

TWO JAYS DID SLAB DUTY

Jerger and Jaeger Faced Each Other at Quincy Yesterday, but Keokuk Twirler Got the Worst of It.

OCHS A FIELDING STAR

With One Hand he Pulled Down What Looked Like Three Bagger or Home Run and Then Completed Double Play.

QUINCY, Ill., July 20.—From the rise of the curtain in the second scene of the first act yesterday afternoon it was evident that those Indians under the chieftaincy of Pa Belt were to participate in a tragedy, for in the lines when Jaeger was supposed to fling his mighty arm on high in derision for the mighty axes of the palefaces and shout his defiance of their efforts to make safe strokes, he forgot his cue, and his supporters were sent into spasms of consternation by the bombs which the Veterans hurled into their midst. We drew the best blood of Jaeger after he had put Hartman away. Burg had his stunt rags on for the afternoon, and he slammed the ball to left for two bases. Then Miller, the man who is going to a higher league, failed to pitch the pill on Collins' field of Bill Donahue's roller and Joe B. counted. That didn't look so very big then, but it proved to be a copious sufficiency, so far as Keokuk was concerned. The scene was closed by the first of the five double plays of the game, Owens forcing Donahue at second and being doubled at first himself. The participants in the double bill slight-of-hand were Collins and Miller.

The second act did not differ greatly from the first, except in so far as new actors appeared before the footlights. Cavanaugh was the leading man in this act, his stunt consisting of a hit over second. The manager of the Vet troupe and his left field assistant then sandwiched in a fly-out to Morris and a strike-out just to make the next stunt look really thrilling. Pep Clark delivered the sensational, all right, for he hit clean to right, and Cavanaugh made a successful mount to the second story in preparation for his slide for life. Jerger gave him the cue for the slide by hitting to right, Mike making his dive to the plate for the thrilling climax to the second act.

Burg Hero in Third. In the third act Burg was billed for the part of the hero. He opened with a screamer to center and never pulled up until he had copped the third sack. Jaeger attempted a final stand against the tide of defeat, but, although an Indian, he couldn't stand the gaff. Bill Donahue hit the pill on the nose and Joe Burg made his second hit with the ascending bug and buzzer, it being ladies' day at the matinee, by his second score.

Bluejacket to the Rescue. Pa Belt heard the call of the wild for aid and sent Bluejacket to the hill to stem the flood. He stuck his mitt in the dam hole sure enough, and that was the last of the howling for the wilderness of the league. That was enough, however, to quit the day, for Jerger was working at his best and kept the hit short and scatte-ed.

There was hit even a cloud on the horizon to mar the Vet slinger's peace of mind, and not the least factor in the dissolution of any embryo cloud was the fielding back of him. Jaeger and Bluejacket were also supported in great style, as the box score and summary shows.

Ochs the Fielding Star. Ochs, the man who has been the cause of burning out several wires over the telegraph system during the past few days through the efforts of Ned Egan and the Rock Island club of the Three-eye league to get him to report to them, was the hero of the fielding meet. In the sixth inning Rouse hit the ball for one of that brand which usually go for three or four bases, but hardly had the swat sounded from the bat over the field until Ochs was sprinting toward the center field hollow, and leaping into the air, speared the ball with his gloved hand. Not satisfied with that circus trick, he winged the ball back to first base and caught Babe Myers for a double. The manager had almost rounded the second sack when the ball was caught, as he, like all the others who saw Slats' swat, thought it was good for several bags.

A Near Score in the Fifth. In the Indians' half of the fifth Pa got a hunch that there was a chance to point. Reichle had opened with a hit to left, Miller sacrificed him ahead, and then Bresnahan hit to left and went to second on Rouse's throw to the plate to hold Reichle. Belt sent Riggs up for Cavanaugh, and he fled to Donahue. The Dutch center fielder who masquerades in the Indian habit, was too anxious, and left the third sack before Bill had squeezed the ball, and though he beat the throw-in, he was called out by Johnson. That completed the double out, and Belt then took up the duties of receiving Bluejacket.

NOTES OF THE GAME. (From Quincy Whisk.) Monmouth comes today for a series of four games. Wonder what Higgenbotham and the others will look like?

Jo Burg got a total of five bases on two hits. Not so bad, either, when he counted two of the three runs. His fielding was a feature, too, and he should have had an out at first, according to the fans, in the ninth, although Johnson didn't see it that way, and his way is usually about the right way.

Jerger never pitched a nicer game in his life. He didn't fan many, it is true, but he kept the swats high in the air or on the ground, and his support did the rest.

Miller wasn't crabbing so hard yesterday. That man Ochs must be regarded as a valuable man by Rock Island and Ottumwa, judging from the fight they are making over him. Several wires have been burned out already by their messages for him to report. From the latest dispatches, one of which was from Farrell, secretary of the National commission, he belongs to Ottumwa, so Egan will have another man on his payroll. If he made many catches like the one from Rouse yesterday and then returns the ball to first for a double he is worth any club's money.

The game yesterday consumed exactly one hour and a quarter. The five double plays explain the shortness of time, and it should be added that the players moved about with a pep born of the cool weather.

Of course we are not the seventh sons of prophets or the thirteenth children, but we do believe Quincy has already cinched the lulu rag.

Central Association Results. OTTUMWA, July 20.—Galesburg's bunching of hits, combined with errors by the Packers, gave the former the game by a small score. The score: R. H. E. Galesburg 2 6 0 Ottumwa 1 7 2 Batteries—Hallman and Shea; Dunn and Link.

Hannibal Drops One. HANNIBAL, Mo., July 20.—Parchie held the Cannibals to three hits and scored a shut-out for the Browns. The score: R. H. E. Monmouth 3 7 1 Hannibal 0 3 1 Batteries—Parchie and Lago; James, Evans and Forney.

Kewanee Drops Another. KEWANEE, July 20.—Kewanee was unable to solve Plympton and lost another shut-out to the tallenders. The score: R. H. E. Burlington 4 6 1 Kewanee 0 3 4 Batteries—Plympton and Eng; Pressy and Mason.

Games Today and Tomorrow. Monmouth at Quincy. Kewanee at Burlington. Ottumwa at Galesburg. Keokuk at Hannibal.

Parchie, Monmouth's new pitcher, held Hannibal to three hits and blanked them yesterday. Malachi Kittredge, manager of the Elgin team in the Northern association, is doing scout duty for the Detroit club. He sold Wilson, one of his pitchers, to the Detroit club.

Kewanee Star-Courier: Yesterday Umpire Edinger got a letter from President Justice accusing him of being a home umpire. Looks like this is some spite work of that fellow Cleary. If Justice himself had seen the games Saturday and yesterday he would have known differently about Edinger.

WALTERS TO MONMOUTH

Ex-Manager of Muscatine Club Has Signed With Browns—Disposition Made of Other Muscatine Players.

CANTON, Ill. July 20.—In a telegram to President Blain, of the Illinois-Missouri baseball league, the club at Beardstown, Illinois, announced its withdrawal from the association, the reason given being lack of sufficient attendance to meet the expenses of the team. President Blain immediately got busy, and this morning secured Jacksonville as the sixth city for the league, the other clubs allowing it to enter with the same percentage as Beardstown, which was in second place. Games were scheduled this week between Macomb and Beardstown, and these will be played at Jacksonville instead. The Jacksonville magnates will probably secure the old Beardstown team, which contains several good men. The league now consists of Macomb, Jacksonville, Lincoln, Clinton, Canton and Pekin. The other teams, while running pretty close to the ragged edge on the money proposition, are thought to be able to continue to the end of the season.

MUSCATINE, Ia. July 20.—Ex-Manager Lou Walters has agreed to go to Monmouth in the Central association, where he will finish the season. He agrees to play with the Central association for this year only, however, and at the end of the season becomes a free agent. "Silent" Lou said this morning that if Muscatine wanted him back next year he would give the town first choice and would remain free until the first of November, by which time it should be definitely known what the situation will be here next season. Walters is of the firm conviction that Muscatine will be in the Central association next summer.

Practically the entire Muscatine team is now located for the remainder of the season, Manager Walters being the last to settle on a nesting place. Lewis and Yeager and the ex-P. L. are the only ones left around the diggin's today. Big Phil Reisinger has departed for Rockford, Ill.; Atwell and Coleman have started southward for Winchester, Ky.; "Pop" Eyer has gone to Keokuk; Cooke and Dietz are off to Maryville in the Mink league; Herman (Bro.) Walters has left for Clarinda; Slapnicka had already gone to Rockford, where it is thought Edwards will also play. Yeager and Walters will leave this evening, Josy going to Winchester, Ky., and Walters to Quincy to join Monmouth. Lewis, however, expects to stay in the city for a time and may make Muscatine his home.

THE largest car as well as the largest wheel base in the world for $1,650.00 and built to give Mr. Purchaser dollar for dollar when he buys a "Cutting 40."

AT THE INDIANAPOLIS SPEEDWAY May 28, 1910

This car ran the entire distance of 200 miles without a stop in the great Wheeler-Schubler race, only one other car equaling the wonderful performance, out of a large field of entries.

The only difference between the "Cutting 40" and the other fellows $2,500 car is $850

You will wonder how this car can be made and sold for $1650.00. "Here it is." The Clarke-Carter Automobile Co., (makers of the Cutting 40) put the 15 or 20 per cent into the car instead of magazines, thus giving the buyer the advantage of this and not the publisher.

We have the exclusive agency for four counties for this car and have a good proposition to offer good, live agents to sell these cars. It is impossible to keep a good car down. In our repair department we have an expert mechanic from Chicago to do all our work. We guarantee his work. Give us a trial and it will convince you we deliver the goods.
