

CALUMET
BAKING POWDER

The wonder of baking powders—Calumet. Wonderful in its raising powers—its uniformity, its never failing results, its purity.

Wonderful in its economy. It costs less than the high-price trust brands, but it is worth as much. It costs a trifle more than the cheap and big can kinds—it is worth more. But proves its real economy in the baking.

"The Employed Officers."

General Secretary Henry F. Burns said:
"The chairman of the committee in charge of the program gave me a wide range for thought in the assignment of this topic, 'The Employed Officers,' but I shall endeavor to keep within bounds.

"A story comes to my mind of the small boy who chanced to meet a man who had in his possession four puppies. The boy was delighted, patting and playing with them for some time, when he chanced to ask, 'Mister, how much are the puppies?' 'Two dollars a piece, my son.' 'But mister, I don't want a piece, I want a whole dog.'

"The whole employed force of the Young Men's Christian Association embraces an army of men numbering in 1910 about three thousand, not counting all the assistants giving part of their time on this and the surrounding continents. The association has secured $70,000,000 worth of property in North America alone. Looking at these figures many a person has asked, 'Why this great army of men in the work?' 'Why this large expenditure of money?' Simply and wholly for no other reason than for the conservation of our manhood, the young men and boys.

"We can estimate the material things of this world by the dollar sign. But who is there here tonight who can place the dollar sign on the destiny of a human life which has enveloped within a living a soul? What is the price, did I hear?"

"Before coming to this city it was my privilege to labor in one of the grandest and most complete equipped buildings in this land. The plant at Syracuse, N. Y., is worth nearly $500,000. Many a person on entering the spacious lobby and viewing the building where a man's needs are catered to from the clipping of his toe nails to the cutting of his hair has asked, 'Was this a wise investment?' I give you this story from my personal experiences, and leave you to be the judge as to whether the investment was wisely made. One evening last May there came into the building a young man about my age under the influence of liquor. He became rather boisterous in his speech and a young man came up to me and asked, 'Burns, shall I call up the police station and call the patrol? This fellow may cause a disturbance?' 'Not just yet,' I replied. I then went over to where the young man was standing and placed my hand upon his shoulder, and asked him to take a walk with me. He surveyed me in a critical manner for a few seconds but accepted the invitation. We proceeded to the elevator and ascended to the third floor where we entered a room in which a group of men had gathered for a meeting. It is not necessary for me to go into the details of that meeting further than to tell you that this young man came to me the next day and said that he desired to talk over matters. He told me briefly of his past life and the sin into which he had fallen, and his desire to change his life. I replied that it was up to him if he was willing to pay the price and let the Grace of God come into his heart. The change came and today Edwards is a new man, and holds a responsible position. When about to leave yonder city he came to me and said, 'Burns, all that I am I owe to you.' I replied that I was glad to have been the instrument but the praise belonged to the redeeming power of a loving Savior. A card which I value very highly came to me last Christmas as a gift from him.

"The work of the employed officers would not be a success without the hearty co-operation and assistance of the board of directors and its president; the men who serve on committees; and the membership at large. It is easy for us to know the men hold up our hands and endeavor to encourage us in our work. It is true that discouragements will come, perplexities will arise; but back of all is the loyalty of those who beckon us on to nobler ambitions.

"A man who possesses this happy faculty in a large measure we behold in the retiring president of this association, Mr. Joy. It has been a privilege to have labored with him. It is to such men and to those whose names appear as beacon lights to the succeeding generations that we unite our tribute with the poet in saying:

"Lives of great men all remind us,
We can make our lives sublime,
And departing leave behind us
Foot-prints on the sands of time.

Foot-prints that perhaps another
Sailing o'er life's solemn main;
A forlorn and ship-wrecked brother
Seeing, may take heart again.

Let us then be up and doing
With a heart for any fate;
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait."

C. R. Joy's Response.
The remarks of C. R. Joy in full follow:

"I have been deeply touched with some of the things which have been said here tonight. The time may come when the ink will have faded from this scroll, but the recollection of this night will never fade from my memory. Some of those present who are not familiar with the history of the Association might think from what has been said that more credit is due me for the achievements of the Association than I deserve. Association leaders who know of our work recognize the fact that we have had an unusually loyal and efficient committee service. I think the Keokuk Association owes more to J. R. Thompson than to any other one man. He was our general secretary for seven years, coming here soon after the organization was started. He was with us in our building campaign and organized us in our work. While he was an efficient general secretary.

he developed the best there was in others.

"It would have been impossible for this association to have accomplished what it has had it not been for the service of its lay members. You have heard a good deal tonight of what I have done for the Association, but you have heard little of what the Association has done for me. Living in an atmosphere of association work for so many years, has greatly affected my life. Particularly have I appreciated the association with the men who have served on our board of directors. My fellowship with these men has meant a great deal to me. Contact with the young men and boys has kept me young; and it has been a great satisfaction to me that the Association has helped to mould the character of so many men who are now in active business life.

"A reference was made at the dinner this evening to the bible class which I taught for the last five years. If others have received benefit from this class, I have shared in it. I believe the benefits I have received from the physical department have added years to my life. The Young Men's Christian Association has taught the business men of this country the meaning of 'stewardship.' I, with others, have learned the true meaning of 'it is more blessed to give than to receive.' Through my connection with the local Association I have come to know and love men in all parts of the world, and their friendship is valuable to me.

"Perhaps I should give my reasons for withdrawing from the presidency of this association. As I have studied the work of other associations, I have usually found that where the president has served a long term, it has proved a disadvantage to the association. New life and new ideas are necessary to success in this work. It has been impossible for me to give as much time during the past few years to the work as I should.

"The service that Mr. Hamill did in our building campaign was so remarkable that his service should long ago have been recognized by placing him at the head of the Association. During the past few years Keokuk as a community has been feeling too well satisfied with the association. Men who should have been active in its support have thought they were not needed. We are now entering upon a new era as a city. New responsibilities and opportunities are coming to the Association and it needs the interest and support of all its friends. And I wish to bespeak for Mr. Hamill the sympathy and co-operation of the entire community. I wish also to express my appreciation of the splendid support I have received from the men who have served as directors and committeemen during the 15 years I have held the presidency. The cheerfulness with which they have responded to my calls has alone made it possible for the association to accomplish the degree of success which the Keokuk Young Men's Christian Association has enjoyed."

The committee which had in charge the arrangements for the Joy reception consisted of J. O. Boyd, chairman, W. J. Fulton, L. A. Hamill, Ira W. Willis.

MONEY BACK
HYOMEL Cures Catarrh Without Stomach Dosing, or Money Back.

Yes, dear reader, catarrh can be cured; but not by pouring vile, nauseating drugs into the stomach.

And catarrh germs thrive, flourish and multiply in the nose and throat. Can you kill these tough and persistent little health destroyers by swallowing pills or nostrum? Any physician will tell you it cannot be done.

HYOMEL (pronounced High-o-me) is a germ killing vaporized air which when breathed either through the mouth or nose, will kill catarrh germs and soothe and heal the inflamed and mutilated membrane promptly. It gives relief in two minutes.

HYOMEL is such a powerful germ destroyer that it penetrates every fold and crevice of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat.

A complete outfit, which includes inhaler, a bottle of HYOMEL and simple instructions for use, costs $1.00.

Should you need a second bottle of HYOMEL the price is only 50c. Wilkinson & Co., and leading druggists everywhere sell HYOMEL.

Announcement of Consolidation Made by William F. Scott, President of the Company.

SCOTT-MADDEN TO INCREASE HERE

PLANS OF THE COMPANY
Mr. Scott and Family Will Make Their Home in Keokuk and Sales Office Will Eventually Come Here.

The Scott-Madden Iron Works Company, which recently sold its plant at Rushville, Ind., is preparing to concentrate and increase its Keokuk plant and will eventually move its general sales office from St. Louis to this city according to a statement today from William F. Scott, president of the corporation, who has arrived here to remain permanently. Within the next few months the company will add to its equipment for the purpose of manufacturing steam shovels and dredges, and consequently give employment to additional men. The announcement is one of importance and will be well received by the business interests of the city. In telling of the plans there was a touch of sentiment for Keokuk in what President Scott had to say.

The Real Reason.
"In making this move," said Mr. Scott today, "I have felt that Keokuk is increasing in its business and that, due to its promising industrial importance, this was the time to become definitely and permanently established as a strictly Keokuk institution. All members of the concern have abundant faith in Keokuk's future, which is the real reason for having the consolidation made here."

No better evidence of the company's faith in Keokuk's future can be recalled than a recent refusal to consolidate and move to Marion, Ind., a flattering offer having been made by the commercial organization of that city. With the manufacturing of steam shovels and dredges the company's work will be materially increased and the officers believe that this city is the place for its future efforts.

Brief Bit of History.
The Globe Iron Works was organized in Keokuk more than thirty years ago and was succeeded by the Scott Manufacturing Company in the year 1903. It was at this time that Mr. Scott came to Keokuk. About eighteen months ago the firm name changed to Scott-Madden company and since that time President Scott has been making his home in St. Louis, while J. N. D. Dickinson of Keokuk, has been the manager of the local plant and treasurer of the company.

It is announced that no change in the personnel of the company will be made. Mr. Scott has not yet secured a Keokuk residence, but will do so in a short time. His wife, who was the bride of only a few months upon coming to Keokuk in 1903, has many friends here to renew her former acquaintance with.
