

FEDERAL COURT CONVENED TODAY

Hon. Smith McPherson is Presiding and Grand Jury Has Already Begun its Investigation.

CHARGE AGAINST POND'S

Information Filed by United States Attorney Temple Charging Pure Food Law Violation.

The April term of the United States circuit and district courts for the southern district of Iowa was convened in Keokuk at 10 o'clock this morning by Judge Smith McPherson. Present were a number of the federal court officers, visiting and local attorneys, grand and petit jurors. Among the court officers were: Marcellus L. Temple, United States attorney, George B. Stewart, assistant United States attorney, Frank B. Clark, United States marshal, and Wm. C. McArthur, clerk. During the morning session the law, equity and criminal docket was called, the grand jury was impaneled and court took an adjournment at 11 o'clock until tomorrow morning.

Charge Against S. P. Pond Co. United States Attorney Temple filed an information here today against the S. P. Pond Company of Keokuk, charging a violation of the pure food laws. The statute violated is the act for preventing the manufacturing, sale or transportation of adulterated, or misrepresented or poisonous or deleterious food, drugs, medicines and liquors and for the regulation of traffic there and for other purposes. The information sets out that the Keokuk company shipped to Nice and Schrieber and Co., of Philadelphia, a quantity of butter marked "Gold Seal Warranted Pure Fine Fresh Butter, Process Butter." That the said labeling was false and misleading was known by the defendant for the reason that the words "Process Butter" was so put on the package as to be entirely obscured from view.

Law Docket.

The case of J. N. and R. C. Dutton vs. C. B. and Q. R. Co. was continued.

The case of M. F. Mapes, habeas corpus, vs. J. C. Sanders, warden Fort Madison penitentiary, was omitted from the docket. Mapes sought to be discharged from the penitentiary but this was denied nearly a year ago by Judge McPherson.

Iona Miller vs. Charles Weber was dismissed. Standard Fire Insurance Company of Iowa vs. the Bankers' Surety Company was passed for the term and may be tried in Davenport.

A motion to dismiss certain counts in the case of Lincoln Noble vs. C. B. and Q. R. Co. was sustained. The suit was brought to recover damages for the shipment of stock out of Chicago.

Equity Docket.

In the case of Abraham Alexander vs. Pierce and Laux Mfg. Co. it was ordered that the case would be dismissed if not brought to trial during the next term. The same order was made in the case of American Brake Shoe and Foundry Co. vs. Reliable Foundry and Machine Co.

The case of Des Moines Incubator Co. vs. Fred C. Selzer and Frank C. Selzer was continued.

Criminal Causes.

Glen Harwood, the Keokuk boy indicted for bootlegging, had the indictment dismissed on motion of the United States attorney.

The case of the United States vs.

Anderson Canning Co. was noted for trial. The case of the United States vs. John Sherod was continued for sentence. This case was brought here from Ottumwa. Bond was furnished by Sherod's father, and now the young man is nowhere to be found. Unless the continuance was granted and other bond secured the father would forfeit the surety money, and court would not be inclined to see this done. Sherod is represented as being a wayward son who used the mails to defraud. He entered a plea of guilty to the indictment.

Grand Jurors. The following grand jurors answered the summons of the body, Samuel Johnson of South Ottumwa being appointed foreman:

- Baker, Henry—Eldon.
- Bergen, J. G.—Morning Sun.
- Boal, George—Mt. Pleasant.
- Hargrove, James—Milton.
- Harlan, Isaiah—Stockport.
- Haight, C. E.—Winfield.
- Hinkle, John—Floris.
- Johnson, Samuel—South Ottumwa.
- Jenkins, G. A.—Bloomfield.
- Lynn, Arthur—New London.
- Matthews, Solomon—Wapello.
- Mager, J. A.—Oskaloosa.
- Millisack, W. D.—Ottumwa.
- Mitchell, Walter S.—Burlington.
- Nelher, W. H.—Fairfield.
- Nosler, H. C.—Ottumwa.
- Rhody, Charles—Farmington, R. F. D.
- Rundorff Emil—Burlington.
- Van Ansdale, G. M.—New London.
- Welmeth, J. R.—Salem.
- Wahle, Adolph—Davenport.

Judge's Instructions.

Before the grand jury body retired for its work instructions were given by Judge Smith McPherson. Court said the work of the grand jurors is the most important that any citizen of the United States can engage in. The law provides that no man can be placed on trial before the charge against him is made in open court by a grand jury of at least twelve men. The merits of this law have been discussed often of late, but it is still a fundamental law. Going to court as a grand juror is not a liability. Jurors have been selected as officers to perform solemn duties. It is not for the judges to try men until the grand jurors have first acted and court impressed it upon the body that every person accused must not be indicted. The greatest wrong, he pointed out, except to wrongfully convict, is to wrongfully indict. Such an indictment puts a cloud upon the defendant's name.

No Small Fines Should Follow.

Judge McPherson does not favor the indictment of persons in instances where the fine imposed by court would only be $1 or some nominal sum. He said that no indictment should be returned unless some substantial punishment shall follow. Twelve votes are needed from members of the grand jury to return an indictment, and if this number is cast it is the duty of the foreman to indorse; if less than twelve for indictment the case must be ignored.

Court then took up the offenses which the grand jurors must deal with. They are offenses against the United States government, which include violations of the acts of congress from the earliest days. The grand jury is not confined in its work to cases brought before it by officers of the government.

Scope of Investigation.

The cases included in the grand jury's investigation are such as bootlegging, counterfeiting, false reports by bank officers, false entries and misconduct of men in public office. Under the last head Judge McPherson especially included the postal department, saying that this was one department of the government near to the people and in which they have much interest. In the post office, he said, the money must be kept in such receptacles where it may be obtained in a moment's notice. The moneys are a sacred trust fund and employees must not trifle with them. It is remarkable, he continued, to learn how often these funds are misappropriated. There are also other violations of the postal regulations, such as sending obscene and profane matter through the mail, letters and circulars to promote get-rich-quick schemes, etc.

To the Last Ditch.

CHICAGO, April 11.—The Chicago architect's business association sent a letter to the head of the plumbers and steamfitters' union asking that the trouble between the factions of the unions be submitted to an unprejudiced committee. John R. Alpine, president of the Plumbers' Association, declares his men will never arbitrate their right to work in Chicago. He says the fight will be carried on to the last ditch.

END OF SHELLEY LITIGATION

George M. Shelley, Contestant to the Will, Withdrew His Objections and Will is Admitted to Probate.

ESTATE VALUED $25,000

When Mrs. Shelley Died She Left Three-fourths of Estate to Son William F. and One-fourth to George.

The efforts of George M. Shelley to break the will of his mother, the late Louise J. Shelley, formerly of Keokuk, who died some months ago in Kansas City possessed of about $25,000, have ceased and litigation is at an end. In the district court at Fort Madison late yesterday afternoon an order was signed by Judge W. S. Hamilton admitting the will to probate and appointing John E. Craig permanent administrator. Attorney Craig was the special administrator appointed to serve during the litigation.

Terms of Will.

When Mrs. Shelley died she left about $16,000 in notes and securities and about $9,000 in real estate. Three-fourths of the bulk of this estate was left to a son, William F. Shelley and one-fourth to another son, George M., while there were other smaller bequests to grandchildren.

Not satisfied by the terms of the will which left to him but a small portion of the property, George M. Shelley sought to break the will by filing objections to it in the district court here. He set out that undue influence was brought to bear in having Mrs. Shelley make the will as she did.

Terms of Settlement Unknown.

The case has been on the probate docket here for several terms and has passed through various steps in its litigation. It was not learned what the terms of settlement were, but yesterday the contestant withdrew his objections and permitted the will to be admitted to probate. It is understood that he was given additional interest in the estate.

TRIUMPHANT ENTRY SUBJECT

First of Passion Week Series of Addresses by Rev. Lilley, Given Before Audience Last Night.

OBSERVANCE OF DAYS

Sacred Memories Come With Recognition by the Christian People of Such Occasions.

Passion week is being observed at the First Christian church, services being held in the lecture room. The services consist in the singing of the old hymns, voluntary prayers and a short address by the pastor. Last night the subject was "The Triumphant Entry." The speaker said in part:

"I believe in the observance of certain days. They come to us bearing in their hands sacred memories of noble lives and deeds of love that keep alive in our hearts and memories of the holy past. Independence day reminds us of what our civil and religious liberties cost us. Thanksgiving day brings the memory of noble souls lifting up gratified hearts to God for His blessings. So the birthdays of men and women who by their lives have made the world better. These days observed in the right spirit leave us stronger in hope, richer in faith and love. It is in memory of our Saviour that we have come tonight—for no other purpose. I hope our meeting together will be in deep thought and holy memory of the One in whose name we have met. It was Sunday morning, Jesus and His disciples are in Bethany. Somehow it became known that some time that day He would go to the Holy City. It was Passover time and millions of people were in and around Jerusalem. The very atmosphere seemed to be charged with expectancy—something unusual was going to happen, but no one knew what. The moment comes, Jesus and His disciples start toward Jerusalem. The animal upon which he is to ride has been secured. The procession is well on its way. The enthusiasm of the multitude expresses itself in many of them spreading their upper garments to tapestry. His path and others cut and tore down the boughs of olive, fig and walnut to scatter them before Him. Then His disciples broke into the shout: 'Hosanna to the Son of David. Blessed is the King of Israel that cometh in the name of the Lord! Hosanna in the highest!'"

Then the multitude caught up the joyful strain and told each other how he had raised Lazarus from the dead. All at once there is a halt in the procession. The Holy City with ten thousand and sacred memories, stands clear before him. As he gazed on that "mass of gold and snow," was there no pride, no patriotic emotions in the heart of its true king? He had dropped silent tears at the grave of Lazarus; but over the Holy City he weeps aloud. For Himself he sheds no tears. But when he remembered how he had come to her, taught in her streets and she would not hear, that soon not one stone of her sacred temple would be left upon another and that her sons and daughters would perish under the heel of Rome. He broke into a passion of lamentation in which the choked voice seemed to struggle for its utterance. Strange triumph! The Deliverer weeps over the city, which it is now too late to save. "If thou hadst known," he cried, while the multitude looked on—"if thou hadst known, even thou, at least in thy day, the things that belong unto thy peace." The weeping over, the procession moves on, from the Valley of Kedron, from the city and from the tents comes another great procession. The two streams of people meet. Jesus rides on while some of the multitudes follow, others go before all shouting "Hosanna." The journey is ended. Jesus enters the temple, sees how it is profaned, returns to Bethany, to return on the morrow to cleanse it.

The triumphant entry of Jesus was only the beginning. The procession today numbers millions who are casting their talents, their money, their time and all they possess before him and Hosannas rise from every heart. The Triumphant Entry was the fulfillment of prophecy. It was itself prophetic of the future glory of Christ's kingdom. Just as that great multitude followed Him into Jerusalem shouting His praises, so will the innumerable host washed in His blood follow Him into the eternal city of redeemed humanity. It typifies Jesus' entrance into human hearts, when the gates have been opened and the praises rise from redeemed lives. The subject tonight: "Jesus Sent to the Cross."
