Miss Ehinger's Success. The many friends of Miss Prue Ehinger, who has been spending several months in the city with her aunt, Mrs. H. O. Whitney, will be interested in the following press notice from the New York Journal regarding her sister:

"Broadway has experienced a new thrill. Just recently it was a young woman, not yet out of her teens, suddenly emerging from an ingenue role in a western stock company, to the highest coveted post of leading woman in one of New York's biggest dramatic successes of the season. This actress is Ethel Valentine and her role is that of Lily Wagner in "Today," now in the eighth month in the 48th street theatre. The appointment given Miss Valentine was a most desirable one, and one any ambitious leading woman would have sacrificed a great deal for. In its presentation she scored the biggest individual hit of the season. An audience that packed the theatre from pit to dome on the night of the St. Louis girl's opening of the difficult part, demonstrated its approval by marked applause."

Ethel Valentine is the stage name for Ethel Valentine Ehinger who is the daughter of Eugene Ehinger, and was born in Ft. Madison, Mr. and Mrs. Ehinger and Miss Prue Ehinger will soon go to New York to see the triumph of Broadway's youngest leading lady. The pictures which appeared in many papers show her to be a remarkably pretty girl, with an expression not unlike Maud Adams.
