The election of the Republican ticket means progress for Keokuk. It means everything that will be for the best interests of the city.

The registration boards will be in session next Saturday. If you failed to register during the former days when the board was in session do so next Saturday.

Two athletes have recently entered the literary race and announced themselves for the novelistic competition. James B. Connolly, author of "An Olympic Victor," and Ellery Clark whose "Loaded Dice" is proving very popular. Mr. Clark and Mr. Connolly were of the party of Americans who went to Athens for the first revival of the Olympic games in 1896. Connolly liked the place so much he was strongly inclined to offer to stay with the King of Greece for his board and lodging. He had been presented with a mystic "rabbit's foot" before leaving America.

To all of the Americans it brought luck. Clark had his first experience with it in the running broad jump. The Greek officials would not allow the jumpers to make a mark to run from. This is the whole gist of the event, according to American practice, and Clark in consequence made two fouls on his first two attempts. One more foul, and he would be disqualified. Imagine a trip of five thousand miles and one trial left! Connolly ran up to Clark. "For heaven's sake," he said, "touch the rabbit's foot!" Clark did so, and his next trial was the winning jump. Mr. Clark has worked into "Loaded Dice" some of his own athletic experiences, so that the book abounds in outdoor excitement. This serves as an excellent foil for the main plot, which concerns love, business and politics. The Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis, Ind.

W. W. Witter, Jr., of Los Angeles is in Keokuk for a visit with home folks and he is stopping with his father, W. W. Witter, 1417 Times.

Charles Yeager, who is under contract to Quincy, stated this morning that he would remain in Keokuk until after election, which is next Monday, and will then report for initial training.

The state health laws require that cases of scarletina should be quarantined the same as scarlet fever. It is reported that there are cases of scarletina which are not quarantined and not reported to the physician to the board of health, thereby increasing the danger of contagion. The physicians of the city should report all cases of scarletina and scarlet rash, the same as the more dangerous cases of scarlet fever.

The aldermanic tickets named by the republicans contain the names of some of the best citizens of Keokuk. The ticket is one of exceptional strength and should receive the support of the people of Keokuk without respect to politics. John DeYong in the First, John Toney in the Second, J. P. Christy in the Third, Lawrence Mundy in the Fourth, Emil Lindstrand in the Fifth and Jim Roberts in the Sixth are all candidates who are worthy of the support of the voters. Each of them will see that the interests of their respective wards and the city in general is well cared for.

A valuable house dog at Sixteenth and Carroll streets was a victim of the dog poisoner yesterday.

Tomorrow will be the last day of March. As the month came in like a lamb, it should go out like a lion and be very illustrious tomorrow. The lamb and lion proposition was a failure this year for the month of March and has been very lamblike all of the way through.

The Keokuk Country Club golf course is being put into shape for the coming season, the first work being done last week. The putting greens have been fenced in to prevent people from passing over them and the cups have been removed and placed nearby for the benefit of golfers who are playing this early in the season.

Louis Sterne has been a resident of Keokuk as the old timers would say, "all the time." He is public spirited and interested in all movements that go to make up for the best of the city. The many voluntary offers of support that are coming to him are evidence that he is highly thought of and will receive a fine vote next Monday.

Henry Kesselring will make the approve. He, with the assistance of Mr. Sterne, will be able to give to Keokuk a commendable administration. Mr. Kesselring has had experience as a peace officer and he is well equipped to perform the duties kind of a marshal that the public can do for the office.

Charles Donahue was brought to Keokuk last evening by Jailor Tim Crimmins from Des Moines and locked up in the county jail, being under three indictments for breaking and entering. He escaped from the city jail a year ago in February and since that time has been at large, but was arrested Sunday in Des Moines and was sent to the sheriff of his capture.

Sheriff J. J. Crimmins brought Richard C. Tyson to the county jail last evening from Tingley where the fellow was arrested by the authorities there. Tyson is a member of the grand jury this month for embezzlement, being charged with appropriating funds from the Kellogg-Birge Co. for whom he was a traveling man for a short time. He is the man whose troubles at Quincy were recently aired through the papers.

From Saturday evening to Monday evening the fire department made seven runs, there being two last evening at about 6 o'clock to be added to the list reported in last evening's paper. At about 5:45 the department made a run to the Rush home at Nineteenth and High streets where a small hole was burned in the kitchen roof. At 6:05 before the chemical engine was back, the second alarm came from Fifth and Exchange where a small hole was burned in the roof of a dwelling house there.

The Burlington Hawk Eye contains the following which will be of much interest to the many Keokuk friends of Rev. Williamson. An informal call has been extended to Dr. W. C. Williamson, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, by the U. P. church at Clarinda Iowa. Dr. Williamson recently occupied the pulpit of the Clarinda church and made a strong impression. He stated last night that he was undecided in the matter, but would announce his decision within the next ten days. Dr. Williamson came to Burlington five years ago from Keokuk. He had held the pastorate of the Keokuk church for nineteen years, and since his coming to Burlington the local church has made great strides forward. Through his leadership a handsome church edifice was constructed at the corner of Division and Gunnison streets. Dr. Williamson has a wide acquaintance outside the membership of his church and has taken a prominent part in the affairs of the Ministerial association.

Invitations have been sent out to men of Keokuk for Thursday night to hear what the returned delegates to the Laymen's Missionary Movement convention at Des Moines heard and saw concerning this question, last week. Supper will be served at 6:45 o'clock and talks will follow.

From dispatches sent from Chicago it looks as if Jack Johnson, the negro champion, may clash with Jim Corbett before the meeting between Jim Jeffries and Johnson comes off. It will be remembered that when Corbett was in Keokuk a short time ago he made the statement that he would fight Johnson if Jeffries did not agree to, soon. Corbett has already posted a forfeit of $1,000 for the go.
