TOTAL TONNAGE OF RIVER, 1909

Annual Report of United States Chief of Engineers, Gives a Number of Very Interesting Facts and Figures.

ABOUT THE LOGGING

Available Pine Timber in Wisconsin Gave Employment to Eleven Boats, and Keokuk Was Most Southern Town.

According to the annual report of the United States chief of engineers, which has just been issued for the calendar year 1909, the total tonnage of the Mississippi river between the falls of St. Anthony and the mouth of the Missouri river, was 1,916,000 tons.

Des Moines rapids, much lumber from the St. Croix river. The pine forests are practically destroyed in the state of Wisconsin and hemlock manufactures is increasing.

259 Vessels Employed. "There were employed between Minneapolis and the mouth of the Missouri river during 1909, 11 raft boats, 22 packets, 36 tow boats, 17 ferry boats, 147 pleasure boats and 26 government boats; in all, 259 vessels, with a gross tonnage of about 16,103 tons. In addition to the above, there are about 300 unregistered barges of various sizes used for transportation of freight and construction material. The principal steamboat lines on the upper Mississippi are the Diamond Jo, the Eagle, the Carnival City and the Acme. The number of passengers carried by all boats, including the ferries, in 1909, was 2,405,193. Of this number 1,042,880 were carried on the ferries. The quantity of freight carried by all boats, including the rock and brush loaded on barges and used in government work, and also including logs and lumber floated down the stream, is shown to have been as follows: Logs, 389,430 tons; rafted lumber, shingles, etc., 29,021 tons; miscellaneous freight, 1,278,129 tons; government materials, 218,634 tons; a total tonnage of 1,916,000. This represented a ton mileage of 131,290,621, and a total valuation of $25,354,524."

Blind Have Better of It.

A correspondent, writing on the illiteracy of the native classes, points out a strange anomaly. In devising the "Oriental Braille" alphabet for the use of the Indian blind it was found that the 63 combinations of the six Braille dots will serve to give the blind one code for the whole of the languages and dialects. With this code the Indian blind are being taught, and no difficulty has arisen in any vernacular. The ordinary native blessed with sight is more unfortunate. The complicated nature of the native syllabaries is such that it requires from 500 to 1,000 sorts of type to print a book even in simple language. Originally the letters of Asoka were simple in form, but the modern varieties of Asoka's letters have become elaborate and complicated.—Allahabad Pioneer.

UNDER EYE OF BISHOP

Bishop Dunne of Peoria Desires That a Cleaning up of the old Affairs be Made at Once by Sisters.

KIERAN WAS OUSTED

Decision in His Case in New York Learned of Here Through the New York Times of July 27th.

Wm. E. O'Neal, acting as trustee for the claimants, the Security Life Insurance Company of Chicago, became the purchaser on his bid of $355,825 at a master in chancery's sale at Carthage last Saturday afternoon, of the property situated in Nauvoo, under the control of the Benedictine Sisters, which was sold to satisfy debts incurred by them in erecting new buildings. Mr. O'Neal's appointment as trustee, says the Nauvoo Rustler, was by request of Bishop Dunne of Peoria. It is Bishop Dunne's desire that a cleaning up of the old affairs be made at once, after which he will see that the financial affairs are run more economically.

These clearings so far seem to give the academy a new breath for life. The old garments are cast off and new ones with heavy burdens, however, will have to be assumed. Kieran and his outfit are to be eliminated and this will give new confidence in the success of the institutions. He was considered a demigod for a time and ran things here in the ground. All the cash in the United States treasury would not have sufficed to run this "mogul." The sky now seems to be clearing, and St. Mary's will again rise to the place of which she is deserving and to which she is entitled.

The property on which the mortgages was held consisted of the Spalding Institute, Max Reinhold block, Knaust block, Cambre block, etc., and sold for $231,700; the academy proper sold for $124,125; total, $355,825. The State Bank of Nauvoo held a mortgage for $6,000 and this will be satisfied first. Then the mortgages, liens, and all honest debts will be paid in succession.

The New York Times of July 27 has the following to say in regard to P. J. Kieran's former escapades: "Justice Bishop, in the supreme court on the 26th modified an injunction granted on Nov. 10, 1908, by the late Justice C. H. Truax, preventing the Carnegie Trust Co., from disposing of or transferring securities held by them of the Fidelity Funding Co., of which Patrick J. Kieran was president, so as to permit their sale. "The securities ($421,000 in all) consist mainly of overdue paper of various Roman Catholic institutions throughout the United States given as collateral for loans by the trust company, and this company said that unless the injunction was dissolved it could not proceed with the disposition of the securities. Upon the default of the Fidelity Funding Co., in the payment of its notes, the Carnegie Trust Co. reduced the collateral in its possession by a sale at auction, and being the highest bidder, became its owner. Then the injunction was obtained preventing its transfer or sale of the securities. "Justice Bishop, in his order permitting the sale of the securities, directs the Carnegie Trust Co. to hold the moneys realized from such sale until the further order of the court, but without prejudice to the rights of the company in its claim or contention that it is the absolute owner and without prejudice to the rights of the receiver in his claim to any surplus which may be realized."

An English Custom.

In England a small carafe, or water bottle, with a drinking glass inverted over the top, is always kept in every bedroom, and freshly filled morning and night. This is a most convenient custom where there is not running water in or near the room, as one will often go without the wished for swallow after a disagreeable pill, or to relieve a sudden cough or sneeze, rather than trouble to send for it. Children are always "wanting a drink," and they can be taught to get it for themselves if it is always in some convenient place, and kept free from dust by the overturned tumbler is far better for them than ice water in an open pitcher.
