Democratic Paper.

As soon as Link returns, which will be tomorrow, it is expected that a move will be made to launch something in the way of a small daily sheet of a newspaper to spread the Link propaganda, and, presumably, to teach and preach Democracy as it is interpreted in the Hawaiian Islands. It is not planned that a newspaper man, nor anybody else that knows anything about running a newspaper, will have anything to do with getting out this temporary Democratic sheet, but it is planned, according to reports, that the daily publication will be open to any Democratic propagandist that is committed to Democracy and is to publish therein, Link's propaganda having the word to say about such Democratic material.

PREDICTS ALLIANCE OF BRITAIN AND AMERICA

This Would Be an Effective Means of Curbing Germany, Chicagoan Says.

CHICAGO, September 23.—An alliance of all English-speaking people against Teutonic conquests is offered as the probable result of Germany's warlike attitude. The suggestion is made by Abram W. Harris, president of Northwestern University, on his return to Chicago from a tour of Europe lasting two months. The most conservative statesmen in England, he said, plainly showed that they feared a war of conquest by Germany and that they were turning their eyes toward America for assistance.

One of the chief advantages of such an alliance, he said, would be that Great Britain and the United States could maintain one navy—should navies still be necessary—in the future.

Such a combination for offensive and defensive purposes, he pointed out, would result in a marked economy on the part of the two nations, and, in addition, would present such a front to the outside world as to all but preclude the possibility of war.

"Incidentally, Germany is in a fair way to gain commercial supremacy of the world," said President Harris. "This is due to the nation's progressive methods in dealing with its navy and commerce."

"The only thing that this country can do to catch up with Germany and the other world powers in commerce is to handle commerce just as it now handles the agricultural situation. The United States already has reduced the work of distributing scientific knowledge on agricultural subjects to a perfect system. Let a similar department be started and carried on for the purpose of increasing our commerce."

"The right of the school man to mark out the best methods of dealing with these problems is being recognized to a greater extent each day. Even yet, however, the practical man is looked upon as the best man to work out business difficulties, even when it is shown that he is practical only in a quite limited field."

PROBLEM OF 400 WIVES IS SERIOUS

Turkish Government Wants to Get Rid of Members of ex-Sultan's Harem.

CONSTANTINOPLE, September 24.—Has anyone any use for four hundred wives? If so, the Turkish government would like to get into communication with him. This is the number of women contained in the harem of the ex-sultan, and the problem of their disposal is becoming a serious one. Most of them are natives of Albania and Arabia, and two distinct efforts have been made to return them to their friends and relatives; but the latter absolutely refuse to receive the women, having, apparently, no further use for them.

Under these circumstances the authorities of Constantinople are in something of a quandary, since the cost of their maintenance is a considerable item; and as many of them are young girls it would seem as though they will remain a burden on the state for many years unless someone can be induced to take them over.

The situation is a distinctly humorous one, but it is not the form of humor that appeals to the Turkish government, and the cold-blooded suggestion has been brought forward that they should be disposed of summarily. There is small chance of this awful suggestion being carried out, however, owing to the firm attitude of the foreign ambassadors at Constantinople, who insist that the women shall be treated with due respect and consideration.
