

AGE OF KELLY TWINS PUZZLING

Not Known Whether They are Sixteen, Under Sixteen or Over Sixteen so That Proposition is Hard One

TRIAL ON THIS MORNING

But It Was Not Concluded and a Continuance Was Taken Until Tomorrow—Some of the Features.

Considerable difficulty is attending the attempt to prosecute the Kelly twins—Fred and Edward—aged sixteen, under sixteen, or over sixteen—

The Kelly twins, who are of a family well known in court circles, are charged with a misdemeanor for the alleged assault upon T. W. Atkinson, who is yard master for the cereal works.

The prosecuting witness was the first to take the stand this morning, with Assistant County Attorney McManus conducting the prosecution and Frank Ballinger representing the twins.

Frank Burk, witness for the defense, was the next important one, and testified greatly in the Kelly's favor.

The county attorney has a second charge to be preferred against the Kelly boys, which is that of jumping on and off moving trains.

The matter of the age of the two Kelly boys has not yet been brought out on the stand, and this fact has been puzzling the prosecution for several days past.

Of Mrs. Katherine Dean, a former resident of Keokuk, who died at her home in St. Petersburg, Florida, the Evening Independent of that city says:

When the summons came Saturday morning to Mrs. Katherine Marie Dean to "come up higher," the noble soul of a mother in Israel rose to spiritual realms with the assurance of that eternal glory to which those are heir who die in the Lord.

This community is one of bereaved hearts of those near and dear to her, and her associates in this community, who knew Mrs. Dean as a dear, christian woman, who had lived her life for Christ first, home second, after that the world about her, tears mingled with tears and friends mourn with those who mourn, as they remember and recount the christian womanly virtues of one who had not lived in vain.

Mrs. Dean resided here, near her only surviving daughter, Mrs. Hattie T. Blocker. The beautiful and inseparable companionship of mother and daughter was a subject of frequent remark.
