KEOKUK MAN HURT AT DES MOINES

Charles Grimm, former Police Officer and Fireman of Keokuk Reported Fatally Hurt.

Charles Grimm, formerly of this city, is reported to have been fatally hurt in Des Moines yesterday by the wrecking of a hose wagon of the Des Moines fire department of which he was the driver. Grimm is well known here, having been a member of the local police and fire departments for several years. He left here about three years ago and has been a member of the Des Moines fire department for over a year. It is said that in turning a corner, the hose wagon struck a pile of ties that had been laid there during repair work on the street railway system, and overturned, throwing Grimm to the pavement and injuring two other firemen. He struck his head on the curbing, and crushed his skull, according to the report. He was rushed to the hospital, where it is said that he has no chance of recovery.

STOLE EVIDENCE FROM COURT ROOM

Utah Politician Arrested While Walking Away With Bullet Torn Coat.

[United Press Leased Wire Service.] SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 5.—Willard Hanson, former county attorney and prominent in state politics, was arrested early today by Police Inspector S. A. Carlson, as he was walking from police headquarters carrying a bullet-riddled coat worn by Thomas McGillis, formerly of Denver and Colorado Springs, who was murdered by Alfred Sorenson. Hanson is alleged to have stolen the coat from the evidence locker room. Following the arrest of Hanson, five other men and one woman alleged members of a clique of phony pool room operators were arrested in various fashionable hotels and apartment houses. The woman was later released. The arrests are the result of an alleged attempt on the part of Hanson to bribe two city detectives to secure immunity for confidence men. The detectives allege that they received $50 a week for several weeks from Hanson for protection. The evidence locker room had been left open through arrangements made by Leichter and Seez, the two detectives, with Hanson, who represents Sorenson, and who is alleged to have declared that he had little chance to save his client, so long as the coat could be produced in

ROOSEVELT IS IN ST. PAUL

band of pirates take a ship, the ship isn't theirs."
"We're with you, 'Eddy,' the crowd yelled and the bull moose waved a frantic greeting to the applause.
"The Penroses and the Barnes" he continued, "stole ninety seats at Chicago. If they had needed 190 they would have stolen that number of seats."
"No man has the right to support a stolen nomination. It is condoning a theft; it is condoning an action that strikes at good government."
"They say I'm against representative government; I stand for representative government, but not their mis-represented government."
"I am against those who operate business and finance from behind the scenes."
The crowd stood around the stand, surged so that the colonel was forced to make his speech in installments, addressing first one side of the crowd and then the other.
He mounted a chair so that everybody could get a view.
"We stand for getting back to the people what should be theirs—the control of the constitution—the control of the government," the colonel declared. "We are fighting the battle of the plain people."

"At Chicago the bosses knew that they must beat me, for I would have turned them out of politics. At Baltimore, Taggart of Indiana, Sullivan of Illinois, Murphy of New York and other bosses nominated Mr. Wilson, expecting to continue their grip on the machinery of their states. They were enthroned in power by Mr. Wilson's nomination."
"In every state where we won in the primaries we chased the bosses out. We would have done it in New York if they had not cheated us."
"Both the old parties will try to do us damage because the bosses in these parties fear the new party."
Roosevelt discussed in full the Archbold-Penrose incident and sarcastically compared Penrose to a policeman holding up a saloonkeeper for graft money.
"He ought to be turned out of the senate," Roosevelt declared. "I think the bosses know that Mr. Taft is out of the running and they are going to line up behind Mr. Wilson."
Bull Moose Tea Party.
[United Press Leased Wire Service.] GLOUCESTER, Mass. Sept. 5.—Appealing to Massachusetts republicans to support Taft, John Hays Hammond today distributed throughout the state a statement exhorting Roosevelt as a "masquerader wearing the purloined coat of Bryan, and the stolen trousers of Eugene Debs."

"Certainly," says the statement, "it is not an auspicious beginning for a new party to have at its Caesarian birth accoucheurs notorious for their political activities."
CUMMINS WILL NOT ANSWER HIM
Decides to Ignore the Challenge of Bartholdt to Debate on Election Contests.
[United Press Leased Wire Service.] DES MOINES, Sept. 5.—Senator A. H. Cummins will in all probability ignore the challenge of Congressman Bartholdt, of Missouri, Taft supporter, to a debate on the election contests decided at the Chicago republican national convention.

A despatch from New York today stated that Bartholdt before leaving for Europe, issued a statement denying the correctness of the charge made by Senator Cummins that the election contests were fraudulently decided at the national republican convention and offered to meet Cummins in public debate any time after October 1.
"What Mr. Bartholdt may say does not concern me," said Senator Cummins this morning in declining to discuss the subject. "If he gets in my way I will try to dispose of him."

Daily Stock Letter.
[Copyright 1912 by the New York Evening Post Co.]
NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—On a volume of business rather smaller even than that of recent days, the stock market advanced this morning tentatively and irregularly. At the higher mid-day level, activity was considerably increased and other advances occurred, part of the buying orders apparently coming from out of town sources. Before the day was over, a dozen stocks had risen a point or more. There was at no time, however, any great activity, though the market had broadened considerably in the closing hour of business and at rather frequent intervals it returned to the apathy and indifference which have become familiar. Politics had apparently ceased to be an influence; even the betting on the curb received no stimulus. Among the railway earnings reports for July, the St. Paul's showing was conspicuous; its net receipts being much the largest of any corresponding month since the panic year. Most of the northwestern systems are not yet making so favorable a comparison, but the beginning of the spring wheat movement is yet to come.
Great Guns!
TURIN, Italy, Sept. 5.—A twelve-inch cannon being installed in the Italian fortifications at the summit of Mount Chaberton crashed down the side of the mountain the other day for a distance of 2,000 feet, carrying with it 20 Italian soldiers who had been supervising its installation. By almost a miracle, only one of the soldiers was seriously injured, the others catching on the trees and bushes as the cannon hurtled downward.
The big gun had just been hauled to the top of the mountain and was one of the twelve 12-inch pieces that are to comprise a part of the armament of what is to be the loftiest fortress in the world. It was being installed on a part of the mountain over 12,000 feet high and in a position that would command miles of the border between France and Italy when the foundations on which it was resting gave way.
