SON COMES TO FATHER'S AID

W. M. Hicks, Monroe City, Mo., Escapes Prosecution by Son's Quick Action.

W. M. Hicks, of Monroe City, Mo., will not have to face prosecution in Missouri on a charge of removing mortgaged property from the state, and obtaining money under false pretenses. His son, after hearing of his father's predicament, came to his rescue and made a satisfactory settlement with his father's creditors.

Word reached here last week to be on the lookout for Hicks, as it was thought he was headed in this direction. He was located here and word sent to Monroe City to that effect. Hicks was charged with mortgaging a team of horses and a buggy for $56, which he drove to Keokuk. In addition, he is said to have bought two rugs of a Monroe City man, and represented that he would pay for them when he called for them. He sent another party for the rugs and failed to pay for them. The rugs were shipped to Keokuk, addressed to a party who claimed his name was Gola-ger.

Daily Stock Letter.

[Copyright, 1912, by New York Evening Post Co.]

NEW YORK, May 9.—A somewhat elaborate machinery of "advance tips" distributed through Wall street before the opening, another effort to stir up speculative enthusiasm, was made on the stock exchange today. For a time, it was more successful than the attempts in the same direction yesterday and the day before; the reason probably being that some of the small "bear accounts" were dislodged by pressure. Such accounts were almost non-existent in the top-heavy market of a week ago, but they naturally rolled up in a respectable volume in the violent evening break. The stocks most favored in the recent speculation showed opening advances of half to three-quarters, and around noon were one to two points above yesterday's close. Attention appeared to be paid to such minor stocks as are easily bid up but it was Reading shares in which the chief effort was made to cover short accounts. Business in other stocks was of small magnitude and in the last half hour, when it was seen that the market had followed the forenoon movement only half heartedly, prices sold steadily off again until the close.

SUGAR A HEART STIMULANT

Experiments of An English Physician Show Cures of Cases of Muscle Dilation.

Sugar has had its champions as well as its opponents. Its advocates have declared that, aside from its nourishing value, it carries with it a quick stimulation that is without perceptible reaction.

On the other side, says the Bakers Weekly, "we have had radical utterances connecting sugar with some of the most incurable of organic diseases. But an English physician recently contended that cane sugar is almost a specific in the treatment of certain diseases of the heart. Emphasis is laid upon cane sugar."

Dr. F. S. Locke of King's college, London, has kept the heart of a mammal beating for eighty to ninety hours after death of the animal simply by keeping the heart muscles sprinkled with powdered cane sugar. These later experiments with cane sugar, especially with reference to dilation of the heart muscles, show that in numerous cases cures have been effected that are of three or four years standing.
