SUMMITVILLE.

A wedding of interest to many Keokuk and Summitville friends of the contracting parties occurred in Portland, Ore., March 2. Miss Alice M. Brown and Mr. Harry E. Adams were united in marriage at the home of the groom's sister, at 8 o'clock, by a Christian minister. The groom is a contractor and carpenter, a young man of business ability and with a fine prospect for continued financial success. His bride has been a popular young lady and possesses many charms of womanly character, which have endeared her to many admiring friends. They are engaged for the present at light housekeeping, but are coming east in a short time, as the bride's home is in Monmouth, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Adams will have the warmest wishes of a wide circle of acquaintances. Miss Daisy Hardy is the recipient of one of the beautiful wedding pictures of the bride and groom.

Mrs. George Curtis and four children of Revere, Mo., have been visiting at the home of R. Robertson. Mrs. Louis Hanson went to Keokuk Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. John Inman of Keokuk have been visiting at the home of Robert Branson. Miss D. W. Hardy returned from a short visit in Donnellson Tuesday. Mr. Willard Hancock and family of Montrose was through our town Sunday. Miss Drusilla Palmer of Donnellson spent several days with friends in this village, returning home Monday. Mr. Frank Allen and family went to Keokuk Friday. George Doherty is reported as being ill with appendicitis. Mrs. Will Dupy visited home talks last week.

GRANGER, MO.

Granger is the half-way station between Keokuk and Centerville, situated in Scotland county, eleven miles east of Memphis, the seat of justice. In the prevailing sense of the term it is unincorporated, and with a population of less than 400, lies loosely out of doors, with no local government except what can be made out of a competent justice of the peace and a very easy sort of a constable. The village was founded by Flavins Miller, now a resident of Kahoka, who some years ago, laid out the first plat of lots, and built thereon a hotel and a warehouse, with a sufficient number of store houses and residences to make a more than respectable beginning.

Growth, Spirit and Business. With the start given it by its enterprising founder, Granger has grown, not with the rapid strides of a placer-mining center, but at the steady, thrifty and rather graceful pace of an agricultural town, offering no special inducements to foreign capital, but taking good care of a local trade which is unsurpassed at any similar situation in north Missouri. The mercantile interests of the village are well represented in four general stores—those of Grant Foster, Squire Lewis, Dallas Goff, and Charley Graham. The shipping interests in grain, live stock, poultry, and eggs are in the efficient hands of Brantley Evans, Tom Sparks, Arthur Steeples, Grant Foster and Dallas Goff, while the trade in hardware and farm implements is showing a vigorous growth under the guidance of Frank Farwell. Of course, there are no factories, but the place can boast of four of the best of mechanics—the blacksmith Simeon Guyton, the carpenter Billy Overholt and Jeff Pryor, and the widely known harness maker Chris Hummell. We apologize for having forgotten to list among the merchants the druggist and famous curio dealer, Rolla L. Fairbrother, whose place of business is at the post office. Also for omitting in the proper place the mention of the Granger Exchange bank, which, under the safe and steady hand of Cashier J. L. Witt, has made an enviable reputation throughout this part of the country.

Society. The citizens of Granger are majority native Americans. In general the standard of morality and intelligence is quite respectable, and among the inhabitants are a few families whose names are prominently connected with the politics and the public affairs of Scotland county. The schools under able management, and in the hands of good instructors, are fully up to the mark in communities of this size. The village is solidly "dry," and sobriety is the rule from which there appears never to be an exception. The churches—the Christian, the Methodist, the Presbyterian, and the Baptist—are composed of good, sensible, orderly people, and their influence goes far in the elevation of the morals of the community.

Keokuk's Interest in Granger. Keokuk is interested in Granger, and Granger is interested in Keokuk. The manufacturers and wholesalers of the coming great tri-state power city have a more than remunerative trade here. From week to week the traveling representatives of Kellogg-Birge, the Hamill Co., the Hulskamp shoe factory, and many others are in this village, and the orders they take are something remarkable in number, size and frequency. Nor is the outgoing trade from here to Keokuk less remarkable. The car loads of poultry, eggs, butter, and game that are annually sent from this station to Keokuk would open wide the eyes of any man unfamiliar with the facts. Surrounded on every hand by richly productive lands that are every year, under an intelligent system of progressive cultivation, becoming more and more generous in their yields of corn, oats, wheat, hay, and every species of live stock, Granger must and will have a strong, healthy future growth. And the town feels today, as it will hereafter more fully feel, that this growth must be accredited to the large, varied, and continually improving market of Keokuk.

Keokuk's Traveling Men. One thing that helps Keokuk, here as elsewhere, is the superior character of its traveling men, all of whom typically represented by West, Van Sittert, Van Tassel, Upham, Elting, Yates, Simmons and Phillips, are an honor to the city whose present commercial power is mighty, and whose future glory, now well assured, shines with all the full and steady effulgence of a star of the first magnitude.

MRS. DUMENIL HAD LONG LIFE

Mother of John and J. N. Dumenil of this City, Was Ninety-eight Years Old at Time of Death

LEE COUNTY RESIDENT

Wife of the Late Jean B. Dumenil Who Was One of Lee County's Pioneer Settlers.

Had Francis Bailey Dumenil of San Jose, Cal., lived until May of 1912, she would have been a centenarian.

Word was received in this city yesterday of the death in the western city of that elderly lady, who is the mother of J. N. and John Dumenil of this city. Mrs. Dumenil was in her ninety-eight year, having been born in French county, France, on May 12, 1812, which saw the commencement of the second war between Great Britain and the United States in the merchantmen struggle.

She was the wife of the late Jean B. Dumenil, one of Lee county's pioneer residents. Of late years, however, Mrs. Dumenil had made her home in San Jose, where she passed away the fore part of this week. She was laid to rest at that place after a wonderfully long and useful life.

Those who survive her are: J. N. and John Dumenil of this city, L. V. and F. M. of Argyle. Mrs. Frances Wolfenbarger and Miss Christine Dumenil of San Jose, Cal., Mrs. Marcia Conrad of Des Moines, Mrs. Julia Slingerland of Egbert, Wyo., all children of the deceased.

MISTAKE MADE ON HARLAN STATUE

Old Carrier Boy of The Gate City Calls Attention to Error Made on the Inscription.

Washington, D. C., March 21, 1910. To the Editor of The Gate City: When the carrier boy of The Gate City had completed his apprenticeship and then had become a printer's devil, and had finally learned his trade, he became ambitious for higher education than could be obtained in Keokuk. He had worked his way through the public schools and through the high school, thus obtaining a little knowledge, which gave him thirst for more. He went to Mount Pleasant and entered the Iowa Wesleyan university, with the backing of a capital of seventy-five cents. That immense capital might have proved inadequate for his purpose, but for the fact that there was added to it the then-acquired friendship of James Harlan, formerly president of the university, and then United States senator from Iowa.

Senator Harlan took a great interest in the ambitious youth and young man; interviewed him concerning his studies and made the most difficult problems easily translucent with intelligence. The senator took long walks in the evenings with the young man and gave to him freely of the wonderful store of his knowledge. Since that time the carrier boy of The Gate City has had the acquaintance of presidents of the United States, vice president, speakers, cabinet ministers, and other men of eminence, but he has in thirty-five years met no man greater than Senator James Harlan of Iowa, and very few who were in any degree his peer. You may well imagine or comprehend that it was a source of great pleasure to the carrier boy of The Gate City, now a mature Washington correspondent of newspapers and magazines, to be informed recently that a statue of James Harlan was to be erected in the "Hall of Fame" in the capitol at Washington. That statue is now in position, and it is a source of regret amounting almost to grief, that the statue of so great a man should be not only inadequately but improperly inscribed. There is a brass plate on the base of the statue which reads:

..... JAMES S. HARLAN.

That is an exact copy of the inscription. There was no letter "S" in the name of the distinguished senator from Iowa; and the presence of that letter indicates carelessness on the part of someone. Carelessness is also marked by the presence of the period after the word James. This statement is not made for the purpose of fault-finding nor of criticism, but only that the people of Iowa

You Can Have Insured Clothes. THAT'S the kind we offer you in Clothcraft. With each Clothcraft garment goes an insurance policy in the form of a signed guarantee by the maker. And we stand back of it, too.

The guarantee means that your Clothcraft Suit must hold its style—that it is strictly pure wool—that the coat front won't break—that the collar and lapel won't sag or pucker. WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Need Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Brookfield, Mo.—"Two years ago I was unable to do any kind of work and only weighed 118 pounds. My trouble dates back to the time that women may expect nature to bring on them the Change of Life. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me feel much better, and I have continued its use. I am very grateful to you for the good health I am now enjoying."—Mrs. SARAH LOUISIGNON, 414 S. Livingston Street, Brookfield, Mo. The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ailments—inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration. If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Get the Choice Oranges of Our 5,000 Groves. We pick, pack and ship 60% of the California Orange crop. These are of varying grades. The choicest selections are packed under the "Sunkist" label. To get the finest oranges you must insist on fruit that is wrapped in tissue paper with the word "Sunkist" printed thereon.

"Sunkist" Navel Oranges Are Seedless. They are delightfully sweet, juicy and fiberless. They are firm, thin skinned and deep tinted. "Sunkist" oranges and lemons are picked by gloved hands, wrapped in "Sunkist" tissue paper, packed carefully so as to eliminate chances of becoming bruised or soft. No bruised fruit or fruit that falls to the ground is put in a "Sunkist" wrapper.

Look for "Sunkist" on the wrapper. Ask your dealer for oranges and lemons with "Sunkist" label on the tissue paper wrapper. Oranges and lemons without "Sunkist" wrappers are not "Sunkist" brand. Be sure you get oranges and lemons in their original "Sunkist" wrappers.

CONSTIPATION MUNYON'S PAW-PAW PILLS

Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are like all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods. They do not scour; they do not grip; they do not weaken; but they start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. In my opinion, constipation is responsible for most ailments. There are thirty-two feet of human bowels, which is really a sewer pipe. When this pipe becomes clogged, the whole system becomes poisoned, causing biliousness, indigestion and impure blood, which often produces rheumatism and kidney ailments. No woman who suffers with constipation or any liver complaint can expect to have a clear complexion, or enjoy good health. Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and nerves. They invigorate instead of weakening; they enrich the blood instead of impoverishing it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it. These pills contain no calomel, no dope, they are soothing, healing and stimulating. They school the bowels to act without physic. Price 25 cents.
