

HANNIBAL STRIKE WAS SETTLED

Excitement Quieted Down at 3:00 O'clock Yesterday Afternoon When Men Went Back to Work.

WERE ALL FOREIGNERS

A Beer-Demoted, Garlic Smelling Crowd of Strikers, Armed with Sticks and Stones.

The Hannibal strike came to an end yesterday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock when an agreement was reached and the men went back to work in the cement factory after intimidating the people for several hours, but failing to do any great damage excepting to assault one American. The Hannibal Courier-Post of last evening handled the strike nicely, giving the following account of the proceedings:

Following a conference between a committee of foreigners and the officials of the Atlas Portland Cement company, the strikers who have been off since Saturday returned to work at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Everything has been adjusted. The common laborers will receive $1.50 per day. The other men will go back on the same pay which they received prior to their refusal to work.

Since the earliest peep of sunshine this morning the dauntless debauchery has continued and while the plant property itself is quite minus the absence of industry, the village is in a hubbub of excitement and for the most part the Americans are refraining from the open. Every loose board, pipe or scrap iron has been ushered into use as a weapon and with these the mixed foreign population, eight hundred strong, is menacing the peace of the community.

At 10:30 a. m. a committee composed of a representative from every nationality represented by the strikers met with Superintendent W. A. Smith and Assistant Superintendent Ray Rucker in an effort to make a settlement. It is to be hoped that a settlement will be reached so that the plant can resume operations at once.

The new Lincoln penny made its appearance in Keokuk today and was eagerly inspected by bank callers. The penny has the head of "Honest Abe" Lincoln on it with the inscriptions "In God we trust" and "Liberty 1909."

On the back of the penny is the inscription "one cent, United States of America," and at the top "E Pluribus Unum." The initials of Victor Brenner, of New York, the designer, are at the bottom in very small letters. The cents were coined at the Philadelphia mint but the San Francisco money factory will soon add to the supply. The Indian head, in use for more than a generation on the cent and now to be discontinued, is to share the fate of its predecessor, the eagle, for the reason that it is easily counterfeited. Early in the present year the government decided on a change, but even then it was proposed to place the head of Lincoln on a silver coin, probably the half dollar. Mr. Brenner submitted his designs at Washington. The head was then assigned to the cent.

Outside of this one incident no violence of moment has been attempted by the foreign strikers. They are being held in bounds by the white element who warn them that the militia will check them into obedience if violence is resorted to.

Born of a country where anarchy is cradled the old country element at the plant are a lawless and non-observant mob in their present state. Law and

WERE ALSO AT QUINCY

The Party of High Wage Seekers Who Stopped Here Monday Had a Hard Time There.

THEY SLEPT AT BASTILE

Divided the Night Between the Police Station and the Depot for Their Slumber and Shelter.

A small army of laborers arrived in Quincy Monday morning and stopped for the rest of the day. The party was the same one that arrived here Monday night and while in Quincy they slept on depot benches and at the police station while waiting for the early morning train. The Quincy Whig in speaking of them says: "Forty-one husky young farmers from Indiana, sent out to work in the western harvest fields by Bird's Labor agency of Indianapolis, Ind., in charge of an excursion agent who gave his name as Roy Walls, spent several hours in Quincy early Monday morning after searching in vain for the man who steered them here, who had mysteriously disappeared."

The gang came in over the Wabash from Decatur, to which point they rode on cheap excursion tickets furnished by the agency. Late in the evening, the man in charge of the party grew restless and said he would like to stay over until 6:30 Monday morning instead of taking the 1:15 train to Keokuk, to which point they were ticketed. The majority were in favor of getting on to their destination with unnecessary delay at this end of the line.

They Put it to a Vote.

"Well, put it to a vote," is the way Leader Walls is represented as saying to his proteges. Only two in the gang were in favor of laying over, so they all thought that settled it and stuck around the passenger station without saying a word until within a half hour of the time the train was scheduled to leave.

But Walls could not be located. Finally it was suggested that they start up town in the hope that they might be able to locate Walls, who carried the transportation for the party. It was while they were making inquiries on lower Broadway that the young fellows encountered Officers Nicoly and Ernst, and told them of the predicament they were in. The policemen made a systematic search, but the man with the tickets failed to materialize.

In the mean time the train for Keokuk had pulled out and the strangers commenced to wonder where they were going to sleep until the next train was due to arrive, some of them saying that it began to look like they had been deserted. So the officers took twenty-six of them to the station, while Sergeant Harvey told them they were welcome to camp out on the seats in the police court room, the other members of the party saying they would go back to the depot and do a flop on the benches there.

After everyone was sound asleep Agent Walls showed up, but did not tell where he had been, and did not seem to be in a very good humor when he was told that the boys did not feel very kindly toward him.

The entire party left Monday night for Keokuk and nothing further has been heard of them.

Can Your Advertising Agent Outsell All the Rest?

This is the vital question. Advertising agents are bad, better or best, according to their selling ability. Nothing else matters at all. Advertising has only one purpose. It is done solely to sell the goods. If ads can be written to sell a tenth more than yours, you are wasting a tenth of your money. You are losing a tenth of your sales.

Suppose you could hire the best salesman you know at the price of a tyro. Which man would you take? In advertising, you can do exactly that. High-class agents, whether good or poor, all charge the same commission. Ads that sell the utmost cost no more to insert than ads that sell nothing at all. Getting the best is not a question of price, but of shrewdness. Your degree of success depends entirely on your selection of salesmen-in-print.

We solicit business solely on the basis of results. We might talk age, for this agency is 36 years old. We might talk size, for we have outgrown all rivals. We might talk buying power, influence, knowledge of mediums—a dozen such matters of course.

But what do they all matter when compared with results?

Our only claim is that we outsell all others. We have proved it to hundreds. We can prove it to you.

This fact is so certain—so invariably true—that we handle advertising without any contract whatever. We rely solely on results to keep it to you.

That is why our Copy Chief is paid $1,000 per week. That is why each of our brilliant men holds the place he holds.

Working together—as they do—they can sell more goods per dollar spent than any other men in existence.

Suppose these claims are facts. And suppose they apply to you.

Suppose these men, at the same expense, could bring twice the results you are getting. How much would it mean?

There is a way to find out—easily, quickly and certainly. It can be done without any commitment on your part, and without disturbing your present agency connections.

The answer will be clear and final. It may be worth thousands of dollars to you. And it may be worth millions. That depends on the article advertised.

If you are interested, ask us to explain the way.

A SUGGESTION FOR CHAUTAUQUA

Combination of Hamilton, Warsaw and Keokuk For a Permanent Organization.

To the Editor of The Gate City: In view of early realization of all of our hopes for years past—the beginning on the great water power dam from Hamilton to Keokuk—and the possible rapid development of Keokuk, Hamilton and Warsaw because of this giant improvement, would it not be a good and paying proposition for citizens of the three cities to organize a Chautauqua association, calling it if you please, the Tri-City or War-Ha-Ke Chautauqua association and locate the same at some point on the trolley line about midway between Warsaw and Hamilton, say at Crystal Glen or Cedar Glen purchasing several hundred acres for the purpose. Fix the capital stock at a certain amount, making shares $5.00 or $10 each, and sell lots on the grounds to share-holders only allowing them to erect a summer cottage or tent and to occupy the same, whether during the seasons of the Chautauqua or not so long as they complied with the regulations of the association. Wells would have to be bored, of course for a plentiful supply of pure water, buildings erected, the grounds fenced and generally improved and beautified, to make it an attractive resort at all times during the summer and fall for a delightful outing. It would be a great rallying point for education as well as pleasure, and would not fail of doing much good as well as being profitable to the stockholders.
