

BERKELEY BRANCH IS DESTROYED AND CATTLE IN DANGER

Three Streams of Molten Rock Pour Out of Fissures and Down Mountainside

COURSES ARE ALONG TRACKS OF OLD FLOWS

Country of Kau District South of Volcano Being Devastated by Fiery Rivers

MAUNA LOA is in great eruption and a heavy lava flow, which branched off into three streams when the head of the flow of 1887 was reached yesterday, is carrying devastation before it. No lives have been reported lost and as the country over which the molten outpourings of Mo-kua-we-we is spreading is practically a barren waste, because of previous flows, and not peopled to any extent, no apprehension is felt on this score.

There is considerable danger, however, that cattle which roam over the district now criss-crossed with the triple flow may be lost. The news received by The Advertiser late yesterday afternoon was that all possible measures were being taken to drive off the cattle to safer quarters, but that several hundred head might probably be caught in the "islands" formed by the different lava streams.

News of the eruption is told in graphic form in Mutual Wireless special to The Advertiser and others in Honolulu. The latest word from the scene of activity came from Hilo at five-twenty-three yesterday afternoon, as follows:

Berkelemann Ranch Destroyed "At half-past eleven o'clock Sunday night an enormous eruption of Mauna Loa occurred on the Kau side of the big mountain, a lava stream breaking out at the seven thousand foot level.

"At this point an immense stream of lava broke out from the side of the mountain and flowed down its slopes. On reaching the head of the 1887 flow the lava broke forth into three streams. One of the streams is making its way towards Kahuku and Waiohinu; another is following the course of the 1887 flow, while the third stream is keeping to the 1907 flow.

"The government road has been crossed by the lava and the Berkelemann Ranch is practically destroyed. The Kahuku Ranch lands are being rapidly covered by fiery lava. The manager and all the available men of this ranch are rounding up and driving the cattle, which have been at large, to safety, but it is likely that hundreds of head will be caught by between forks of the flow and destroyed.

"No human lives have been lost, the slow progress of the flow giving the people in the threatened district ample time to seek safety elsewhere.

"Very little of the activity on Mauna Loa can be seen from Hilo, excepting dense volumes of volcanic smoke which at periods this morning covered the mountain top. Fifty automobiles, carrying hundreds of sightseers, left Hilo this morning for Kau, going by way of the Volcano Road and the Volcano House."

Another wireless message to The Advertiser, received here yesterday at four-fifty-nine in the afternoon from Kau says:

"On the Kahuku Ranch a lava fountain erupted at eleven o'clock Sunday night, when a radiant column of hot vapors rose to a height of 5000 feet. Jaggar on Scene

"Thomas A. Jaggar Jr., director of the Kilauaea observatory, accompanied by Capt. John W. Kilbreth and Capt. Charles E. Lloyd of the First Field Artillery, Schofield Barracks, Oahu, Prof. H. O. Wood, Professor Jaggar's assistant, and J. W. Waldron of Honolulu, drove all night from the Volcano House towards the scene of activity and finally located the flow ten miles above the Kahuku Ranch.

"The lava stream forked today, one branch flowing towards the 1897 flow on the Kona side and the other towards the Waiohinu Homesteads.

"The flows are respectively 200 and 300 yards wide and are progressing slowly in their march of destruction."

Early Messages Bring News "At twelve-thirty yesterday afternoon the promotion committee here received from George H. Vicars of Hilo the following:

"Lava flowing in three streams, one in the direction of the 1907 flow, a second towards that of 1887 and the third one in approaching the Berkelemann homestead. The last mentioned stream is expected to cross the government road tomorrow."

A message to The Advertiser, filed in Hilo Sunday morning, but received here at nine-twenty yesterday morning, says:

"Almost continuous slight earthquakes have convulsed Professor Jaggar that a second outbreak of Mauna Loa is momentarily possible.

Second Eruption Was Looked For "Friday's eruption lasted for five hours. Gas and smoke issued from a fissure two miles long, which points towards the Kahuku Ranch. The smoke and gas rose, like a mushroom, 20,000 feet into the air. No flow has been located and the exact spot of the activity is not known at this time."

This message proves that Professor Jaggar was right in anticipation of an early second outbreak of Mauna Loa on Sunday.

The Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company received two messages yesterday from Hilo. The later one read:

"The lava flow increases and has three forks, one on the 1907 flow, one going south and the third going towards

PLANNERS PROTEST TAX ASSESSMENTS

Sixteen Corporations Object To Valuations Fixed and Ask Government For Relief

Objections to tax assessments, aggregating approximately $10,000,000, have been filed with the territorial treasurer's office by sixteen sugar companies. In the list is one company of Maui, one dozen companies of Hawaii and three of Kauai.

The appeals have been sent to the attorney general, and the cases are to come up for hearing before the tax appeal court, organized several days ago by Governor Pinkham.

Under a recent ruling of Attorney General Stainback, appeals filed later than May 1, do not come under the jurisdiction of the tax appeal court. This opinion was handed down in the case of Theo. H. Davies & Co.'s plantation, which filed a complaint too late to get its appeal in before that date.

"All tax appeals must, under the law, be filed not later than May 1," said Mr. Stainback yesterday. "Neither the tax assessor nor the treasurer have any right to allow appeals when the time limit has expired."

The following sugar companies have filed appeals from assessments levied upon them: Waikuku, $300,000; Waiakoa, $450,000; Hilo, $1,500,000; Onomea, $1,500,000; Honouliuli, $600,000; Hakalanui, $1,500,000; Laupahoehoe, $550,000; Kaiwika, $250,000; Honokaa, $200,000; Pacific Mill, $150,000; Union Mill, $150,000; Hawi Mill, $200,000; Hawi Agricultural, $1,250,000; Gay & Robinson, $300,000; Hawaiian Sugar, $250,000; and McBryde, $1,000,000.

The cases probably will come up for hearing some time in June.

WILL GIVE MONEY IF SEDGWICK GOES

The committee on ways and means of the board of supervisors, which has under consideration the financing of the Honolulu Water Commission to the amount of $300,000 for the continuation of necessary work has about made up its mind to advise the expenditure of the money from the fund of the waterworks, on one condition. That condition is that the commissioners drop from the work Prof. T. F. Sedgwick, who, in their opinion, has been making destructive criticism of the labors of the other engineers of the commission and obstructing the work by going outside of his position, on the commission to make his views public.

It is the claim of several of the commission and of Manager Harry Murray of the waterworks that Sedgwick has been more of a stumbling block to the work in hand than an assistance and that he is a member of the territorial water survey without pay and a member of the Honolulu Water Commission without salary. That he is not working in the interests of the city, but against it in an endeavor to stand in with the Governor in his objections to the extension of the waterworks, is the opinion of many of the supervisors and some of the members of the commission.

What action the commissioners will take when the result of the deliberations of the ways and means committee is made known to them remains to be seen.

The Waiohinu Homesteads in Kau, eight miles from Waiohinu the flow is very hot and is traveling rapidly. It will be in sight of the government road tonight, according to a report received from Fredenberg, who went up close to the flow.

The earlier message was: "The flow started from Mauna Loa at half-past eleven o'clock on Sunday night. Professor Jaggar reports from Kahuku that the flow broke out about 7000 feet up on the mountain slope. The flow is from two or three miles long, with every indication of increasing in size."

A message to the afternoon paper, received yesterday, reported: "Mauna Loa has broken out in eruption again. At eleven o'clock last night, 7000 feet up the lofty mountain, a lava flow broke out on the Kahuku side and is already three miles down the slope."

"The flow is cutting a path between the flows of 1868 and 1887, and making its way toward Kau, the lava traveling in a southwest direction.

"Last night newspapers could be read in Kau and Kona by the reflection on the sky.

"Prof. T. A. Jaggar, director of the observatory at Kilauaea, and Prof. H. O. Wood, his assistant, went over to Kau early today to locate the height of the outbreak. They will establish headquarters at Waiohinu.

"All indications point to the first explosion higher up being a vast jet of steam and smoke released when the mountain side lower down broke open. There is no sign of activity from higher up now. All interest centers in the outbreak at the 7000-foot level.

Two flows are now reported, the lava stream having forked. It is coming at the rate of one mile an hour and should reach the government road by dark tonight. It will strike the road about four or five miles on the Kona side of the Kahuku ranch gate."

Country a Barren Waste "There is every evidence, from all the messages received in Honolulu yesterday, that the present outbreak of Mauna Loa will be a sustained one and that the lava will eventually reach the ocean on the Kau coast. The country over which the three streams are spreading is practically a barren waste already, but on it cattle eke out a precarious subsistence from the grass and shrubs which grow in between flows of former periods.

PICKED ENLISTED MEN HAVE CHANCE FOR COMMISSIONS

Thirteen Will Leave In Sierra Today To Take 'Fitness' Examinations On Coast

ORDER IS ISSUED TO MEET ARMY REORGANIZATION NEED

Officers Promotion Boards Are Created By Command of Hawaiian Department Head

Thirteen picked enlisted men, from various organizations of the army stationed on Oahu will sail in the Sierra this morning for San Francisco, where they will be given the required mental and physical tests.

The promotion committee will furnish an abundance of leis, the local photographers a quantity of island scenes and views, and along with the float and first-hand boosting by the various delegates Honolulu need have no fear of a back seat.

Six years ago in Boston was held the first convention of advertising men, who assembled to discuss ways and means to improve their particular line of business. From that time on, however, business men, realizing the correlation existing between advertising and business, both big and small, saw the advantage of attending these meetings of the wide-awake ad men with a result that now the merchant princes of the country attend in order that they may learn the new ideas in merchandising. Hence, from the message of men who tell where of whom they buy has sprung what can be justly termed a National Business Men's Convention, minus, of course, the hip, hip, burrah which is rapidly falling into disuse.

It was planned originally to have the Honolulu delegates leave in a body, but half the number being already on the mainland this idea was abandoned.

FLOAT OF KILAUEA IN ACTION PLANNED

Honolulu Promises To Be Well Represented At National Ad Men's Convention

That Honolulu will be well represented at the convention of Associated Advertising Clubs of the world, which convenes in Philadelphia, Sunday, June 25, is an assured fact. Voluntary contributions toward furnishing an appropriate float already exceed $500 and while the exact design has not been decided upon Delegate at Large Charles R. Frazier is of the opinion that a reproduction of Kilauea of sufficient size to be realistic will be entered in the monster night pageant, Monday, June 26. The fact that the principal parade will take place at night affords opportunity for a suitable display of Kilauea in action, which will perform the double duty of advertising the islands and giving the residents of the "City of Brotherly Love" an excellent view of Hawaii's "fiery volcano."

The promotion committee will furnish an abundance of leis, the local photographers a quantity of island scenes and views, and along with the float and first-hand boosting by the various delegates Honolulu need have no fear of a back seat.

SELLER OF 'SWIPES' FIGHTS INSPECTOR AND DODGES ARREST

Pal Uses Gas Pipe When Fennell and Jacobson Raid Illicit Joint

JACOBSON LOSES ONE MAN BUT HOLDS FAST TO OTHER

Iokewe Enables Niau To Flee and Now Faces Serious Charge Himself

Licence Inspector W. P. Fennell and his assistant, Ben Jacobson, raided an openly run "swipes joint" in Kalihi at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. After engaging in a rough and tumble fight with the occupants of the place Jacobson succeeded in arresting J. Iokewe, a Hawaiian, Niau, another Hawaiian, who is said to be half owner, and a participant in the melee, succeeded in eluding the arresting officer. He may be arrested today. Iokewe was charged with illicit sale of liquor.

The inspector and his assistant approached the house, after watching a sale of "swipes." Niau seemed to be the lone occupant of the shack, and up on being approached by the officers surrendered himself. Fennell then turned him over to Jacobson, and left for the main road to secure his automobile.

Niau, who is a burly Hawaiian, attacked Jacobson, who endeavored, and nearly succeeded, in demonstrating just how well he can fight. The scrap was cut short, however, by the entry of Iokewe, who asleep in the shack, heard the scuffle, and seizing a piece of gas pipe, jumped to the assistance of his partner.

Jacobson was knocked down by the men, and Niau upon being liberated also grabbed a piece of pipe as a weapon against Jacobson. Jacobson, after a struggle, in which he received minor bruises about the body and lost most of his clothing, succeeded in slipping a knockout to Iokewe.

Niau Makes Escape "The fate of his friend evidently did not look good to Niau, who with his gas pipe in his hand, took to his heels. Begrimmed with sweat, blood and dirt, Niau was followed by Inspector Fennell, who clung tightly to Iokewe.

The fighting Hawaiian was placed in the machine and a search of the premises disclosed an old time "swipes mill." A large barrel filled with brewing mash, together with distilling vats, and several demijohns filled with the liquor also was found. The demijohn purchased by Jacobson was broken in the fight, but according to the inspector, they will not lack evidence in the police court this morning.

Assault Is Admitted "At the police station Iokewe admitted the assault upon Jacobson, and that the swipes mill had been run openly for several months. According to Inspector Fennell, the joint has been run very secretly and the facts have been hoisted to secure. This is the second large booze venditing establishment raided in the Kalihi district within the last two months.
