Raiding Warship Causes Some Damage to City Works and Then Sails Away.

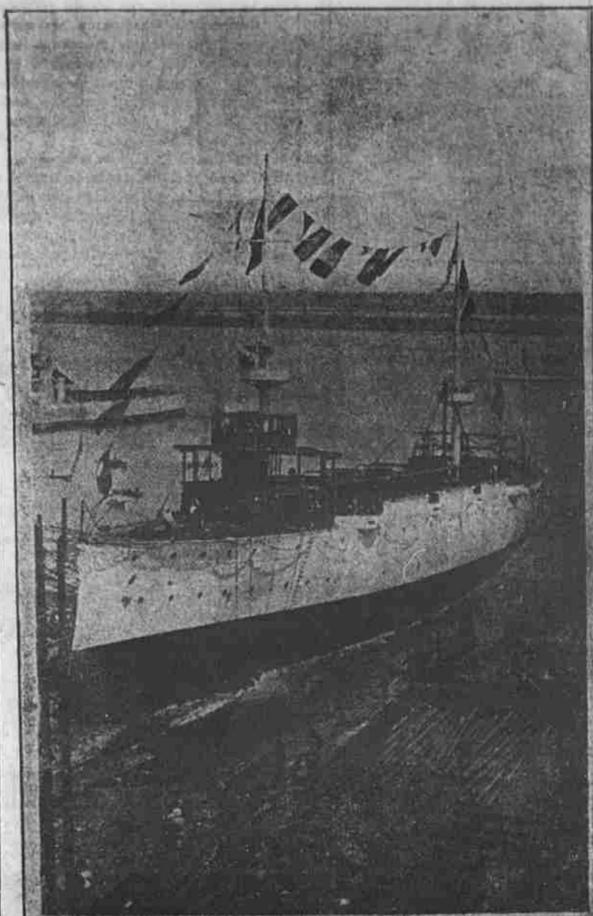

(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.)
ATHENS, January 16.—(Special to The Advertiser)—The Turkish cruiser Medjidieh performed a daring feat in a heavy fog, Tuesday night. She steamed out of the Dardanelles and passed unperceived through the lines of the Greek destroyers cruising off the Straits.

She appeared at noon yesterday off the Island of Syra, one of the Cyclades, and bombarded the powder magazine and coal depots. These were not damaged, but the electrical power plant was wrecked.

The Medjidieh also fired on the Greek auxiliary cruiser Macedonia, which was undergoing repairs in a Syra harbor. When fifteen shells had been fired the commander of the Macedonia, after landing his crew to maintain order in the town and to strengthen the guard over the Turkish prisoners, sank the Macedonia in the harbor to prevent her destruction by the warship.

So far as is known the other Turkish warships have not left the Dardanelles.

LIBELLING KING IS GREAT CRIME

British Journalist Will Not Be Allowed to Land in This Country.

(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.)
WASHINGTON, January 16.—(Special to The Advertiser)—Edward F. Mylius, the journalist detained at New York, was ordered deported today by secretary Nagel of the department of commerce, on the ground that in libelling King George V. of England he had committed a crime involving moral turpitude.

When Mylius arrived in New York last December the immigration authorities refused to let him land, claiming that he was an ex-convict. Mylius appealed to Washington, with the above result.

In December, 1910, while he was the London correspondent of The Liberator in Paris, Mylius wrote an article for that paper in which it was stated that before the present King of England became heir to the throne he had visited Malta and there married Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Admiral Culme-Seymour, deserting her after the death of his elder brother, Albert Victor, and marrying Mary of Teck, the present Queen.

He was indicted for seditious libel because of the article and was subsequently convicted and served a year in Wormwood Scrubs prison, near London. He is about thirty-four years old and has been out of prison about one year.

While awaiting at Ellis Island the verdict of the Washington authorities, Mylius spoke freely of his case. "I am by birth a Belgian," said he, "but I am a British citizen, and I am as certain today as I was in 1910, when I wrote the article for The Liberator, that King George did marry the daughter of Admiral Culme-Seymour, for the publication of which I had to serve a term in prison. The Miss Culme-Seymour of Malta, who is now the wife of Captain Napier of the Royal Navy, will remember, took the stand and swore that what I had written was false. I was not permitted to make a defense, since in England the King's honor is considered much more important than simple justice."

"As for my being ordered deported from the United States, I do not believe that sentence harmonizes with the spirit of the American Constitution. I have not been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude, but of a political offense—offenses that are not recognized in the United States. Scores of men and women from other countries who have committed political offenses in those countries have been admitted to the United States, and my status is exactly the same, and I believe that I am entitled to admission."

It recommended that some remedy be found by congress for the present "anomalous situation," by which the commissioner of Indian affairs has complete control over the property worth $1,000,000,000 belonging to Indians of various tribes in the United States.

The committee charges that "fraudulent partiality" was shown by Simon Michael, Indian allotting agent, in allotting the Indians timber land under the law of 1905.
