

THE BREWERY TO BE ESTABLISHED HERE

Seattle Brewing & Malting Company Plans To Erect $450,000 Plant In Honolulu

WILL SUPPLY HAWAII AND PACIFIC DEMANDS

Aging Depot and Hop and Malt Warehouses Part of Scheme of Big Industry.

Four hundred and fifty thousand dollars is to be invested in a brewing plant in Honolulu by the Seattle Brewing and Malting Company.

The brewery will be of the most modern type, and on a large scale, with an aging plant which will enable the company to hold its product for six months before putting it on the market.

The preliminary work has been under way for some time, and complete data were sent to L. Hemrich, president of the Seattle corporation, in the last mail.

Arrangements are under way for the selection of a site and the negotiations are in the hands of the Waterhouse Trust company, but the officials of that concern have declined to make public any of their plans until such time as the deal has been closed and the papers signed.

Will Supply Pacific Trade. J. P. Hughes, the local agent of the Seattle Brewery interests, has had charge of the collection of information and the arrangement of the preliminary details, and he has just returned from a trip to Seattle, made to place before his chiefs some of the results of his work and to get further instructions.

It is understood that he has become enthusiastic over the possibilities of Honolulu as a distributing center for the product of the brewery, and the plans include provisions for handling the business of the company with Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania and the Orient, including the Philippine Islands.

The company already does an enormous volume of business with these countries, and it is believed that this will be vastly increased by the installation here of a modern independent plant capable of turning out thousands of gallons of beer daily.

The Hawaiian market is also a big factor in the plans of the brewery folk. The Seattle interests already sell more than $200,000 worth of their products here annually, and it is believed that this sum can be doubled with the advantage of the new facilities proposed for Honolulu.

Will Store Material Here. The Seattle Brewing and Malting Company is a member of the hop and malt exporters and importers' association. This gives it a double advantage, as it will be able to ship to Hawaii any quantity of material needed for the proposed brewery.

The aging plant will be one of the most important features of the brewery. There is nothing of the sort in the Territory at present. Ageing beer not only is more wholesome than green, but its stands shipment far better, and as the plant here will be primarily a distribution center for such a wide range of territory, the aging department is regarded as a prime necessity for the success of the project.

The beer will be kept for six months before being placed on the market.

Has Plants Lying Idle. Work upon the plant here will be rushed through to completion as speedily as possible. It is understood that the corporation now has a number of brewery plants in storage on the Coast. These plants are idle owing to the operation of the recent "dry" laws passed by a number of the Northwestern States. These laws have had the effect of driving the brewing business out of those states, and Hawaii is likely to profit by this.

The new brewery will mean that a large number of jobs for local persons will be created at once, although, of course, the executives and technical men will be brought from the mainland to begin operations. It will also mean the spending of several thousands of dollars monthly in Honolulu, as the payroll of the corporation here will be large.

Solves Distributing Problems. Representatives of the company who have been assisting Mr. Hughes in the preliminary work declare that the proposed plant will solve one of the most difficult problems the company has had to face in reaching out after the business of the Orient and Australasia. By manufacturing its beer here, the distance to these markets would be cut almost in half and the freight charges materially lowered.

Robert W. Breckons is acting as attorney for the company in all of the negotiations here.

PROPERTY AT ALAKEA AND KING STREETS SOLD

Announcement was made yesterday that the building at the Ewa makai corner of Alakea and King streets has been purchased from the William McCandless Estate by J. A. Bunch, treasurer of the Mutual Telephone Company, for $50,000. As the structure is under lease which have several years to run it is unlikely any change will be made in it at present.

NEW MILE RECORD SET AT KAPOLIANI TRACK

Oneonta Cup Goes To Satisfax, Dark Horse From Schofield Barracks

(From Sunday Advertiser) NOCE again this summer, the Kapoliani Park race track was yesterday the scene of horse races that brought back the memories of the old days of racing in Hawaii; the doings of the ponies was the sport of kings and the king of sports, as well. The first day's program of the second race meet held under the auspices of the Hawaii Polo and Racing Club was, in brief, a notable success from the standpoint of the club, the spectators, the owners, and the riders.

Yesterday's card is one that will be long remembered by the lovers of the turf sport. Everything was run off without a hitch. The track was fast, and the immense crowd of Honolulu bet with the horses in every race. There were many favorites. Some of them won and many of them didn't but this added to the intense interest of the meet. The only fault to be found was with the clearness of the announcing. This might be easily remedied.

Back Into Popularity. The success of the performance yesterday and the interest of the grandstand and bleachers full of well-groomed humanity proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that racing has come back into its own in Honolulu. Under the direction of the Racing and Polo Club which has taken the place of the Honolulu Jockey Club, the sport of kings should be at once the biggest drawing card of the year in the sporting line and the chief attraction on the two holidays on which the races have been held this year, Kamehameha Day and Labor Day.

The local swimmers are not the only ones who chatter records as yesterday's performance by Satisfax shows conclusively. It was the track mile record that went by the boards again in the first day of the race meet. Oneonta's time of 1:42 was lowered by Satisfax by one-fifth of a second. By this performance the newcomer in Honolulu turf racing won the Oneonta Cup offered by H. M. von Holt provided the time of Oneonta was beaten. Satisfax the Dark Horse

Satisfax, by the way, was the real dark horse of the meet. Only the railbirds who have been keeping close tabs on the work-outs from day to day and a few of the expert horsemen of the city had an inkling of the fact that the Schofield entry would lead the record holder by three lengths and clip a fifth off the fastest time ever made in the mile here. Satisfax is owned by R. E. D. Hoyle of the First Field Artillery and she was ridden by Lieutenant A. K. Palmer who has had the training of the fast-stepping black mare. The winner of the Oneonta mile is by Rock Sand out of Souriantes.

The remarkable performance of the horse from the hills was not the only feature on the day's race card. In fact every race was a feature in itself. With a perfect day, such as yesterday was an enthusiastic crowd, and horses such as faced the starter in the first day of the Autumn Meet, yesterday's card was one of the best in the history of racing in Honolulu.

Ladies' Race Pretty. The pick of the horsewomen of the Islands faced the starter in the first race on the card, a quarter mile dash for ladies. The start was necessarily slow because of the refusal of some of the posties to break at the start when Starter Weller dropped the flag. Miss Laura Low was unfortunate before the race by having her horse pull away from her and take three-quarters of the track before the rider was able to control the frisky Puwaa Boy.

After the field got away in good style Miss Gwendolyn Von Tempky, on Miss Bertha Bates' Betty, took the pace for a brief time, but Miss Alice Macfarlane, on Kai, who was off last, made ground, took the place at the eighth, and won with Miss Von Tempky's challenge at the finish. Kai was nearly headed at the judges' stand, but withstood the challenge long enough to cross a winner by a quarter length. Miss Rosa's Young Lady raced stoutly, but at no time threatened the winner. Miss Laura Low, on Puwaa Boy finished fourth. Miss Mary Lucia's Billie was scratched.

Roman Race. The second race was a revival of the old Roman race, which was well received at the Kamehameha Day meet.

Big Field in Hurdle Races. By far the biggest field took the start in the last race of the day, the one and one-half mile hurdle for enlisted men of the army. The course had eight flights of hurdles. Sergeant Burnett jockeyed his Peggy into the lead at the barrier and held the pace for the first half. At the grandstand Hoffman's Roxy passed Peggy like lightning, and the newcomer held the pole for the second half. With half a mile to go, Sergeant Belmont on Rowdy, the big bay gelding, moved up from third position and closed in to the point he was never challenged, and finished three lengths of daylight to the good. Abe with Outen up, took second money, and Hans, ridden by Cohen, copied third. Roxy kept well up and finished a running fourth. Peggy staggered in a poor ninth.

Oneonta Cup To Satisfax. A record went by the boards in the fifth race and warmed up the great crowd to a high pitch of excitement. The entry list was the biggest of the day for professional riders. Out of a field of five, Satisfax, the fleet product of Rock Sand-Souriantes scored an unexpected victory over Mrs. W. F. Dillingham's Oneonta and the much-favored Mohawk Bay. The time was 1:41 1/5, a fifth of a second faster than the record held by Oneonta since Kamehameha Day. This time was a short-standing record. Oneonta having beaten the mark of Del Vista and Weller held in 1902 by half a second.

Lieutenant Palmer, who has had charge of the training of Satisfax, rode a perfect race. He rated the pace superbly and at the time held the Schofield favorite in perfect control.

Harvester, the much-touted favorite, ran disappointingly. He broke late, after causing much delay at the start, and finished back of the field. Satisfax took the pace at the flag and kept it for the entire mile. Oneonta broke third but moved up very slowly and passed Mohawk Bay at the half mile. Neither of the second and third horses were in the running with the Schofield speed burner. Satisfax finished easily up with three lengths to spare.

Malina is one of the hardest hitters in the polo game. His long shot for a perfect goal in the seventh chukker was without a doubt the prettiest piece of mallet work ever witnessed on Kapoliani Park. Malina is said by some to have lost some of the dash with which he was wont to play in the old championships but from the speed of his ponies yesterday, it is extremely doubtful if any one could have had more dash to go than the only Hawaiian player in the game here. All in all, Malina was a credit to the Garden Island team.

The other goal made by the Garden Island four was placed between the posts in the first period by J. M. Spalding who played his position well. C. A. Rice will play a much better game after the opening of the season. His work with the mallet yesterday indicates that with a little more practice he will once more round into one of the best wielders of the Island.

Tae Kauai riders got off to a flying start after a short rally into their territory by Oahu when Auroa Castle took the ball for a long trip towards the mauka goal. Gould played the ball down close by the mauka post. Spalding placed it through in 2:04. Before the end of the evening, however, it was after the time for the period was up, Oahu evened things up. Walter Dillingham scored the first of his goals after ten minutes of hard mauling by both teams.

Jabu Had Advantage. With the score tied, the second period was scoreless. Neither team had a noticeable advantage. Beginning with the third chukker the advantage was all to Oahu, but hard riding by the Kauai team kept the ball away from the danger line time and again. Two scores in this period, one by Dillingham and the other by Aurore, paced the score 3-1. Spalding and Gould each saved another goal. The fourth chukker was also scoreless, only excellent work by Gould being responsible for the fact that Arthur didn't score.

It was less than a minute after the beginning of the fifth period before Walter Dillingham placed the ball between the posts for the third time. Walter Macfarlane made the second goal this period in 4:43. A safety on Spalding in this period brought the score down to 5-3. In the sixth period, which saw no further scoring, Gould and Malina played an excellent game. Malina was in nearly every play and was conspicuous for riding out his opponent. Gould's backhand stroke was spectacular and effective. A foul by this player reduced the score for Kauai to 1-4.

Dillingham Scores Quick. The seventh period saw two more goals made by the Oahu captain in quick succession but a foul on Macfarlane in the sixth had taken off half a point so the score stood 6 1/2-1-4 until Malina made the feature shot of the game, placing the bamboo between the white posts from near midfield. Dillingham's last score in the final chukker brought the Oahu tally up to 7 1/2 for the Blue and Gould's second foul reduced that of the Garden Island

EXCELLENT POLO MARKS OPENING OF 1916 SERIES

Oahu's Win Over Kauai Shows Local Polo In Excellent Form. Losers Good

INAUGURATING the opening of the inter-island series for 1916 in one of the most interesting and one of the best played matches seen on Kapoliani Field since its formal opening, the Oahu polo team defeated the newly organized Kauai four by the score of 7 1/2-1-4 yesterday. The score is far from indicating the class of the game. Every goal was hard fought, and only some very excellent saves by the Oahu quartet kept the talking as one-sided as it was.

Considering the fact that the Garden Island four has been packed less than three weeks and that the Oahu team has been playing together a considerable longer time, the results of yesterday's match are no more unbalanced than might be expected. At any rate, he first game of the championship series was of intense interest to the occupants of bleachers, grandstands and woodchairs which lined up along the Leahi side of the field.

Dillingham the Star. The feature playing of the day was that of Walter F. Dillingham, captain of the Oahu team. The leading player of the Blue team placed six goals for the winners and rode the best game. His short strokes and backhand work with the mallet are particularly responsible for the excellent game played by him. Harold Castle played right next to Dillingham for high honors for the Oahu team. Arthur Rice was not as much in evidence in yesterday's play as he has usually been in previous matches. Walter Macfarlane hardly got down to work until the seventh chukker. He was unable to find the ball for anything like a long shot during the entire first half. After he finally loosened up, near the end of the game however, he showed a flash of real playing.

Gould and Malina Excel. For the losing team Jay Gould starred and Charles Malina was hardly less in the limelight. The mainland star was everywhere on the field at once. His string of polo ponies were a revelation to the enthusiasts who watched yesterday's game. This is the first time Gould has been seen in action in a game here and the impression he created as a poloist is that he is well worthy of the ranking he has received as one of the best in the East.

CANN SURPRISES BY WIN IN 220-YARDS

New Yorker Beats Kelii, Duke and Cunha In Last Twenty Sprint

Before a crowd which cheered wildly during the entire race Tedford Cann completely upset the dope laid out when he won the 220-yard Hawaiian championship with a whitewash finish. It was a race so full of surprises that it left the audience speculating during the entire evening. With five men practically tied at the end of 200 yards, the audience went wild, and it was not until the announcer called out the winners that the audience sat down assured.

Kelii sprung the second big surprise by crowding Cann to the finish and taking second, finishing less than a yard behind the winner. This hard working swimmer justly deserved the place for he swam a pretty race. Kelii has been ranked among the best in the Islands, but he was not expected to put up such a battle as he did last night. If this husky youngster proves as much in the next five months as he has in the past five he is going to be the champion at the next Mid-Pacific Carnival. Duke and Cunha swam a dead heat, which is a remarkable coincidence, considering the fact that they did not start until a year ago in the harbor last July when they tied for first in the 220 and established a new world's record. In an engraving received from his club Voller was released and allowed to enter this event, but he failed to place.

Duke held the lead up to the 150 yard mark, with Voller, Cunha and Cann trailing respectively. Then Cunha and Kelii put on a little steam and pulled up even with Duke, while Cann still trailed five yards behind. Cunha increased his stroke and took the lead at end of 180 yards with Kelii, Duke, and Cann crowding him. At the end of the 200 yards Kelii took the turn first, Duke second, Cunha third and Cann still trailing. But in the last yards Cann brought the people in the grandstands to their feet by a wonderful display of speed and reserve and literally tore his way through the water to the finish line ending less than a yard ahead of Kelii. The latter gave the winner a battle royal and it looked as though Kelii might have been the inner for a moment. Duke and Cunha who had been the favorites in this event were unable to stand the terrific sprint, although they put up a wonderful race. This was the only closely contested event on the program.

Dark Horse Cann. To say that Cann won the race was a surprise is putting it mildly. No dark horse crossing the wire in a race meet a winner could have created any greater stir than when the 500 yard champ stretched himself in the last twenty yards and won the event.

After Cann's performance in the first night of the carnival he was given no serious consideration in this event and for him to come up from the rear and take the furlough in 2:29 1/2, only one-fifth of a second less than the record time was the biggest upset of the carnival. The New Yorker swam a pretty race, with long even strokes maintaining the same pace throughout until the last twenty yards when he exhibited speed little

SOLDIERS GIVEN ANOTHER CHANCE FOR COMMISSIONS

Examinations For Promotions From Ranks To Be Held Here Next Month

DEPARTMENT LETS DOWN SOME OF THE FORMER BARS. Physical and Mental Tests For Second Lieutenants Remain Difficult To Pass. According to cable advices received at headquarters of the Hawaiian Department from Washington yesterday another examination of candidates of all classes for appointment as Second Lieutenants in the army will be held. The examination is to begin on October 16 and all those legally qualified on the date specified will be reported and authorized to take the final examination as prescribed in general orders No. 28, war department, current series, without passing the preliminary examination required by previous war department orders. Officers of the Hawaiian Department have been cautioned to take extra care in reporting upon qualifications of enlisted men who make application to take this examination. The habits and character of each enlisted candidate are determined principally by the officer under whom he is serving, or has served, and a report in each case is required to show that the soldier is qualified in these respects for a commission in the army. The waiver of the preliminary examination, in a measure lets down the bars and gives a better opportunity to both soldiers and civilians to obtain commissions in the army than they have ever had before.

Examinations Severe. Each applicant who is physically qualified or desires to undergo the mental examination notwithstanding his physical defects will be examined mentally in the following subjects, subject to certain exemptions which will be seen.

- GROUP I. 1. United States history and Constitution. 2. Geography. 3. Elementary English. 4. Algebra. 5. Geometry. 6. Trigonometry.

GROUP II. 1. Elementary French, German or Spanish, as the applicant may select. 2. General history. 3. Elementary surveying. In addition to the above, the candidate is also examined in one of the following subjects.

- GROUP III. 1. Advanced English. 2. Advanced French. 3. Advanced German. 4. Advanced Spanish. 5. Analytical geometry. 6. Calculus (differential and integral). 7. Military art and field engineering. 8. Advanced surveying. Must Select Topics. The candidate, before entering the mental examination, is required to submit to the examining board in writing his choice of the subject in Group III and in one of Group II.

Recent orders from the war department announce that examination in the subjects of geometry and trigonometry may be omitted, but if a candidate takes either of such subjects a relative weight of two instead of one will be given for mark in each. Instead of the subjects of Group II the candidate may be given an oral and practical examination in drill regulations of his arm or corps and in Field Service Regulations, for each of which a relative weight of two will be given. If a candidate chooses, he may be examined in writing in any one or all of the subjects of Group II, in lieu of drill regulations and Field Service Regulations, a relative weight of two instead of one being given for mark in each of the subjects selected.

Character Counts. Instead of choice of subject in Group III each member of the board will award the candidate a mark on a scale of 100 representing his character, record length of service, efficiency as a soldier and his aptitude and probable qualification for the duty of a second lieutenant of the line. The average marks will represent his mark under Group II, a relative weight of two being given such mark. Plane and solid geometry and new plane and solid trigonometry, as contained in Upton's Military Policy and text-books, will also be omitted.

Examination to Determine Whether a candidate from the army shall receive permanent appointment after two years service or his provisional appointment shall be terminated under the Act of Congress, approved, June 3, 1916, will be held on October 11, 11, and 12, above, or an educational and professional test of equal degree, and such other provisions as are contained in general orders, No. 64, war department, 1915.

Lawrence O. Cook, yeoman of the United States naval station in this city, and Miss Charlotte A. Sversten, a graduate of this year's class at the Normal school, were married last night at the parsonage of the First Methodist Church, by Rev. Leon L. Looft-hous, pastor. The witnesses were H. C. Smith and Miss Aldie Smith. The wedding was an family only relatives and intimate friends being present.

QUARANTINE QUESTION WILL BE THRASHED OUT

Resolution of Apology To San Francisco Is Subject. A large audience and plenty of pulchery is expected at a meeting to be held at the city hall next Thursday, when the San Francisco quarantine question is brought up for discussion. The question is brought up by the chairman of the board of sanitation and health committee of the board of supervisors, at the instance of Superintendent Hatch who introduced a resolution on the subject at a recent meeting of the supervisors.

The resolution suggests that the local board express its regrets to the San Francisco mayor and supervisors for the fact that the city has been declared an infected port by the local government physicians who enforce in inspection of all vessels arriving from the Golden Gate city.
