Warsaw City Council Takes Step Which Will Just Double the Present Rate Charged.

THE WARSAW ELKS

Advertising Proposition to be Taken up With Magazine For Purpose of Booming the Town.

WARSAW, Ill., June 30.—Tuesday evening the city council at its regular monthly session, by a vote of four to two, empowered Mayor Brinkman to draw up an ordinance making the saloon license $1,000.00, the same to be reported at the July meeting.

Walter Dross, on Tuesday sold a Ford automobile, four-seated, to Henry Disselhorst.

Miss Fredonia Allen, one of Warsaw's song birds, will sing several solos with orchestra accompaniment in Ralston park, Thursday evening, July 7. M. E. church social.

Dr. Huckins of Des Moines, father of Dr. Hoyt Huckins of Colusa, Ill., with his wife, is having a grand outing this summer in his Ford touring car. He rode from Des Moines, Iowa, to Colusa, where he visited Dr. and Mrs. Hoyt Huckins, and on Saturday, father and son, with their wives, rode to Warsaw, spending Sunday with Mrs. Hoyt Huckins parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Longnecker, and on Monday the senior doctor and wife left in their auto for Florida and from there will spend their leisurely way to California.

The Warsaw bunch of Elks observed their annual outing or picnic at Taylor's slough on Tuesday, June 28, in honor of a brother Elk—Manager F. C. Ackerman of a leading Uncle Tom's Cabin company, who is spending his summer vacation here in his home town. Those participating were Dr. B. L. Gillilan, Edgar Hamburger, John Berlin, Dr. T. A. Hartley and F. C. Ackerman. They say they had the time of their lives from 4 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. and enjoying a fish dinner in the snug new cabin near the slough. They tell a queer story on the Elks, when clearing the table after dinner, who absent-mindedly put the crackers, pepper and bread on the ice, the pepper being too hot, and of another Elk, who had his twin calves so badly sunburned that he had to keep his trousers rolled up to his knees until after he got home. The Elks who missed the fun were Dr. W. L. Winnard, Dr. John Miller and H. R. Bradford.

Last night Odd Fellows hall was well filled to listen to Miss Grace Edwards, soprano of Warsaw, and Miss Lillian Wemhoener, pianist of Quincy, in a very pleasing concert. Miss Edwards for some time has been taking voice culture in the Conservatory of Music in Quincy and has developed a voice of great compass, smoothness and purity of tone.

Warsaw, like the girl, "has hopes" of better railway connections in the near future, if recent "straws" indicate anything.

"White Lead my House"

WHITE lead and linseed oil always mean paint—but all paint (unfortunately) is not white lead and oil. To say "paint my house" is like ordering "berries" when you want strawberries. You may get "gooseberries." Instead say: "White lead my house." Pure white lead is the only known white pigment which, when mixed with linseed oil, will produce durable, non-cracking, non-chipping paint. If an oil other than pure linseed is mixed with pure white lead the union will not be perfect. But use pure white lead and pure linseed oil and you have true paint—which stands by itself and by you. Have your house "white-leaded" (which means not only "painted" but "painted right.") Specify

FASHIONS AT LENOX

Old Styles Revived—Cotton Frocks Effective As More Costly Fabrics.

The above designs are by The McCall Company, New York, Designers and Makers of McCall Patterns.

[Gate City Special Service] Lenox, June 28.—Everything is at its best, the greens at their freshest, and laurel in most perfect flower. While large affairs have been few so far, there is the usual amount of intimate informal doings and pretty frocks that remind grandmothers of their girlhood attire are everywhere in evidence.

The Vogue of Cotton. Cottons in the greatest variety of colorings, patterns and finishes are used for some of the most attractive dresses, and go for all sorts of occasions, from morning tennis to lawn parties and informal evening affairs. The style of making and trimmings counts much more than the costliness of the dress material. Little frocks nicely made at home by clever maids or seamstresses hold their own with French productions at many times their cost. The French, by the way, are especially fond of cotton materials, and not at all modest in pricing such productions.

Narrow Skirts and Large Feet. Few indeed are the women habitually well gowned, who essay the tied skirt that makes a large foot especially prominent and accentuates any tendency to ebonpoint, making the wearer simply ridiculous when she attempts to walk. Two and one-half yards at the foot is the smallest skirt measurement that permits anything like a graceful gait in walking, and this width is insisted upon by the elect, though secondary people follow the French fashion slavishly. Late reports from "the other" side show that even in Paris the Japanese silhouette is being abandoned for any public wear, and is reserved for the house where it is often most effective on a slender figure.

Pretty Accessories. Accessories count greatly in summer attire. A well known and very pretty young married woman here was a picture to be remembered in a gown of plain and cross barred lilac gingham made after the popular kimono model, the upper part of the waist and sleeve of the plain colored material with a band at the bottom of a checked skirt of the same. The neck and sleeve were finished with a single strand of narrow black velvet ribbon run through a lace beading and edged with a fringe of narrow Valenciennes lace. A white parasol, white pumps with lilac hosiery and a broad leghorn with bows of lilac ribbon completed the costume.

Lingerie Gowns. Early in the season it was predicted that white would not be worn as in former seasons, but the English Court Mourning, or some other as potent influence has brought white very much to the fore. White serge tailor-made suits and dresses, either in plain color or with a hair line of black are especially smart and lingerie gowns were never more popular. No investment pays better in a sartorial way than a really nice lingerie frock. It stays in style season after season and comes out looking fresh and attractive after every visit to the cleaner. The newer models have overskirt effects as a rule, and some of the prettiest are made with embroidered flouncings of fine quality, combined with plain batiste and much fine lace.

Attractive Dance Frocks. A gown that is being held in reserve for the first large dance is of ivory Coleff poplin made with a peasant waist and skirt. The wide band at the bottom of the skirt of embroidered satin is in matching tint. A stole shaped yoke of embroidery finishes the waist and is topped by a tucker of lace. Another little frock that would answer for any festive occasion has the waist and overdress of fine muslin printed in lilac flowers. The underdress, sleeve cuffs, and low gamp, are of fine white muslin made pretty with lace insertions. A sash of light blue satin is at the waist, and the low neck and sleeves of the flowered material have bindings of the same blue satin.

The Popular Sailor. The smart sailor has declared itself as usual after several styles have been tried out. It is large, of rough straw with a low broad crown and a brim that rolls up a little all around, and looks quite as well on matrons as on maids which is a great point in its favor, at least with matrons. Hats have no limit in size apparently. They have long ceased to be simply head coverings, but are primarily backgrounds against which the face and coiffure are thrown up becomingly or otherwise according to the face, though when well chosen they often make a passing plain face appear pretty.

Fixings. Frills, and frills, and more frills are a feature of the summer girls costumes. Low necks are so finished with hand embroidered or Irish lace edges. Stiff turn over collars and revers are edged with narrow plaitings. They soften the outline of the tailored suit, and give a frothy finish to the straight lines of the peasant dress. "When in doubt add a pleated frill" would seem to be the motto of the season.

FANNIE FIELD. Foley's Kidney Remedy may be given to children with admirable results. It does away with bed wetting, and is also recommended for use after measles and scarlet fever. Wilkinson & Co.

DENY REPORT THAT JUNKIN SOLD BODY Penitentiary Authorities Say That No Doctor Called at Institution and Gave $50 for It. The Fort Madison penitentiary authorities deny the Mount Pleasant report that Junkin has made arrangements to dispose of his body to the Drake university for a stated sum. It was reported that a physician, representing the medical school, had been at the institution, conferred with the officials and Junkin, and in return for the payment of fifty dollars, which the prisoner was making use of, had been promised the body of the murderer. It was authoritatively stated that so far as the prison people know, no such doctor as the one mentioned has been around the place, much less buying the body of a live man.

No one is permitted to see Junkin without an order from the warden, and the warden denies that any medical men have approached him or made arrangements for such a plan.

With but a few days remaining, the negro is given what he wants, whenever his desires are reasonable. He is given good food, but has been denied requests for liquor.

It has been the custom to set a death watch over a condemned man about a month before his execution. It is not a law, but a method usually observed. Just now, however, the prison has but a limited force of guards, scarcely permitting putting on a shift for the watch. Warden Sanders has written the board of control concerning the situation and unless they order to the contrary it is more than likely that the habit will be dispensed with.

PENNY ICE CAKES FOR THE POOR Kansas City Will See that the Destitute Can Have What They Need.

KANSAS CITY, June 30.—The problem of cheap ice distribution to the poor of Kansas City in the hot months has been solved.

William Volker, president of the board of public welfare, announced that beginning July 1, penny ice would be sold from the nine pure milk stations of the city. The purchasers will be the people of small means, who live where the sun makes ovens of tenement homes and blistering, brick-lined yards.

Mr. Volker's announcement was made at the regular Monday morning meeting of Mayor Brown's cabinet. None asked where the money was to come from—they didn't need to.

Heretofore the babies of the poor have had to depend for summer comfort and sometimes life upon the annual distribution of cheap ice by the Salvation Army. It never has been satisfactory because the equipment and the fund collected for the purpose have been inadequate. The Army has its 1910 fund only partly collected.

The pure milk commission has six stations. In addition the city operates three pure milk and child hygiene depots. Under Mr. Volker's plan, the details of which have not been worked ed out, penny ice will be sold from all these stations.

THREE DROWNED WHILE BATHING Bodies Found in the Water Near Salt Boat They Had Been Using.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 30.—Just about one mile and a half from the naval academy, the bodies of Mrs. Mac Boyer, daughter-in-law of Capt. J. M. Boyer, superintendent of the naval academy, Griggsby E. Thomas of Union Point, Ga., and another, were found.

They went sailing in a small boat and it is believed they decided to take a dip in the water. The bodies were found only a few feet from the spot where the boat was found.

It is believed the young woman and the two men were suddenly taken with cramps.

They Want Him. ROME, June 30.—The foreign minister has definitely decided to demand the extradition from the United States of Porter Charlton, who confessed to killing his wife at Como.

Three Killed Outright. BALTIMORE, Md., June 30.—Three men were killed, three probably mortally injured and three others seriously hurt by a freight engine which crashed into a gang of carpenters on a trestle on the B. & O. railroad here.
