

DEATH LURKED IN WHISKEY

Former Died of Convulsions Shortly After Draining the Contents of a Flask of the Liquor.

DEATH IS INVESTIGATED

Mystery Surrounds the Death of Gnuise, and Many Rumors Are Afloat Since His Death.

QUINCY, March 23.—Henry Gnuise, well known farmer residing a few miles north of Ursa with his son, Fred, drank whiskey Monday afternoon, and shortly afterwards, went into convulsions from which he never rallied, and at 7 o'clock death ended his intense suffering. Indications of the whiskey containing poison of some kind, it is said, have justified the states attorney in making a minute examination, and should later developments which are expected, bear the states attorney out in his opinion, an arrest, or perhaps more than one, will be made.

Word reached States Attorney Gilmer yesterday to the effect that Gnuise's death had been caused by poison, and many rumors were in circulation concerning the whiskey which he had bought in this city Sunday afternoon. Gnuise, according to these reports, took the whiskey home in a jug and poured a portion of it in a pint bottle from which he drank Monday afternoon. His illness and death, as stated above, quickly followed. George Thompson, a brother-in-law, found Gnuise suffering and called a physician, but the latter could do nothing to alleviate his suffering and the end came at the hour stated above.

As a result of the trip to Ursa last evening, States Attorney Gilmer learned that Thompson had his suspicion aroused by the whiskey and took a taste of it. It had such a peculiar and repugnant taste that he was forced to spit it out of his mouth. At the time, Mr. Thompson stated, that there was considerable whiskey in the bottle, but bottle and jug had disappeared. Later, the bottle was found in the yard with about a spoonful of whiskey in it. The jug was also found and, as in the case of the bottle, it had been emptied, with the exception of about a spoonful of liquor. The remaining contents of the jug and bottle were brought to this city by the states attorney and will be sent to the state chemist at Champaign for analysis. The internal organs of Gnuise will also be removed and the contents analyzed.

Many rumors have been afloat since the sudden death of Gnuise, and there have been reasons cited why some one should wish to get him out of the way, but, of course, at this time these rumors can not be verified. Gnuise was a prosperous farmer, born in this city fifty-three years ago, and having a number of relatives in this county. He has two brothers, Frank and Edward Gnuise, and three sisters, Mrs. Frank Whilpys and Mrs. George Thompson, of Ursa, and Mrs. Charles Ripple, of Mt. Sterling. He made his home with his son, Fred, at whose place the older Gnuise died. The elder Gnuise owned the farm, and rented it to his son.

One night last week, according to reports, the elder Gnuise was ambushed by some unknown party who fired a charge of buckshot at him from a clump of bushes alongside the road. Gnuise had been to town and was returning home in the darkness when the shot was fired. Gnuise was uninjured, but the attempt on his life at that time is said to have worried him considerably. A year ago, says another report, Gnuise barely missed death, this time, by the poison route. It is related how he had been to this city and bought a jug of whiskey, and that later Gnuise found that some one had slipped parties green in it in very liberal quantities.

Gnuise was a farmer of means and leaves the one son as an heir. His wife died a number of years ago. At this time it can not be told how Gnuise came to his death. States Attorney Gilmer, Coroner Haley and Sheriff Lipps went to Ursa this morning and an inquest is being conducted over the remains. Dr. Mitchell, of Ursa, the physician who was called in, gave as his opinion at the time of death that rheumatism of the heart was probably responsible. Gnuise had complained, it is stated, of pains in the region of that organ.

ERBSTEIN IS ALSO GUILTY

Another Not Guilty Verdict Returned by Chicago Jury in One of the Numerous Bribery Cases.

JURY OUT ONE HOUR

Since Year Ago When the Activity Began One Lone Detective Is the Only One to be Punished.

CHICAGO, March 23.—Attorney Charles E. Erbstein and Arthur McBride who for the last two weeks have been on trial on the charge of conspiracy to defame States' Attorney Wayman, were found not guilty by a jury which was out less than an hour.

The case grew out of an affidavit filed by McBride with the Chicago Bar Association in which McBride charged that State's Attorney Wayman had led him "to fix" a juror in a criminal case in 1908 in which Wayman appeared as counsel for the defense. Wayman charged Erbstein with having conspired with McBride to file the charges. This resulted out of the second trial of Lee O'Neil Browne charged with bribery in the election of United States Senator William Lorimer, and its culmination ends the litigation having its inception in charges that his seat was purchased. Since April 1910, when bribery charges were first made, there has been no time in which some resultant action was not pending here. The cases heard were:

Lee O'Neil Browne, former democratic legislative leader, tried twice on bribery charges and acquitted; Charles Erbstein, counsel for Browne in his second trial, indicted on a charge of having bribed Juror Grant McCutcheon. He was tried twice and acquitted. The United States Senator Lorimer investigating committee spent some time in taking testimony. Erbstein charged States' Attorney John W. Wayman before the Chicago Bar association with having been a juror fixer before he became state's attorney. The charges were investigated and dismissed.

Patrick Keeley, a detective formerly in the employ of the state's attorney, indicted for perjury and convicted. Erbstein and McBride, indicted on the charge for which they were acquitted.

The only conviction during almost a year of constant litigation was that of Detective Keeley who had had custody of Representative Beckemeyer and who is said to have testified falsely as to order given Wayman's assistants for Beckemeyer's treatment.

McQuiston was an Okaloosa traveling man and Malcolm is alleged to have prevented Mrs. McPherson from getting her rights in the policy when he died, the amount going to Harry McQuiston, a son.

JAPAN BACKS OUT OF MEXICO

Secret Treaty Has Been Cancelled and Brown Men Will Not Attempt to Gain Strategic Hold.

PEACE WILL FOLLOW

President Taft Has Been Assured That Japan Will Take no Part in Mexican Affairs.

NEW YORK, March 23.—The New York Herald publishes a dispatch today from its correspondent in Mexico City saying that by mutual consent of both governments, the secret treaty between Japan and Mexico has been terminated. The cause of the termination is the military demonstration and demand by the United States in which Mexico concurs.

This action is to be followed by the withdrawal of troops from San Antonio. The Herald says that Japan professes to relinquish the secret treaty with Mexico for the coaling station, naval base and effort to colonize the Isthmus of Tehauntepec. Japan promises to withdraw from Mexico and not seek another alliance in opposition to the Monroe doctrine. President Diaz and his cabinet had a long session today and peace is expected to follow quickly.

The secret treaty related chiefly to trade and opened Mexico's doors to Japan.

WILD GAS WELL IS TAMED
Had Been Spouting for Six Years and Was Menace to the Community.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 23.—The great wild gas well, which for six years wasted daily millions of feet of natural gas, and which put in danger the entire oil and gas field, has been stopped. The news reached Shreveport last evening. The stopping of the great natural gas waste has been a problem puzzling the experts, and so great was the danger felt that the legislature took steps to remedy the waste.

The well is the property of the Caddo Oil company, and the plan used was the drilling of another well near a great burning crater 300 feet across and the pumping of water on the burning mass and forcing the flow through the new outlet, which can be capped.

The news was received in Shreveport with a great deal of interest to experts and the public in general.

STOLE CAT FROM HUSBAND

Also One Horse, Six Pigs, His Divorce Papers, and Other Things Worth at Least $210.

AUTHORS IN COURT

LONDON, March 23.—Horses, pigs, cats, manuscripts of plays and stories, and earlier divorce papers, figured largely to the amusement of the audience at the trial of a suit brought in the county court at Northampton by the English author, Robert Harbrough Sherard, against his wife, the American writer, Irene Osgood, who formerly was Mrs. Charles Pigott Harvey.

Sherard alleges that the defendant purloined the above mentioned property, all he possessed, and so left him stranded. Sherard, describing his life at Gullsborough hall, in Northampton, which is the property of his wife, said he had been treated "like a dog," and thrice thrown out of the place.

"I am Irene Osgood," he said dramatically. "I wrote everything that she is supposed to have written in the last five years."

Mrs. Sherard, who is the author of "To a Nun Confessed," and "Servitude," and possesses an income of between $50,000 and $60,000 a year, described how she met Sherard at Cannes, France. He was without funds and she gave him, she said $500 with which to buy clothes. She did not know that he had been married previously until a few days after their wedding she discovered his divorce papers. She took possession of the documents. She denied that her husband had written any of the works attributed to her.

STAKED LIVES ON CARD GAME

Solitaire Player Dealt Out One Hand Which Meant Either Life or Death for Wife and Children.

WAS LUCKY DEAL

NEW YORK, March 23.—Six lives were staked on a game of solitaire played by a despondent mechanic at his home on West Fifty-sixth street, according to information which is in the hands of the New York police today. The mechanic who had laid his plans carefully, it appears, for the killing of his wife and children to be followed by his own death, disappeared when the game was finished and it is believed he may have committed suicide.

The missing man is Michael Cribben. He was seriously injured some time ago in stopping a runaway and for some time, according to his wife, had been acting peculiar. Last Saturday he wrote a letter to a cousin which the latter has just turned over to the police. The letter is as follows:

"Dear Kim: I am going to kill myself, my wife and all the children. I have something pressing on my brain that makes me want to kill them. I must do it. I can't help it. The only way I kept from doing it before was by playing solitaire. I've been playing all the time at home so I won't kill them."

"Now, I'm going to play just one more game tonight and if I beat it, I won't kill them, but if I don't make it I will."

That night, according to Mrs. Cribben, the crazed man sat down to his little card table. She noticed that he was very nervous and watched him as he slowly exposed one card after another and laid them in lines before him. His figure was tense and he seemed struggling under great excitement.

"What are you doing, Michael?" she asked.

"You'll know soon enough," was his answer.

FOUND JAW BONE IN COFFEE SACK

Doctor Made This Claim and Asked $50 Hush Money to Not Tell It.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 23.—Because he demanded $50 hush money for not making public the fact that he found "a jawbone and three teeth" in a package of the firm's coffee, Ar buckle Bros. of New York City caused the arrest of Dr. T. M. Callen of Kirksville on a federal warrant. Dr. Callen was brought to this city for arraignment. He was released on bond and the case will come up at the spring term of the federal court here.

Dr. Callen wrote a letter to Ar buckle Bros., asserting he had found a jawbone and three teeth in a package of coffee bearing the New York firm's trademark. The letter was sent to the Kansas city branch of the firm and the doctor was communicated with. He replied with another demand for $50 for his silence, and the letters were then turned over to Inspector Hodge. The doctor is a man of prominence in the vicinity of his home. He admits writing the letters.
