INSTRUCTS OFFICER IN IMMIGRATION LAW

Secretary Mott-Smith Explains Status of Chinese Born in Hawaii.

In a voluminous document, which he drew up yesterday, Secretary of the Territory Mott-Smith has undertaken once more the task of teaching the United States immigration officer on the Mexican border that a Chinese born in the United States is a citizen of the United States. The secretary has previously elucidated, for the benefit of an immigration official at Panama and in other places, and trusts that this latest explanation will be sufficient. The question has arisen over a clause in the rules of the immigration bureau, which states that all citizens of the republic of Hawaii prior to August 12, 1898, are citizens of the United States, and goes on to say that Chinese coming under "this status" are to be regarded as citizens. The immigration officials, in the instances alluded to, have adhered to the rule strictly. They have freely admitted all Chinese who were citizens before August 12, 1898, but have failed to take cognizance of the fact that Chinese born in Hawaii are citizens of the United States under the constitution. They have held that only Chinese from Hawaii who can be admitted are those who were citizens of Hawaii before August 12, 1898, and the exempt classes, and have persisted in placing Chinese born in Hawaii since 1898 in either the exempt class or excluding them, alluding to them as subjects of the Emperor of China. The secretary explained to the man in Panama that a person born in the United States is a citizen and not the subject of any other power, and he has repeated this explanation at even greater length for the benefit of the official on the Mexican border, so that it is possible that in the future a Chinese citizen of the United States will be able to enter his own country from either Mexico or Panama without unnecessary delays.

BRIEF FREEDOM FOR CHINESE WITNESS

Wong Chong, who, since the murder of Wong Fook on the Kores, has been held in jail as a witness against Lee Yin Jou, the slayer, succeeded in drawing one breath of freedom yesterday, when the Wong family paid up the required bond of $250 to assure his presence at the trial. Wong Chong had his less fortunate fellow witnesses a cheerful farewell, and with his dunnage on his back stepped briskly out of the prison into the arms of an immigration officer, who escorted him to confinement at the immigration station, because Wong Chong is not a citizen of the United States. United States District Attorney Brokens is responsible for bringing the contumacious Chinese into the Territory, but under the circumstances it is not probable that he will prosecute himself.

GOVERNOR STILL SUPERVISORS AT ENDS OF THE GAME PLAYS LONE HAND

"Conditions are getting so here that a man who is not willing to submit to control cannot even breathe," declares W. W. Harris, once a leader in the local Republican ranks, only a few weeks ago the candidate put forward by the Frear faction in a test of strength with the Kuhio faction in the convention to nominate delegates to Chicago and twice a Republican member of the legislature, who yesterday bolted his party in sensational fashion, from the soapbox urging everyone to vote the straight Democratic ticket. "Governor Frear is so self-centered that a fair-minded man cannot submit to what he does," he says. "Secretary Fisher, in the closing hearing of the investigation, said to the Governor: 'Do not play a lone hand'; and he said to the people of Hawaii: 'Do not let Frear play a lone hand.' But Frear not only keeps on playing his lone hand, but he has the ends stacked.

Bishop Appointment. "Take the recent appointment of H. K. Bishop as superintendent of public works. Some short time ago, as a representative of the firm for which I work—Cotton, Neill & Co.—I called on the Governor and urged the appointment of a successor to Mr. Campbell. Mr. Campbell was holding the position and was at the same time with the Honolulu Iron Works, our strongest competitor in the contracts we were bidding for with the government. The Governor told me that his own uncertain tenure of office prevented an appointment. At that interview with the Governor I told him that he might consider me a candidate for the position, and that he ought to make an appointment at once, of me or somebody else. However, he waited until Mr. Bishop had been a year in Hawaii and was qualified under the law, and then announced his appointment. I tell you, the Governor had Bishop picked out months ago and was only waiting until he could appoint him. Now, that is one of the things that makes the blood of every kamaaina boil.

"Mr. Bishop is in every way qualified in his own line. But he is not the only man in Hawaii fit to be superintendent of public works, and I do not believe that his appointment, made as it was, was right.

"All Controlled." "Take the other appointments the Governor has made. Every man on every commission is known to be at the beck and call of the interests. If he were not he could not get his position. In selecting his officials and commissioners, the Governor doesn't show the discrimination of a cow.

"There is going to be a big awakening in Hawaii politically in the next two years," said Mr. Harris, concluding his interview. "This year the Republicans will make a showing at the polls, but two years from now, look out! The Democrats, if they use good judgment in the selection of candidates, will sweep the Islands and take everything, from Delegate to Congress down. I, myself, am a Republican and intend to stick by the principles of the Republican party, but it seems to me that the time has already come when no man of independence, one who will not submit to being ordered about and who will not let his officials and commissioners stay with the Republican party as it is constituted in Hawaii today."

His Soapbox Declaration. Pale, but with a determined look in his face, W. W. Harris mounted the soapbox yesterday at noon, after Barron, McCandless and other great and near-great orators had been entertaining the noon-day crowd. Everybody present looked for a stirring Republican heart to heart talk from Harris, but the speaker gathered his was an out-of-the-ordinary speech. Barron had introduced him as "one of the Republican campaign leaders."

The speaker opened up by stating he had been chairman of the April Republican territorial convention which selected delegates to the Chicago presidential gathering; that he was and had always been a Republican, "but the time has come, gentlemen, as it comes often in the life of an organization, when one must come out and take issue with the party bosses. The same thing happened with Roosevelt. The time came when he had to leave the Republican party to head the Progressive movement."

"All From Same Circle." Harris next sailed in strongly into the attitude of the Governor in regard to the appointing of the members of the different public boards and commissions. He read the lists which constituted several boards and stated it was the same thing; the men were all from the same circle; could not find a Hawaiian in any of them. Those in control wanted a majority of Republicans in the senate so these could confirm the Governor's appointments; they controlled the Territory and wanted to control the municipal government, too. The recent appointment of H. K. Bishop, by the Governor, came in for a hot roast at the hands of Mr. Harris. Frear had him selected months ago and only waited until Bishop had legally qualified by residing a year in the Territory, before he made public his selection. Marston Campbell also came in for a roast. He had been drawing a fat salary as superintendent of public works but if any one had public business with him he had to go down to their Honolulu Iron Works, where he was holding down a fat private job.

The "interests" came in for their due. "The only way to go about this business," said Mr. Harris, "is to refuse to send a majority of Republicans to the senate. Elect other candidates who will refuse to confirm the Governor's appointments and he will come down to talk business and will consult the people."

In regard to Bishop, he said the Governor had appointed him because he was a good road builder. "What has that got to do with the building of the roads? Has Governor Frear forgotten that all these mules have been turned over to the counties?

Money is becoming a scarce article with the board of supervisors—that is, taxpayers' money—and there is little to make both ends meet until the end of the year. After the board has seen to it that fixed and special salaries and additions to salaries had been made, they planned to get rid of the remainder of the funds and last night after a caucus of the ways and means and the road committees had finished dribbling away some of the shreds of the county's income, there was about $10,000 with which to play to December 31.

As a result some of the supervisors are taking little interest in the affairs of the county, for most of them go out of office at the close of the present year—two months off.

There was a discussion last night about mules. Chairman Low, of the ways and means committee, found that the county is paying rent at the rate of $625 a month for eighteen head of Selkman's mules. He wanted to buy a flock of sixteen, which are now in the Union Feed Company's corral, for $4000. He said that the present rental was ruinous, and two months' rental equaled one-fourth the cost of the sixteen mules he had in mind.

Mules for Scrap Heap. There was opposition on the part of several, including the engineer, against buying them. They let the question go over to the next board. Anyhow, there were a lot of mules on hand which were ready for the scrap heap and ought to be sold. Some had been bought in 1898 and were then seven or eight years old. Road Supervisor Caldwell said the depreciation on live mules was about twenty per cent. a year. It was stated the mules looked fairly well in the stables and were apparently fed well enough, but they were unequal to the hard work imposed.

The road supervisor said he had sold some of the mules and turned the money over to the department of public works, as they were territorial property and the money belonged to the Territory.

Then the caucus decided to recommend to the board tonight an appropriation of $1100 for the repair of Piiania bridge, Waikiki, which is very long and was in early need of repairs because it was dangerous. "The army used it a great deal."

It was proposed to lay a pavement on the extension of Queen street from the bridge to the Iwilei road, as the section is now a quagmire. The engineer said the equipment of the department was now employed elsewhere and could not be withdrawn to be used on the waterfront for a few months, and it would be useless to make an appropriation.

Roadwork Program. The engineer said he was preparing to start repairs on Kalakana avenue next month, then to go to Dole street and then to the Manoa roads, for which appropriations were made several weeks ago. Afterwards the equipment would be moved into Kalihi to be used on the extension of Queen street and on Myer street. It was proposed that asphalt-mandarin be used on the section between Iwilei road and the Queen street bridge. This met with favor.

Meanwhile repairs are to be made to Emma street and to the roads surrounding Emma square. A plan is also to be devised to install a storm sewer in Emma square.

The committee on roads said no reply had been received by them so far from the rapid transit company as to when the company proposed to put in wood block pavement between its rails on King street. The engineer said that the company had received a lot of blocks, but all were green and not the seasoned kind expected. Murray said the company had notified the board some time ago that if permitted to use wood blocks, seasoned ones could be had immediately, and there would be no delay in the work.

Murray's Gentle Comment. "There is a bunch of these highbrows raising hell about what the supervisors do and don't do," commented Murray. "But I don't see them coming through very fast."

The engineer was asked to have figures concerning the filling in of a jog of the Nuuanu road near the entrance to the Country Club. The Dowsett estate had given a piece of land on condition the county do the road work.

The road committee will probably make use of a fire engine with 150 pounds pressure to flush a sewer connection at Pensacola and Lunallo streets, now choked with sand from the street.

Estimates will soon be given by the engineer department for the repair of the Pauoa Valley road.

COMMERCIAL INCONSISTENCY OF STOCK MARKET PRICES

Many Fluctuations and Some Losses, but Closing is Firm.

(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.) NEW YORK, October 28.—(Special to The Advertiser)—The contrary course of today's stock market at the opening was indicated by a decline of 1 1/2 points in Canadian Pacific and 1 point rise in its allied road, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie. The Copper stocks and other industrial issues were off minor to material fractions. Trading in United States Steel and Philadelphia & Reading was moderately large, at a slight rise from last week's close. Heaviness added to their losses. Selling was comparatively light, but there was not sufficient demand to absorb offerings.

Bonds were easy. Philadelphia & Reading's abrupt decline, soon after noon, was attributed to advices from Washington stating that the Supreme Court of the United States had taken no action in the suits against the coal railroads. The market then lapsed into renewed apathy.

Money was quoted at six per cent in the late afternoon, but the market gathered renewed strength, with increased activity in Philadelphia & Reading, Union Pacific, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Amalgamated Copper and United States Steel. The market closed strong.

HAMAKUA DITCH DELIVERED THE GOODS

Reports that have been in circulation around town to the effect that the Hamakua Ditch has failed to come up to expectations, which reports have made their way into print, are not borne out by the figures of water delivered. On the contrary, the statistics show that the ditch has been able, in addition to filling its contracts with the Honokaa and Kukuihaele, to sell those plantations many millions of gallons extra. At the present time, since the drought has broken, the ditch company is giving the two plantations fourteen million gallons a day over the contract supplies.

From January until the end of September, the water furnished the Honokaa plantation, over its contract, amounted to over two hundred and twenty-three million gallons. The Honokaa contract calls for the delivery of 8,500,000 gallons a day. By the month, the ditch company has been furnishing the following amounts:

Table with columns: Gallons, January, 31 days, 263,793,000; February, 29 days, 241,274,000; March, 31 days, 262,031,000; April, 30 days, 254,617,000; May, 31 days, 263,730,000; June, 30 days, 256,455,000; July, 31 days, 332,779,000; August, 31 days, 308,095,000; September, 30 days, 308,655,000.

In this table it will be noted that during July, August and September, the drought months, the contract amount was largely exceeded. A recent report from Kukuihaele says that both the upper and lower ditches are now running full.

WAILAUA AGRICULTURAL CO. Rains in the mountains were the cause of the water in the dam rising about twenty feet on Saturday and Sunday and the ditches filling to the running-over point. When this can be led to the case, there will be an improvement in quality and quantity. The rain around Wailaue was not sufficient to show any immediate result.

KAUAI CONDITIONS. Rain has been falling in the mountains on the Waimea side of Kauai and the cause in that locality is doing well. Over in Kolon the land is extremely dry and the cause is suffering in consequence.

ON CHANGE. There was a healthy rise in Oahu yesterday, the stock selling at 25.875 a share on the exchange, rising from 25.25. Hawaiian Pineapple went to 44.50, advancing a quarter over the price it has been selling at for many weeks. It is strong at any price. McBryde showed no signs of recovering, selling between boards at 5.25.

MACHINERY FOR SAN CARLOS

The first shipment of machinery for the San Carlos central mill, Negroes, which is largely backed by Honolulu capital, left New York on October 14. This will be followed by other large shipments at intervals.

A. D. Cooper, who was one of the promoters of this enterprise, stated yesterday that he had received no information as to whether the plantation had suffered from the typhoon which recently did millions of dollars' worth of damage in the islands.

Kitchen Smells or Restaurant Had to Go. So Both Discontinue.

No more will the odor of boiled cabbage, frying liver and onions, or other savory but odorous dishes, assail the nostrils of dignified judges of the United States court as they preside in their rooms in the Model building. Neither will Absalom, the hound dog of Honolulu, block the sidewalk before the Baltimore No. 2 restaurant, in that building any more.

The restaurant, according to a notice posted on the door has discontinued, because of the inability of the proprietor to discover any means for keeping the aforesaid odors in the kitchen where they belonged.

From the day that the restaurant was opened, it has been a daily source of complaint by the United States officers having office rooms in the building who grew tired of reading the daily menu of the restaurant through the medium of their olfactory nerves.

One day last week Marshal Hendry indited a letter of complaint to the proprietor of the cafe stating that something would have to be done to abate the nuisance. Yesterday morning the restaurant did not open and the notice explains that inability to keep the odor of cooking out of the dining room is the cause of discontinuance.

Absalom, the hound dog, did not discover the place was closed until late last night. He blocked the sidewalk at breakfast time without results, but apparently believing that it was a case of oversight, he called again for lunch. After waiting two hours in vain and so losing out on other places on his dinner route, he appeared before the door yesterday evening. Finding it closed he became suspicious and undertook a tour of investigation which carried him to the kitchen entrance. Here he took one long sniff, and being rewarded only with the ghostly odors of meals gone before, gave utterance to one long drawn, melodious howl of disgust and trotted swiftly down the street to Nolo's.

Captain Haight, Fifth Cavalry, who departs for the mainland on the November transport, was in town yesterday. His E.M.P. machine is to be sold here, as he will not return to Honolulu. The Fifth Cavalry is scheduled to leave Oahu in January of February and his leave extends to that time.
