Captain and Officers of Collier Which Rammed Empress of Ireland Deny Statements Made by Captain Kendall—Did Not Back Away from Liner, They Declare.

MONTREAL, June 1.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—The Norwegian collier Storstad which rammed and sank the Canadian-Pacific liner Empress of Ireland off Father Point last Thursday night, causing heavy loss of life, arrived here yesterday and was immediately attached on a writ issued to the Canadian-Pacific company on their claim against the Storstad owners for $2,000,000 damages for the loss of the Empress. The writ is returnable in the Quebec admiralty court.

ANDERSON DENIES KENDALL Captain Anderson and other officers of the Storstad, in statements made immediately after their arrival here, denied the statements made by Captain Kendall of the Empress at the corner's inquest at Rimouski. Captain Anderson said that the Storstad did not back away from the Empress but that she steamed ahead in an effort to keep the bow of his ship in the hole made in the side of the liner. However, he declares, the Empress headed away, causing the Storstad to fall off.

DOOMED SHIP HIDDEN. The Empress was completely hidden in the fog, says Captain Anderson. He added that the Storstad whistled repeatedly. After the crash he said he heard the cries of victims in the water, ordered all his boats lowered and picked up 350 persons from the water, all of whom were brought here. He declares that he and the crew of the collier gave every attention to the victims of the ill-fated Empress and asks the public to withhold judgment until an impartial tribunal can hear the evidence.

GREAT THROGNS VIEW ARRIVAL OF DEAD

QUEBEC, June 1.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—The heights of this city were black with crowds yesterday which had gathered to view the arrival of the steamer Lady Grey bringing 388 victims of the Empress of Ireland disaster from Rimouski. VAGANDES ARE BY ROSE TO IGNORE CLAIMS OF CARRANZA

New Sheriff, However, Defers Appointment of Captain to Succeed Nielson.

(From Monday Advertiser.) There are one or two details to be worked out before I decide whom to appoint as captain of police to succeed Captain Nielson," said Sheriff Charles H. Rose, yesterday, to The Advertiser. "I expect to make the announcement in two or three days. Until I do so Sergeant Daniel Kamahu will be in charge of the watch which has been headed by Captain Nielson."

Most prominent among the candidates who are said to be in line to succeed Captain Nielson, are Sergeants Fred H. Iaukea and Daniel Kamahu. Iaukea has not been very long in the employ of the police department, but it is claimed that he is one of the most efficient officers on the force. It is believed in many quarters that Iaukea will head the candidacy.

Sixes twelve o'clock last night Charles H. Rose has been sheriff of the city and county of Honolulu, succeeding Sheriff William H. Jarrett, who has since the same time become high sheriff of the Territory in place of William Henry, resigned. The changes which go into effect today in High Sheriff Jarrett's department were announced on Saturday in The Advertiser.

Coincident with the going into office of Sheriff Charles H. Rose, a number of changes are being made today in the police department. These changes are as follows: Julius W. Asch becomes deputy sheriff under Sheriff Rose, being promoted from the position of chief clerk of the police department.

J. K. Kanupuu, who has been clerk in the office of the deputy sheriff, succeeds Asch as chief clerk. J. S. Kalakala has been appointed by Sheriff Rose to take the place of Kanupuu as clerk in the office of the deputy sheriff.

With the exception of these changes and the appointment of which will be made by Sheriff Rose, the police force remains the same, the three watches being commanded as follows: Captains of Police Charles H. Baker and Duke K. Kahanamoku; Sergeants of Police Fred H. Iaukea, Pohaku K. Ohlenial and Daniel Kamahu, the last mentioned acting as captain until Sheriff Rose appoints a successor to Police Captain Nels Nielson, who resigned to become deputy warden under High Sheriff Jarrett.

HANDSOME SILVER SET GIVEN TO FORMER CHIEF AS MEMENTO OF PLEASANT RELATIONS.

A handsome set of silver knives, forks and spoons was presented yesterday morning to William F. Jarrett, then sheriff of Honolulu. The presentation took Jarrett, who today became high sheriff of the Territory, by surprise and in responding to the presentation speech made by Julius W. Asch, Jarrett was so touched that he was at a loss for words. The presentation was made in the name of the police force of Honolulu. Asch stated that the man who had been in service under Sheriff Jarrett wished him to possess a reminder of the time when he was their chief.

"In receiving this set of knives, forks and spoons," said Asch, "the members of the force believe that they have hit upon a memento which will constantly remind you of the pleasant relations which have at all times existed between the sheriff and those under him." Jarrett's reply was brief and he was at a loss for words with which to express his appreciation of the consideration shown him by the members of the department.

"A little bird whispered to me recently that such an event as this might occur," said Jarrett, "and so that I might not be caught napping I prepared a nice speech. I had it put in memory, but it's gone and for the life of me I can't remember a word of it now."

"In one sense I am sorry I am leaving you, but I am glad to see that Charles H. Rose has been chosen to succeed me. Between Rose and the officers of this department you all have made it possible to make my administration of the police department the success it has been."

"I thank you for this mark of appreciation and I assure you that I will use the knives and forks, not to speak of the spoons, which you have presented me, in preference to my fingers at all times. Aloha."

Charles H. Rose, who becomes sheriff in succession to W. F. Jarrett, also made a short address in which he told the members of the force that the success of the sheriff and deputy sheriff in the administration of the business of the department depends to a very large extent on the loyalty and efficiency of the men.

There was a general muster of the members of the police department yesterday morning at ten o'clock at the central police station, among those present being W. F. Jarrett, Charles H. Rose, Judge Edging, Supervisor McClellan, Sam Kalakala and others addressed the force following the presentation made to Jarrett. The ceremony was over by eleven o'clock.

JUDGE PARSONS RULES AGAINST CONVICTED SUPERVISOR IN MANDAMUS PROCEEDINGS.

Judge Parsons Rules Against Convicted Supervisor in Mandamus Proceedings.

(From Monday Advertiser.) Judge Parsons has ruled against the auditor in his decision in the mandamus proceedings against the auditor. The case involves the salary of a supervisor and which County Auditor George L. Deha declined to pay, says the Hilo Herald.

Kaoluha, through his attorney, Claudius McBride, applied to the circuit court for a writ of mandamus compelling the auditor to pay, and Judge Parsons handed down his decision today discharging the alternative writ and refusing the peremptory writ.

POLITICAL WIRECROSSES BY HE CANNOT BE REMOVED BY GOVERNOR UNTIL BOARD TAKES ACTION.

(From Sunday Advertiser.) Political students have all been wide of the mark in regard to the proposed resignation of John A. Keoluha, the convicted Hilo member of the Hawaii board of supervisors, who is now serving a two-year sentence of imprisonment at Oahu Jail for the embezzlement of county funds.

When these same political students placed Keoluha's resignation before Governor Pinkham for acceptance they did not know what they were doing, says those who have taken the trouble to read the County Act. They claim that Keoluha did not tender his resignation to the Governor. What he did, in reality, was to write out in his own hand the much-wanted resignation and mail it to Governor Pinkham.

Thus Governor Pinkham, under the law, cannot take official cognizance of the convicted man's desire to leave official life. The Governor's hands will be effectively tied for some time so far as selecting and appointing a successor to Mr. Keoluha is concerned. It will be up to the board of supervisors to determine whether to accept the resignation and there is no question that it will do so as soon as it meets during the coming week. Not until after official notification of the acceptance of this resignation has been received by the Governor, will he be privileged to name Keoluha's successor.

ACCIDENTS OCCUR ON UNGUARDED CROSSING

(From Sunday Advertiser.) The need of a traffic police officer at the intersection of Fort and King streets was never more clearly demonstrated than yesterday morning when that corner was left unguarded while the entire police force was at the services being held at Nuanuu cemetery.

At eleven-thirty o'clock yesterday morning a taxicab driven by a Japanese, ran full tilt into a King street car bound toward Kalihai at the corner. Automobile 1285, driven by a Japanese, twenty minutes later, in attempting to do some maneuvering at the corner crashed into Emma street car No. 23 and tore the fender off.

Five minutes after the second action, Automobile 1081, driven by a Japanese, proceeding down Nuanuu street, struck a Hawaiian at the intersection of Hotel street.

According to A. H. Hunt and George Irwin, who witnessed the accident, the Japanese was driving his car down Nuanuu street at a high rate of speed and, in attempting to make the turn at Hotel street, the car swerved into the sidewalk and struck the Hawaiian, rendering him unconscious. He was taken to the Queen's Hospital, where it was found that he sustained a scalp wound. He left the hospital shortly afterward for his home.

SAN PEDRO, California, June 1.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—The Japanese cruisers Asama and Azuma, training ships of the Japanese navy, arrived here yesterday from Honolulu.

NEW INFANTRY EQUIPMENT ARRIVES

New Infantry Equipment Arrives.

Oahu Poor Soldiers to Be Supplied with Model Ten Outfits Which Were Adopted by War Department After Long Experiment—Combines Best in Foreign Equipment.

(From Monday Advertiser.) The three hundred odd tons of ordnance supplies brought to Honolulu by the last steamer from the Coast turn out to be the new infantry equipment which is just being distributed to the foot troops on Oahu. The new outfit is specially known as the Infantry Equipment, Model 1910, from the fact that it was adopted by a board of infantry and ordnance officers in that year, after a series of exhaustive experiments.

In adopting this new equipment, the army has gone back to first principles after a period of many years in which many changes, some minor and some of great importance, have been made. The outfit is a combination of the best of the various outfits used in the various countries of the world, and is the result of a long and exhaustive experiment.

Way back in Colonial days of the country, the woodmen and soldiers and frontiersmen of that day carried their packs on their heads or slung on their backs. When the Indian war began to progress the American soldiers adopted largely the Indian methods of carrying their packs, and the Indian method of carrying the individual pack was thus the origin. But as the Indian packs were more seldom seen, the style of pack and method of carrying it changed. From this time on, the packs and arms of the soldiers were modernized.

Many changes in uniform. With the improvement in firearms and the consequent changes in tactics, the uniform of the army was changed from time to time, as well as the individual equipment of the soldier. One of the greatest problems in all armies has been that of securing a style of equipment that will enable the foot soldier to carry his pack with the least possible amount of fatigue, obviously a most important factor in long marches.

The blanket roll, which went around the soldier's neck came into use, and has continued down to the present time. But the blanket roll had its disadvantages. Its weight, together with that of the canteen and haversack, came largely on the soldier's chest, on account of the crossed straps which met over his shoulder. This form of carrying the full equipment proved to be very exhausting in the late campaigns in the tropics, and in Cuba and the Philippines it was found that some better equipment was desirable.

The system of changing the design of equipment to suit the individual needs of those in high places in the army began to go out of fashion about 1808, after a considerable number of changes had been made in the preceding decade. So a board of officers was appointed by the war department to go thoroughly into the matter of devising the style of equipment which would prove best adapted to meet the requirements.

This board, with changing personnel, worked hard for two years or more, and many devices were tried out by actual test on marching troops. In 1910 the present type of equipment was finally decided upon and adopted by the war department. It has undergone a few slight modifications since its adoption in order to conform to later ideas of organization and equipment, but the main features of the equipment remain unchanged.

Weight Placed on Back. The infantry soldier in full pack carries one hundred rounds of rifle ammunition in his cartridge belt. This is divided up into ten pockets, each containing two clips of five cartridges each. The belt hangs loosely around the soldier's body and is supported in that position by web suspenders passing over the shoulder. On to these suspenders, in back, the haversack is fastened by straps, well up on the shoulder, with the bayonet in a canvas covered scabbard alongside the haversack. When the soldier wishes to fix his bayonet to the rifle he must reach over his left shoulder to draw it.

The short-handled intraching shovel or other tool, in a special carrier, is fastened to the haversack. The haversack when packed contains rations and necessary toilet articles. The weighty part of the pack, the blanket roll, consisting of shelter roll, poncho, and blanket, and when necessary mosquito bar, is made up into a small roll which attaches to the suspenders on the soldier's back by means of a special pack carrier, a sort of apron fitted with straps, which encircles the roll and

PLANNING TO SHIP FRESH PINEAPPLES

President of Hailu Farmers' Association Greatly Impressed with Prospects.

(From Monday Advertiser.) Stanley Livingston, president of the Hailu Farmers' Association, returned Wednesday evening from Honolulu, where he had been investigating the feasibility of fresh pineapple shipments to the mainland, says the Maui News. He is convinced that this project has great possibilities for the Hailu farmers, and believes that it will be given a thorough tryout by the Maui growers during the coming season.

"We can make a contract with a very reliable firm on the Coast," said Mr. Livingston, "at $50 per ton for the fruit, $ 5.00 per wharf Kahului. The cost of packing and delivery to the wharf is figured by Oahu shippers at from $25 to $28 per ton. As quickly as possible I expect to call a meeting of our members and lay all data I have before them, and it seems more than probable that we shall be able to get together in a cooperative way to go into this business."

Mr. Livingston was much impressed with the efforts that are being made by the territorial and federal authorities in Honolulu to help the Hailu settlers in every way possible. He stated that there is good prospect that the federal experiment station will soon inaugurate some practical demonstration work in the homesteads, looking towards a much wider diversification of crops than are now produced.

BUSINESS MEN DECLARE PUBLIC UTILITIES SHOULD BE RUN ON BUSINESS BASIS.

(From Monday Advertiser.) Commenting on the announcement made in The Advertiser that Mayor Frazar and some members of the board of supervisors are planning to make the city water works an instrument to strengthen their political machine, John Blinger said yesterday:

"If the management of the city waterworks is turned over to political spoilsmen it serves every man right who votes the straight party ticket. I am an advocate of non-partisan municipal government. Every good citizen wants to see efficiency in the management of the waterworks equally as all the other departments of the city management. Party politics should not be allowed to enter into local affairs. I am opposed to this spoils system and want to see the voters wake up and put business men at the head of affairs."

E. A. Borndt said that perhaps the best thing for all concerned would be to have a lot of political gangsters take hold of the waterworks; it might wake up the business people of Honolulu to a realization of their individual responsibilities and the question of what element is to control the management of city affairs would be settled in the way it ought to be settled.

VAULTS FROM STREET CAR, RINGS FOR WAGON AND SENDS "DRUNK" TO POLICE STATION.

(From Sunday Advertiser.) Although Julius W. Asch has not yet sworn in as deputy sheriff of the City and County of Honolulu and will not be until Monday, he tried his hand at the police game yesterday afternoon by arresting T. S. Choy, a Korean, for drunkenness.

Asch was on a street car bound for home when, at Alapa and Beretania streets, he saw the Korean lying in the middle of the street in a drunken stupor. Asch rang for the police wagon and turned his charge over to the police.

T. S. Choy has a long police record; he has been mixed up in several shady transactions and was arrested some time ago by the federal authorities for smuggling opium.

WILL ADOPT PLATFORM

The territorial convention will meet in Honolulu on Monday, July 13, at ten o'clock in the morning, when a party program will be adopted and such other business as may be properly brought before the convention will be transacted. Eighty-five precinct clubs, represented by 152 delegates, will be entitled to elect officers and to be represented at the territorial convention. The number of precinct clubs and delegates by representative districts is as follows:

First District, East Hawaii, twelve precincts and twenty delegates; Second district, West Hawaii, twelve precincts and seventeen delegates, making a total of twenty-four precincts and thirty-seven delegates for the Island of Hawaii; Third district, Maui, Molo-kai, Lanai and Kahoolawe, twenty-two precincts and thirty-six delegates; Fifth district, Oahu, seventeen precincts and thirty-four delegates, making a total of twenty-one precincts and sixty-six delegates for the Island of Oahu; Sixth district, Islands of Kauai and Niihau, ten precincts and thirteen delegates.

HILO PRELUCE LARGEST

The central Hilo precinct, the fifth of the first, will have five delegates, the largest attendance at the coming Republican convention. The other Hilo precinct, known as Waikaeae, fourth of the first, will have four delegates. West Hawaii has no precinct with more than three delegates. Maui has two, the fifth and seventh of the third, with four each; Oahu has four precincts with four delegates each, the second and the ninth of the fourth and the eleventh and fourteenth of the fifth. Kauai has but one precinct entitled to three delegates, one with two and all the others with but one.

FIRST NAMED CANDIDATE IN FIELD

Senator Charles Rice Authorized Announcement of His Candidacy for Republican Nomination as Delegate to Congress—His Action Should Clear the Political Air.

(From Monday Advertiser.) Senator Charles A. Rice of Kauai has authorized The Advertiser to announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Delegate to Congress. He is in the field to stay until the results of the primaries are known, and expects to secure the majority endorsement of his candidacy from the Republicans, which will be tantamount to election in November.

Senator Charles A. Rice of Kauai has authorized The Advertiser to announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Delegate to Congress. He is in the field to stay until the results of the primaries are known, and expects to secure the majority endorsement of his candidacy from the Republicans, which will be tantamount to election in November.

Senator Rice will be in Honolulu within a few days to establish his political headquarters, announce his position and begin a systematic campaign for the nomination, a campaign that will take in every section of the Territory.

This is the first definite announcement of a candidacy for the highest position in the gift of the territorial electorate, in either of the main parties, and will probably be the signal for the active commencement of the primary campaign. Following Senator Rice's announcement may now be expected definite announcements from others of his party, either that they propose to contest with him for the Republican nomination or will support him in his candidacy.

CREDITABLE RECORD

Senator Rice, although a young man, has been a recognized leader in his party for the past several years. He has represented his Island in the local legislature since 1905, serving with credit in the house of representatives during four sessions and being then returned, in 1912, as junior senator from Kauai. In the house he led the Kauai delegation, known as the strongest working unit of the legislature, and during two sessions held the important post of chairman of the finance committee. During two terms, too, he was vice-speaker and was frequently called upon to preside over the deliberations of the assembly.

Another indication of his work in the house was that he became recognized as the white member in whom the Hawaiian members imposed implicit confidence.

IN NATIONAL CONVENTION

As a senator, Mr. Rice brought with him to the upper chamber the prestige his work in the lower house entitled him to, and he was assigned to two chairmanships, that of the committee on ways and means and the committee on rules. He also served as a member of the committee on education.

As a party man, Senator Rice has likewise been prominent. Among other honors, he was sent by the party in Hawaii as one of the delegates to the Chicago national convention, where he was elected as the delegation's choice as national committeeman.
