a diamond tiara and a stomacher of ornaments.
The countess of Essex, who was Adela Grant of New York, impersonated the countess of Essex of Elizabethan times. She wore a green brocade and the Essex family jewels.
Mrs. George Cornwallis West, who arranged the Twelfth Night quadrille, impersonated Olivia. She wore a green satin gown and a head dress of gold. Lady John Leslie, formerly Miss Jerome of New York, was gowned in blue. The duchess of Manchester, who was Miss Zimmerman of Cincinnati, appeared in a leaf-green brocade, with a gold tissue petticoat and a cap of diamonds and pearls with a chain pendant of emeralds; Lady Craven, who was Miss Martin of New York, wore a pale blue brocade with diamonds.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Orpheum Changes Programs Daily.

Like they do in the big cities, the Orpheum moving picture theatre, is changing its bill daily. Each matinee and evening sees the fine new theatre filled to its capacity and the management is gratified with the manner in which this modern and picturesque house is patronized. Leading in its feature picture bills and up-to-the-minute music, the house advantageously situated and comfortably equipped, is one of the most popular places in Keokuk.

Natural Indignation.

A cautious German, who keeps a pawnbroker's shop in Sydney, is in the habit of leaving his daughter in charge while he attends sales to pick up bargains. A Chinaman entered the store the other day to buy a watch. The girl placed four on the counter, and while her back was turned, John changed the places of the highest and lowest priced watches. He then said he would take the cheapest one, for which he paid and departed. It was not until he was clear away that she discovered the fraud, about which, on her father's return, she told him with many tears. "Never mind, never mind, mine dear," he said; "dove watches was all the same price. But vat a scoundrel dot Shinamon must be, don't he?"

SHEARING LAMBS IN WALL STREET

Instance of How Theo. Gilman, Jr., Was Relieved of $20 by Man Representing Himself to Have Relatives Here.

COLE'S NAME IMPLICATED

Commercial Agent of the Wabash Finds Letter in Mail Telling How His Name Has Been Used in the Story.

Claiming to be cousin of John H. Cole of Keokuk, a man giving the name of H. B. Boyne used the relationship to the extent of a $20 "touch" on Theodore Gilman, Jr., of New York, son of the secretary-treasurer of the Keokuk and Hamilton Bridge company. That his name had been used for such a purpose was learned by Mr. Cole when he received a letter from Mr. Gilman in which was also enclosed a letter written by H. B. Boyne, telling Mr. Cole that the money had been borrowed and asking if he would write to the New York man saying that the loan was all right.

From the story told by Mr. Cole it seems that Boyne, if that be his real name, entered the office of Theodore Gilman, Jr., and said that he needed money to go to Quebec in time to see his parents before they took a steamer for Europe. Boyne was well dressed and represented himself as being a relative of Mr. Cole. He was able to tell where Mr. Cole lived and also said that he had a cousin in Seattle, all of which was not far wrong. He told Mr. Gilman he would write a letter to Mr. Cole, explaining the circumstances. This he did and the letter was forwarded to Keokuk. Boyne disappeared with the $20 and is probably still on his way to Quebec to meet that steamer.

Jokingly Mr. Cole penned a few words to Mr. Gilman, saying that he had often heard of shearing lambs in Wall street and now an instance was brought right to his door. Where Boyne obtained his information about Mr. Cole is unaccounted for.

BAPTIST PASTOR BRINGS A SUIT

Has Become a Landlord and Does Not Think $30 Enough Rent for "White Hall."

JURY RETURNS VERDICT

Found for Defendant in Case of Jones vs. Datin After Deliberation of Only Half An Hour.

Rev. J. F. Sanders, pastor of the First Baptist church, now that he has become a landlord is no believer in cheap rental. A few months ago he purchased the "White Hall," a Main street building between Third and Fourth occupied by Suttive Bros. The rent paid is $30 a month, which Rev. Sanders says is not sufficient. The result is he has brought suit in the district court today for immediate possession and damages in the sum of $300 because Suttive Bros., so he alleges, have retained possession longer than entitled to.

It took a jury of twelve men just thirty minutes or possibly a little longer to find for the defendant in the case of J. N. Jones vs. Joseph Datin, former sheriff of Lee county yesterday afternoon. The jury was back at 3:40, failing to give the plaintiff any part of the $1,500 damages sued for.

At 9:30 o'clock this morning the case of Frankenstein vs. Vogue was begun. In this case the plaintiff is asking $161.54 for carpenter work. It is being tried before a jury.

Manuscript of Thirteenth Century.

While reading a French book of the sixteenth century in the university library, St. Andrews, the German lecturer, Dr. Schaaffs, noticed some fragments of an old French poem which the binder had pasted on back and covers of the book.

After loosening them he removed the glue and out of the four pieces obtained composed two larger pieces, parts of two leaves of a manuscript written in a beautiful and clear type in two columns of thirty-nine lines each, 144 in all, with red and blue initials. The names occurring in the text leave no doubt that the fragments contain parts of the old French romance "Le Roman de Girard de Viane," and from the language and the script it appears that the manuscript was written between 1250 and 1300.

FIRELESS COOKING FOR DOGS

How One Family Solved the Problem of Preparing the Food for the Animals.

Cooking the dog's food had been rather a difficult problem in our household, either because the kitchen range was otherwise occupied or because the cook was, and the long, slow cooking necessary for cereals and tough meats was seldom accomplished without friction. Now we put the meat and bones, with enough water to cover them, in a fireless cooker receptacle, bring the contents of the pot to the boiling point in about five minutes, and then pack the kettle away in the fireless cooker for five or six hours. The meat is then tender enough to peel from the bone, and more water is added, and whatever cereal we wish to use. The whole mass is once more brought to the boiling point, and put back in the cooker. In another four or five hours we find a supply of richly flavored food that keeps fresh in a cool place for several days. The dogs seem to enjoy the food prepared in this way, and we are sure of its being thoroughly cooked, and never scorched, and the time occupied in the kitchen is minimized.—Country Life in America.

ANCIENT QUARREL IS OVER

Two Old Sardinian Families Publicly End Feud That Had Lasted for Centuries.

A ceremony the like of which had not been seen for centuries has just taken place in Sardinia, the cradle of the Italian vendetta. It was a solemn public reconciliation of two ancient families, the Orecchioni and the Cardis, who had been in feud since the middle ages. A dispute over a question of family honor between these widely ramified houses has led to countless acts of vengeance and those who shirked fighting had to take refuge abroad. In 1844 a reconciliation committee was formed by the bishops of Tempio and Ozieri, the prefect and the commander of the carabinieri and many other notables of the island, but it effected nothing. It may be that even the Italian vendetta is influenced by modern notions; at all events a solemn reconciliation of the families has been effected before the bishops in the cathedral of Santa Teresa. The present heads of the two families, Advocate Orecchioni and Cavaliere Cardis, publicly embraced amid cheers from thousands of Sardinian throats. From all parts of the island came congratulatory messages. To break this peace would be in the eyes of the people an act of sacrilege.
