

NEW CITY MAP FIRST SINCE 1895

Keokuk Industrial Association Will Issue One in a Very Short Time. More Complete Than Any Before.

LUNCHEON HELD TODAY

Matters of Interest Discussed by Association at Session at Elk's Club—DeWitt in Des Moines.

A new map of the city of Keokuk and Jackson township (outside)—the first in sixteen years—will be issued by the Keokuk Industrial Association very soon, according to an announcement made today by President C. R. Joy.

The map will be very complete, in fact more complete in its detail than any that has heretofore been issued, if the Industrial Association plans are carried out. A blue print has been prepared by Stone and Webster which will be used for the purpose.

The map will be printed in several sizes and sold at a minimum cost to those desirous of them. The last city map printed was Johnson's in the year 1895.

NOON DAY LUNCHEON

The Keokuk Industrial Association directorate enjoyed its regular noon day luncheon at the Elks club today and discussed matters of immediate importance. The preparation of the map was touched on also the freight rate hearing this week, the election tomorrow and the mass meeting in the opera house planned for February.

MORE STONE AND WEBSTER MEN

Twenty of Them Arrived Today From the Boston Offices of the Company.

The local Stone and Webster force was increased today by the arrival of twenty men from the Boston offices. A majority of the new arrivals will be used in the draughting department. The work of securing quarters for the men, which was a matter of some difficulty, has been going on for several weeks.

Today one of the members, living out of town, telephoned the governor he could not be at the meeting today. The governor announced a postponement of the session until next Thursday afternoon.

SAVES LIVES OF PASSENGERS

L. A. Mitchell, Learning of Broken Rail, Flags Northbound Train in Time to Avert Derailment.

TRAIN WAS GOING FAST

Train in Effort to Make up Lost Time Certainly Would Have Been Upset Except for Warning.

The lives of a number of passengers on Burlington train No. 3, which arrives in Keokuk at 1:55 p. m. and continues north, were probably saved at a late hour this afternoon by L. A. Mitchell, water power employe who resides in the Anchutzh house at the foot of Anchutzh hill, who flagged the passenger train when it was going thirty miles an hour, preventing it from running into a broken rail.

The train was running fast at the time in an effort to make up time between Keokuk and Montrose, having arrived at Keokuk a few minutes behind the schedule time.

Six minutes before the train was due to pass the broken rail Mr. Mitchell, who can understand the language of the foreigners, was told of the broken rail by one of them. The rail was some distance away and fearing he would be unable to win in the race against the oncoming train, resolved to flag the train.

Having had some experience as a railroad man and being acquainted with the signals, Mr. Mitchell gave the engineer the "washout" sign and the train came to a stop in time to avoid the danger.

Mr. Mitchell then went forward and signaled the passenger train over the trouble in safety, the engineer running his train very slowly.

CITY NEWS

Wanda.—A ten pound baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hall, 1502 Park street, last Tuesday, Jan. 9.

Special sale, 8 to 10 lb. hams 15c; 6 to 10 lb. shoulders 10c lb. They are fine ones. Chas. Marks, 1328 Main. Bell phone 1239 red.

In answer to a still alarm, the fire department's chemical engine went to the Younker residence at Tenth and Concert streets, at noon today where a chimney was burning out. No damage resulted.

A largely attended funeral was that of Capt. J. K. Cooney's in Montrose yesterday. Damascus Commandery, No. 5, of Keokuk, of which he was a member, was represented by L. W. Hall, E. F. Renaud, J. M. Marsh and O. W. Sandberg.

Mrs. I. S. Ackley is confined to her home with a slight illness.

The Standard Oil people worked overtime to get their new headquarters in readiness for operations and they are now quite comfortably located on Fourth street.

A patron of The Gate City want column called today to express his appreciation and amazement over the results obtained through an advertisement placed in this paper. He had tried other ways of supplying his wants but did not get the result until he used this paper. He called personally to thank us. If you advertise for results use The Gate City.

The election of the Keokuk Industrial Association for fifteen directors, which takes place tomorrow at the association rooms between the hours of 2 p. m. and 5 p. m. is of considerable more importance than is given credit. It is the duty of all stockholders to go and vote and it is their privilege to vote for any citizen they choose. It is a place and an opportunity to express their preference. If you are in the city take enough interest in the election to go and vote. To send a proxy does not indicate a very deep interest in the organization that is expected to get the largest benefits for the city. A list of directors appears in another part of this issue. A stockholder speaking about the election suggested that B. B. Hobbs, Al Kiedaisch, Myrlie Baker, A. H. Rich, George Tucker and many others he could mention would make splendid material for directors or officers. Be sure and vote and if you do not vote do not find fault after the election.

M. F. King of the Standard Oil Company "set em up" to four boxes of good cigars for the benefit of the Keokuk fire department today.

All indications point to the present year as being the best one Keokuk has experienced in years. Every line of business is permeated with an optimistic feeling and that there will be lively times is assured. The building boom is expected to start out in a most lively manner.

Officer Russell in charge of the sub-station here for recruits in the United States navy, while he has not really enlisted any recruits so far, has several considering the matter seriously and are expected in a short time to be enrolled in Uncle Sam's sea force.

NAPHTHALINE, BUT NO GAS

Outlet Pipe From Holder at Gas Plant Became Choked and Keokuk's Gas Supply Was Shut Off.

TROUBLE WAS REMEDIED

Manager Ayres Stated This Afternoon that the Long Stretch of Cold Weather Was Responsible.

Naphthalene, that odoriferous substance used in the manufacture of moth balls, put a crimp in Keokuk's gas supply again Sunday night and early today, and the users of gas for lighting purposes were compelled to resort to oil lamps and tallow candles to illuminate their homes.

Today the company stated that the trouble had been overcome, and a recurrence of what has transpired during the past few days is not likely.

The continued cold weather caused Naphthalene to form in the outlet pipe from the holder at the gas plant, making the flow of gas in any quantity practically impossible. While this has been going on more or less during the past week it first appeared serious Saturday night shortly after eight o'clock. Sunday night the trouble was more acute and hardly any of the homes in the city had gas. Today The Gate City faced grave difficulty during the hours from seven to nine o'clock and it looked as if the three line-type machines would be out of commission during the day, and that a paper set by hand would have to tell people the news this evening.

The trouble was remedied during the morning and this afternoon Manager Ayres was positive there would be no more difficulty. The long stretch of zero weather was entirely responsible for the trouble, it was stated.

CONTENTED AT $3 PER WEEK

foster mother of Violet Buehler, the fifteen year old run-away who was located in New York wired the police of that city to hold the girl and Jack Clewne, the waiter with whom she is in love, until further instructions. The police were warned not to arrest the pair.

Mrs. Buehler breathed a sigh of relief today when told the girl had been found.

"Now I can rest in peace," she said. "I am sure Violet will be only too willing to return. She has had a home of comparative comfort here with me at the hotel Meyers and that she is working as a servant I can hardly believe. The uncertainty of the last two months has driven me almost insane."

Jack C. Clewne, the waiter with whom Violet admits she is infatuated, was employed off and on at the new Hotel Brevoort here for several years until last August when he went to New York.

Can't See It That Way. NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—"They say I was foolish to run away from home and work here for $3 a week. But I can't see it that way; I don't think I was foolish at all."

Violet Buehler, 15 year old Chicago girl, heiress to $100,000, for whom the police of many cities had been searching since Nov. 21, on the theory that she had been kidnaped and held for ransom, declared today in the rooms of the children's society that she wanted to work and make a name for herself. The girl was found working as a nurse for an invalid in an east side tenement.

"I would rather work and make my way here in New York," she continued, than to live in a wealthy home in Chicago.

"My foster mother treated me well and I was shown every kindness. But they would not let me go out and I couldn't have any boy friends. I suppose now I'll have to go back to Chicago, but I'll come back to New York the very first chance I get.

"Other girls, who haven't any money, are allowed to go out into the world and make their own way. They can have sweethearts and do as they please—and I think that's perfectly dandy.

"It was fine to be nurse and companion for Miss Brett. I enjoyed doing something for someone else and I felt that I amounted to something. In Chicago I was taken care of and I didn't amount to anything."

The girl denied she came to New York to meet Jack Clewne, the former Chicago waiter, with whom she admits she is in love one minute, denying it the next. She declares she did not meet Clewne until she arrived in New York.

"I don't know whether I love him or not," she said this afternoon.

The girl met Clewne in the corridor of the children's court this afternoon, when she was arraigned before Justice Olmstead on the charge of having improper guardianship. She was passing through the hallway in charge of Policeman Mulligan when a small, undersized man approached her. Jerking away from the officer, she sprang into his arms.

"Oh, Jack," she cried, and tried to kiss him, but the policeman interfered. Clewne was placed under technical arrest, but was soon released, the police declaring there was nothing in his relations with the heiress that would warrant holding him.

The girl was remanded to the children's society until Saturday when her foster mother is expected from Chicago.

After the girl was taken to police headquarters the police found that she had left the following note in the apartment for Clewne:

"Jack: Don't give up, hun. I must go. Will write as soon as possible. I'm so nervous.

"X X X (Kisses, the police declare.) "P. S.—Stick to me Jack, and everything will be OK."

The girl admitted today that she had been wooed in Chicago by a police lieutenant that her foster mother wished her to marry. This, she said, was partially responsible for her flight to New York.

"Of course I love Jack," said the girl today. "He used to bum around Chicago with my gang. He's a fine fellow. When he came to New York; I just followed him; that's all.

"I don't see why girls shouldn't run away from home and see the world. It's better than hanging around the house, seeing the same things over and over every day. I want to go to Europe and everywhere else, and I'm going to. Jack is the same kind as me. He likes to roam. We'll roam together. Maybe we'll have to bum our way some time, but what of it?"

"I did not know Violet in Chicago," was reported," said Jack Clewne, the 22 year old waiter named as "the man in the case" of Violet Buehler.

"I met the girl at a dance and was introduced to her. We were not engaged to be married and I did not know Violet was an heiress.

"I think a lot of her but we never talked of marriage. I suppose we acted just as any two young folks would. I went to see her regularly and took her out some, but I have always been a gentleman with her, as she will say, and I have nothing to fear."

"Would you marry her now that you know she is an heiress?" was asked.

"I don't know whether I would or not, and I don't know whether she would have me or not," was the reply.

"I would like to see her and talk with her. I am sorry she is in trouble and more than sorry she has to go back to Chicago. If I can help her in any way I shall be glad to do so and maybe after she gets older."

The young waiter left the sentence unfinished.

Clewne is not prepossessing in appearance or manner, is not well educated and in contrast to the refined, vivacious little heiress he shows little to attract a girl of Miss Buehler's type.

He is inclined to be taciturn and uncommunicative. "Are you going to remain in New York until the matter is cleared up?" was asked.

"Sure," replied Clewne, "I've nothing to fear."

TVEITMOE IS SCORCHING WRITER

Annual Report of Labor Official Who is Under Indictment on Dynamiting Charge.

[United Press Leased Wire Service.] FRESNO, Cal., Jan. 15.—"Never beg bread from a friend nor ask mercy from an enemy. Live by your own strength or die."

With this sentiment prominent on the title of his printed annual report, Olaf A. Tveitmoe under indictment in Los Angeles for alleged complicity in the dynamiting for which John J. and James B. McNamara are serving sentences, today, as secretary-treasurer of the State Building Trades council of California, rendered an account of his stewardship at the eleventh annual convention of that body here.

A fierce arraignment of big business, its "three Hessian, intellectual prostitutes and putrid parasites," Tveitmoe's discussion of the war between capital and labor.

"Union men and women work for peace," he added. "They believe that murder is the most horrible of all crimes and that the talking of human life whether committed by individual, society, state or nation, in an ordinary brawl, an industrial struggle, or a so-called civilized war, is murder.

BOYCE HEADED FOR TEXAS NOW

Wants to See Snead Properly Punished for the Murder of His Father.

[United Press Leased Wire Service.] WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 15.—Alfred G. Boyce whose elopement with the wife of J. B. Snead of Amarillo, Tex., resulted in the shooting of Boyce's father by Snead, started for Texas today. Boyce does not hold himself responsible for the tragedy and said: "I am going home at once. I will see that Snead does not escape the consequences of his cowardly act."

The $5,000 bail put up by Boyce for himself and Mrs. Snead when they were arrested here was returned to him today and he started for the United States immediately. Boyce said he had been out of town for several days since his release from custody, but the police believe he was hiding, as he thought Snead was seeking him here.

LORD IN WAITING GETS DIVORCE

Lost His Job With King George as Result of the Court Scandal.

[United Press Leased Wire Service.] LONDON, Jan. 15.—As a result of the scandal in which his wife's name was linked with that of Lord Hamilton of Dalzell, formerly lord in waiting to King George, Lieutenant Col. A. W. Lawson was granted a divorce today. His wife, who was Miss Sybil Marshall, daughter of Sir Frederick Marshall, did not defend the suit. Misconduct was alleged in the complaint.

Lawson is a son of Lord Burnham, proprietor of The Telegraph, and served with distinction in the Boer war, twice being awarded medals for bravery.

Lord Hamilton was dismissed as lord in waiting to King George some time ago following the charge he had been guilty of improprieties with Mrs. Lawson. The affair caused a great court scandal.

Silence. The black sheep of the Warywalk family had distinguished himself again. "This is the last straw!" groaned his respectable brother. "I'm goin' to 'ave it put in the papers that I've changed my name from Warywalk to Wobbleway, 'cos of my brother's disgracin' the name. I'll 'ave it printed on 'and-bills' all distributed by the thousand! I'm determined nobody shall suspect that I'm related to 'im." —Ideas.

A Quiet Morning Wedding. A very happy morning wedding was witnessed at 11 o'clock this forenoon in the marriage of Will C. Hedgcock of Lafayette, Ind., and Miss Vera Hawkes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hawkes, at the residence 1123 Bank street, Rev. George C. Williams of the Congregational church performing an impressive ceremony.

It was a quiet home wedding, only the families of the contracting parties were expected to participate in the event, but just after the conclusion of the ceremony, members of the G. N. A. T. club, to the number of ten young ladies, created a pleasant surprise by appearing in a body and were at once welcomed to include the guests present, about sixteen. The only away-from home people attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hedgcock and daughter, Miss Mary Hedgcock of Louisville, Ky., parents and sister of the groom.

The bride is a most popular young lady of the city, a favorite in her set and among a large circle of friends and acquaintances. The groom is a promising young business man of his home city, Lafayette, Ind.

The home was handsomely decorated with smilax and roses which added happily to this interesting wedding occasion. Just after the noon hour the guests sat down to an excellent dinner of six courses. The young couple left on the 1:35 north-bound K. line train for Chicago where they will probably visit a few days and speed onward to Lafayette, Ind., which is to be their future home.

It will be preferable to send the cash with order but in case this is not convenient the order will be accepted but it must be remembered that cash collection will be made the following day by Gate City collectors.

ELECTION SYSTEM NEEDS REVISION. Prussians Do Not Like the Way Members of the Landtag Are Chosen.

[United Press Leased Wire Service.] BERLIN, Jan. 15.—A vigorous effort to reform the Prussian election system will be made by the liberal, progressive and socialist members of the Prussian diet, which convened here today. The electoral system, one of the most antiquated in the world, has resulted in numerous riots and frequent bloodshed.

Members of the landtag are chosen by indirect election under what is known as the "three class system." Every 250 voters chose an "elector" by open ballot and these electors select the 442 members of the landtag. The voters are classified according to taxes paid.

This has prevented the socialists and progressives from obtaining much representation. The reactionaries, already frightened by the radicals' success in the recent reichstag election, are expected to make a bitter fight to retain the present system of voting.
