MORE TROUBLE FOR CASSIDY

Quincy Newspaper Says That Head of the Egg-O-See Concern is Dodging Many Creditors.

IS IN CLOSE QUARTERS

The Other Cassidy is Charged With Skipping Out of Quincy With Plenty of Hard Cash.

The Quincy Whig does not propose to let the Cassidy's rest in peace, but is after them again this morning, with the following article:
News from Chicago, and facts gathered in Quincy, indicate that John W. Cassidy, who is now only nominally the president of the Egg-O-See company, without a salary, is in very close quarters, and is being pressed by people who placed actual cash in his hands, without investing in stocks, for a settlement.
Unless Cassidy settles the claims that are made against him within the next few days, possibly before the end of the present week, litigation will be begun, it is said, that will prove a veritable sensation.
Cassidy has been putting off his individual creditors, through a shrewd attorney who has been in his employ, from day to day, and the limit of the creditors' patience has been reached.

Where is Bill Cassidy?
Nothing definite has been heard from W. A. Cassidy, brother of J. W. Cassidy, since the failure of the local bucket shop of Cassidy & Gray, but it is almost certain that he left the city with his pockets fairly well lined—at any rate, to the extent of from seven to ten thousand dollars, and that he is now in a distant city with his wife, the divorcee of the former proprietor of the St. James hotel in this city, Henry Lattin.

William A. Cassidy's divorced wife, Ida M. Cassidy, whose home is still in this city, was not at home last night and it could not, therefore, be learned from her whether or not it was true that she could no longer collect $100 a quarter as alimony, under a contract signed by William A. Cassidy, and secured by a bond given by J. W. Cassidy. The next payment, her mother said, falls due October 18. It is said that an attorney for John W. Cassidy called the woman into his office and told her that conditions were such that she must look out for herself in the future, as no more money would be forthcoming.

Back of Bucket Shop.
To those acquainted with the facts, it is no longer doubted that John W. Cassidy was all along back of the Cassidy & Gray company, and that William A. Cassidy was only working on a salary of $200 a month, and that all the receipts of the firm, over and above salaries and expenses, were turned over to J. W. Cassidy. More than this, it is now known that less than a year ago J. W. Cassidy was ahead of his speculations to the extent of at least $350,000, and that he has lost much more than that amount on the board of trade since the beginning of the year.

Property Mortgaged.
John W. Cassidy has mortgaged all his property that was obtained through his local bucket shop operations, and it is an irony of fate that the broad acres that were once the possession of a well known Quincy playwright, and which he acquired, are now the subject of dispute between the people who have claims against him and himself. It is only from the equity on these acres that he expects to prevent proceedings which might overwhelm him the moment they were instituted. One of the claims held against him is that of a man who, if he cannot collect it, will be left penniless.
A requisition for William A. Cassidy is now in contemplation, and it is said that there is sufficient ground for bringing back the man to stand the outcome of a legal proceeding.
Various legal proceedings are also in course of consideration by attorneys relative to John W. Cassidy and interesting developments are considered certain within a day or two unless settlement is made of certain claims against him.

Don't wash and scrub, bend and rub over a hot wash tub; sift a little GOLD DUST in the water, loosen the dirt, and save rubbing

Soap is not a bit of cleansing good until it is mixed with water and made into suds. And then it still needs the rub-rub-rub of human muscle.

GOLD DUST works in an entirely different way—instantly and totally dissolves in hot or cold, hard or soft water—and, without any aid from you, starts to cleanse.

GOLD DUST is more than soap—better and more economical. It is a powder of magic power—but rightly directed power, that leaves the wash white, sweet, wholesome.

Use your brains, not your muscle!
Throw away your soap, get GOLD DUST, and simply use it according to the directions on the package.
"Let the GOLD DUST Twins do your work."

Who remembers George Goodman? The Gate City has an inquiry regarding a man by this name who was a resident of Keokuk years ago and who is said to have been born in this city about forty-five years ago.
No known relatives of the man are known at present and an effort is being made to find some of them, for the man is dead and has left a small fortune which awaits a claimant.
The following letter, received today, explains the reason for a search for Goodman's relatives and its publication should lead to some information about the man:
Was Suddenly Killed.

Does Anyone Know?
If there is anyone in Keokuk who remembers George Goodman and may know anything about him, The Gate City would be pleased to have the information for it may be of assistance in settling up his estate.

NATIONAL GRAIN DEALERS MEET
Thousand Delegates Discussing Important Matters at the Meeting in St. Louis.
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 15.—With a thousand delegates attending the national grain dealers association began its convention today. A. E. Reynolds, of Crawfordsville, Ind., opened the convention. The plan to establish federal inspection of grain promises to be one of the most important topics discussed. The project was voted down a year ago at Indianapolis. The discussion practically aligns the east against the west. Grain grades higher in the west in point of shipment than in points east where received. In the federal inspection of uniform standard the eastern buyers would have to accept western grading. Trading in grain features was another subject on which the convention will probably take a stand.
