

DIRECT QUESTIONS CHANGE COURSE AT RATE HEARING

Inter-Island Under Fire At Session of the Public Utilities Commission

McLEAN GIVEN TIME IN WHICH TO ANSWER QUERIES

H. Gooding Field Balks At Being Made Target For Continued Better Grilling

Six direct questions set squarely before the officials of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company for them to answer...

The questions afforded but brief respite in the bitter battle of words over the report of H. Gooding Field...

Commissioner's Questions: Of what do the so-called 'non-public utility' enterprises of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company consist?

From what sources of revenue has the company built up these so-called 'non-public utility' enterprises?

What were the values of these 'non-public utility' enterprises September 1, 1916, as shown by the company's books?

Has the company any bonded debt or has it sold any treasury stock?

What was the total amount of cash dividends paid by the company from September, 1905, to August, 1916?

Did the company pay any stock dividends in addition to the cash dividends paid?

McLean Answers Queries: Summarized, McLean's answers were that the company numbered among its non-public utility enterprises its coal business, its ship chandlery business, its floating drydock and its real estate holdings...

Among the questions which the commission has been called upon to furnish answers are requests for records by the commission. These include furnishing copies of the company's original charter and its amended charter to see if it is privileged to engage in the coal or ship chandlery business...

Go Over Old Ground: The discussion was even more tangled and technical than Thursday's hearing and covered word for word the same ground as was gone over at the last meeting.

The familiar and now famous figures of $432,020.70 were whirled back and forth and around a score of times and again Field was called upon to retract his statement that when this amount was closed out of the depreciation fund it was thrown into surplus.

Lie Twice Nearly Passed: Twice in the words controversy on this subject Warren and Field almost passed the lie and once only the quick interference of Chairman Forbes prevented an unpleasantness.

Asked what was his authority for the statement, Field started to explain a conversation with K. R. G. Wallace, bookkeeper for the company saying: "Mr. Wallace informed me..."

Field balked at being made a target for continued better grilling. He was under oath and finished his statement with deliberate emphasis. Warren promised to put Wallace on the stand to refute the conversation.

EXCLUSIVE PEACE BARRED BY CANADA

Dominion's Premier Thanks Women of United States For Aid

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) NEW YORK, November 21.—Canada will not accept an inconclusive peace on any terms, declared Premier Borden of the Dominion in the course of an address delivered by him last night at a banquet given by the Canadian Club of New York in his honor.

At another point in the grilling cross-examination of Field by Warren, the auditor emphatically refused to answer a question on the ground that he had given his answer and explanation many times already.

Other meetings had been held earlier in the day, one at one o'clock and another at five o'clock in the afternoon, when the men who had refused to go to work yesterday adjourned after learning nothing to meet again last night.

When they appeared in the early evening they were in varying degrees of insobriety accompanied by a small keg of distilled joy and any number of bottles concealed on their persons.

James H. Hakole who had the striking boots in hand earlier in the day and planned for a big mass meeting last night found that his cunning as a peerless leader had departed, his place being taken by General Sake who held away for several hours and almost threatened to prevent the scheduled hour work.

But after sake had been exhausted the cheerful gathering was prepared for oratory, song or any other form of excitement and finally decided to glut their yearning for diversion by holding the scheduled meeting after all.

Hakole, who had been engaged by the men several weeks ago to take care of their interests, possibly because he speaks Japanese, Hawaiian and English, took the platform and told the men that if they had gone on a strike it was not with his consent and that they had taken the rash step without consulting him.

Hakole declared that he had had brief interview with Norman E. Gedger, acting manager of the company, yesterday afternoon but that Gedger stated it was too late to give him the information he wanted but would try to get it today.

Some of the points that the men at the meeting sought to discuss last night, but as overindulgence in sake upset all the plans of the few who kept their heads, with the result that although more than twenty different persons spoke more or less incoherently, nothing was arrived at.

Here the heckling questions fired at Field called from Commissioner Carden an interruption that the attorney was arguing with the witness and Field was spared further from the grilling.

Field finally admitted that the books didn't show that $250,000 of the $750,000 was stock dividend but he insisted that the dividend listed in the books was not a dividend.

Warren Basis Questions: Warren pointed out to the company that for the $750,000 of stock issued in 1905 on account of the purchase of the Wilder Steamship Company, the Inter-Island had received assets valued at $829,087.92.

He called upon Field to explain the inconsistency of any of the $750,000 being a stock dividend when the assets received in exchange were more than the amount of the stock issue.

Let Inter-Island Reply: "Yes," said Chairman Forbes, "let the Inter-Island supply any further answers that are needed."

Chairman Forbes then began direct examination of Field on the other two alleged stock dividends listed in the auditor's report—both for $750,000—of which the report shows $125,000 was taken from the repairs fund and $476,193.18 from the insurance fund for one and $7,078.71 was taken from the insurance fund and $42,944.47 taken from the construction and repairs fund for the other.

These stock dividends were not paid out of the earnings of the non-utility parts of the company's business but from the utility side of the business inasmuch as they were taken from the construction and repairs fund and insurance fund.

Field balked at being made a target for continued better grilling. He was under oath and finished his statement with deliberate emphasis. Warren promised to put Wallace on the stand to refute the conversation.

JAPANESE SEAMEN DISCUSS STRIKE AT MASS MEETING

Not At All Sure Whether They Have Quit Inter-Island Jobs Or Not

GENERAL SAKE TAKES OVER COMMAND OF GATHERING

No Definite Conclusion Reached After Hours of More Or Less Heated Talk

Between fifty and sixty Japanese and Hawaiian able-bodied seamen, some of them more able than others, met at the Taihokai Theater last night to learn whether or not there was a strike on the Inter-Island Steam Navigation boats.

Other meetings had been held earlier in the day, one at one o'clock and another at five o'clock in the afternoon, when the men who had refused to go to work yesterday adjourned after learning nothing to meet again last night.

SECRETARY THAYER AT LAST TOWARDS HIS RESIGNATION

Wallace R. Farrington Among Those Prominently Mentioned As His Successor In Office

PUBLISHER STANDS ACE HIGH WITH GOVERNOR

Palmer Woods, Delbert Metzger and B. G. Rivenburgh Are Also Talked About

Wade Warren Thayer has at last formally resigned as Secretary of the Territory. His resignation was forwarded to President Wilson on November 11, as soon as it was definitely known that Wilson has been re-elected President.

It has long been known that Mr. Thayer intended to resign. Indeed, it may be stated definitely that as long as a year ago he declared his intention of resigning at the end of the year.

His resignation would have been tendered some time since had he not been dissuaded through the argument that it might be thought he was quitting because he feared that Hughes might be elected President, and it would, in that event, look too much like the rats quitting a sinking ship.

Mr. Thayer stated yesterday that he had withheld his resignation until he was definitely assured that Mr. Wilson had been re-elected President.

"I am quitting," he said, "to be able to devote more time and attention to my private practice. I have never given up my law offices but I found that I couldn't do the work of this office and keep up with my private work."

Metzger Is Mentioned: In reply to a question as to who was liable to be his successor, Mr. Thayer replied that he had no definite idea.

"I have heard Palmer Woods mentioned," he said, "and Delbert Metzger, and there are others but I don't know who will be appointed."

It can be stated, however, that Palmer Woods is not an aspirant for the office. He is an avowed candidate for the postmastership and does not intend to weaken his strength in that direction by chasing after other possibilities. And it is quite certain that he would not be acceptable to Governor Pinkham.

The Governor is known to favor Wallace R. Farrington for the position, but the difficulty there is that Mr. Farrington is known as a Republican, and with the woods full of hungry Democrats clamoring for pie, it is hardly probable that a Republican, no matter who, would be allowed to run away with so big and juicy a slice as the postmastership.

Wanted Farrington Firm: It was stated yesterday by a prominent Democrat that when Governor Pinkham was first appointed, he urged the appointment of Farrington as Secretary of the Territory and Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior, to whom the Governor owed his own appointment, replied: "There's not a chance. We had trouble enough getting you into the governorship and I'm not going to try to get any more Republicans appointed to office in Hawaii."

J. H. Raymond of Maui has frequently been mentioned in connection with the secretaryship, but C. J. McCarthy, who is one of the leading Democrats of the Territory, stated yesterday that there was no possibility of Raymond accepting the office, even if it were offered to him.

Raymond, McCarthy said, cannot afford to leave his ranch and come to Honolulu.

Bertram G. Rivenburgh, land commissioner, is another whose name has been frequently connected with the secretaryship, but Mr. Rivenburgh declared in a talk yesterday that he would not even consider the position.

He said he was satisfied with his present job and would not think of exchanging it for that held by Mr. Thayer.

Metzger Not Available: As regards former Senator Metzger, it is said that he has lost his residence in the Territory and therefore is not eligible. When his name was up for consideration before the incumbent was appointed, he was held ineligible on the ground that he had not completed his term as senator.

Since then he has moved from the Territory and is now in business in Oregon. Metzger was three years and a half ago, an active candidate for the governorship and made a pilgrimage to Washington in his own behalf.

Reverting to W. R. Farrington, he is not regarded as an absolute impossibility, even by some of the chief Democrats of the Territory. One of them, a territorial official, said yesterday that after Governor Pinkham's appointment, when they were going over positions and candidates, it was agreed that no attempt should be made to influence the Governor in his choice of a territorial secretary.

It was felt that the secretary should be a man of the Governor's choice, no matter what his politics, in view of the fact that the secretary had to be the intimate of the Governor and should be the buffer between him and the public. Mr. Farrington's name was mentioned at that time and no opposition developed.
