booze being served to patrons directly over the bar, but as that did not concern him he looked at some boys playing guitars, singled out a man and had a quiet little confab a little apart from the circle and then returned to the police station.

In rooms above Clark's saloon men and women also congregate.

J. COERPER STIRS UP KONA POLITICS

"Conditions in Kona," said Jacob Coerper yesterday, "are rotten. Democrats and Republicans so far nominated are not fit. Isaac Kiba, a kahuna, has been nominated by the Democrat-Home Rulers for Representative. He has been convicted two or three times of cattle-stealing and then pardoned by the old government.

"Keamon, son-in-law of the late Deputy Sheriff, is not being talked of in a way that is to his credit and you will hear more of him and his troubles when I go back. The fact is the people at large are not satisfied with the nominations made by either party.

"John Paris was not nominated for the reason that the residents of Hawaii did not feel that he had performed his duty as Senator. Greenwell would not accept the nomination for Representative but was persuaded to accept that for Deputy Sheriff. There was a desire to keep all holes off the ticket when these two were not on and a number of voters there, regardless of party, came to me and asked me to be a candidate on an independent ticket, and I have accepted. Kona has been neglected by the government in every shape and manner. Roads have been built where they were not needed and it is impossible to get enough money to keep them in repair.

"In my opinion there will be no straight ticket. I do not believe Low will have a chance," continued Mr. Coerper, "for Woods is immensely popular with the people and in spite of Low's assurances that he will win I am of the opinion that he will fail. The natives are dissatisfied and their disgust with the action of the convention brought them to me. I can see Nahale's finish in his candidacy for Sheriff—they should have insisted on Greenwell running if they had a desire to beat Keolanui. I do not believe the Hawaiian vote for John Maguire, for Supervisor, will be sufficient to elect him, Kaelewa will beat him though in my opinion Maguire is the better man. It is going to be a warm fight and while the organized parties are serapping Alawa, Charlie Carr and myself, independent candidates for the lower House, will corral the votes."

CHILDREN. In buying a cough medicine for children never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. It is especially valuable for colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., agents for Hawaii.

KAUAI FAIR DATE FIXED

LIHUE, Kauai, October 6.—As was mentioned in these columns in June, the ladies of Waimea district, Kauai, will hold a fair for the purpose of raising funds with which to provide a trained nurse for the district. It is proposed to employ a competent nurse, whose headquarters shall be at the Waimea hospital, but whose services can be had by resident sick throughout the district, a want much felt at the present time.

The ladies met some months ago and decided upon the fair, which was to have been held in July, but owing to circumstances it was thought best to postpone the event until later in the year, and the date is now set for Saturday, October 27, in the afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay have been preparing for the event for a number of months. A portion of their grounds was set aside and a beautiful lawn made of it upon which suitable buildings will be erected for the different booths. While in Japan recently a number of suitable articles were selected by them and will be offered for sale at the fair.

Mrs. B. D. Baldwin will have charge of the clothing booth, at which will be offered children's garments of all kinds, ladies' shirt waists, holokus and underwear, as also gentlemen's pajamas. Mrs. John Fassoth will be at the head of the fancywork booth. Here will be sold all kinds of fancy articles such as embroidery, drawn-work, cushions, cushion covers, centerpieces, dollies, etc.

Mrs. G. Hansen will be at the head of the burnt-work booth and will offer a variety of articles in that line, as well as postcards, photographs, etc.

Mrs. C. B. Hofgaard will preside over the booth where preserved fruits, jams, jellies, chutney, etc., will be sold.

Mrs. Edward Palmer will have charge of the candy booth and will offer home-made delicacies, as well as factory confections.

Mrs. Wm. Danford will be at the head of the flower department and will have cut flowers, boutonnières and leis for all.

The Hawaiian booth will be under the direction of Mrs. Peters and will contain mats, hats, peacock leis and Hawaiian curios in general.

Mrs. T. Brandt will be at the head of the ice cream booth and will have a goodly supply of tempting dainties in that line.

Miss Banham will preside at the fishpond, where, for a dime, the children can fish without getting their feet wet.

Mrs. H. P. Faye will have charge of the Oriental department. A particularly fine line of articles personally selected by Mr. and Mrs. Gay in Japan will be on sale at this booth, consisting of card cases, drawn-work and embroidery, silk and embroidered kimonos, ready made for ladies or gentlemen, choice paintings in water colors, dinner cards, etc.

A supper will be served under the management of Mrs. Walter Wright, and will consist of dishes Hawaiian and foreign.

A platform is to be erected for the lovers of the dance, and music will be supplied for the occasion.

An attractive feature of the show will be moving pictures of scenes from different parts of the world, as well as stereoscopic views especially selected for the fair. This department will be under the able management of Professor Hart, who will give an entertaining and instructive talk with each picture.

A novel attraction will be a Japanese tea garden, where tea will be served in true Oriental style by pretty Japanese girls. There will be a shooting gallery presided over by the Rev. Wm. Milliken, and a row of "nigger" babies will offer opportunities for expert ball throwers to test their skill. The usual fakers which attend fairs will be present to furnish fun for the crowd and a good time will be had.

The admission to the grounds will be 25 cents, and specially low prices will rule throughout the sale.

While those ladies mentioned herein will be at the head of the several departments, there will be a score of young ladies to assist.

This worthy undertaking should be patronized by all, and the names of the ladies in charge, together with the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Gay are at the head of the project, insure a successful outcome.

BUCKNAM IS ADMIRAL

Captain Ransford D. Bucknam, who was master of the whaleback steamer City of Everett when she carried a cargo of wheat from the Sound years ago for famine stricken people of India, and who had with him a mate on that vessel Captain J. S. Gibson, of the Washington Stevedoring Company, formerly of Chemainus, is now an admiral of the Turkish navy, according to advices from Constantinople.

Bucknam first made the acquaintance of the Sultan after being superintendent of marine at Cramps' shipyards two years ago. While at Cramps he took the Mejeda, a war vessel the Turkish government had built there, to the land of the Sultan. He remained in Turkey several months, showing the officers how to work the guns and explaining the operation of the vessel.

During his stay in Turkey Bucknam was introduced to the Sultan and seemed to take the fancy of the ruler at once. It was not long before Abdul offered Bucknam the vice admiralty of the navy if he would remain there. Bucknam did not say that he would accept the position and returned to America. A few months later the Sultan sent one of his representatives to this country to again offer the position to Bucknam. He finally consented and has now filled the position for some months.

Admiral Bucknam is well known in Honolulu, having once been chief officer of the steamship City of Peking.
