WHEN SOME ONE CARES. When you meet some disappointment, an' yer felin' kind-oh-blue; When yer plans have all got side-tracked, or some friend has proved untrue;

Some one who can appreciate one's efforts when he tries; Some one who seems to understand-an' so can sympathize;

Some one who, when he's far away, still wonders how he fares— Some one who never can forget—some one who really cares.

It will send a thrill of rapture through the framework of the heart; It will stir the inner being till the tear drops want to start;

Oh, this world is not all sunshine—many days dark clouds disclose; There's a cross for ev'ry joy bell, an' a thorn for ev'ry rose;

THOUGHT FOR TODAY. Do thy little well and for thy comfort know Great men can do their greatest work no better than just so.

With practically no tools, a man in the Bridgewater, Mass., state farm has made a perfect teapot out of a cent.

Mrs. Harriet Stanton Batch has a scoop. She has learned that Boss Murphy of Tammany favors votes for women.

A beautiful new flower has been evolved by a resident of California who has succeeded in budding a rose on a blackberry bush.

Everything in a new pig sty near Randers, Denmark, which has two stories and accommodations for 1,500 animals, is worked by electricity.

Some of the steamers sailing out of Vancouver, British Columbia, have established motion pictures on ship-board for the amusement of passengers.

After eight years' work, Miss Irma Cone has completed the task of copying 100,000 diagrams of real estate surveys which were partly destroyed by fire in 1906.

Dr. Eugene Doyen, who denies the claims set forth by radium experts that radium will cure cancer, is regarded as the greatest bacteriologist France has produced since Pasteur.

Mrs. Cyrus Niver, the only woman member of the new Pennsylvania moving picture censorship board, has come to the conclusion that one yard of film is long enough for any kiss.

Miss Bertha Sattler was detained at the pier in New York because her trunk had a false bottom and concealed a lot of valuable laces. She came from Switzerland and was met in New York by friends.

A crocodile at the Frankfurt Germany zoo has just been fitted to an aluminum jaw. The crocodile fractured its jaw on the rocks in its basin and every effort to get the bones reset proved ineffectual.

Recent investigations of the Illinois state highway department indicate that few highway steel bridges in that state are painted after their final completion and acceptance. Very serious corrosion results.

Baroness Bertha Van Suttner, who died in Vienna, Austria, her native city, had the great distinction of being the winner of the Nobel peace prize of 1915. It is stated that books written by her forty years ago gave the first impetus to the movement for international peace and led to the founding of the Nobel system.

BUBONIC PLAGUE APPEARS IN NEW ORLEANS. Bubonic plague has invaded New Orleans. Two cases have been found in the industrial home of the volunteers of America, one death resulting, the post mortem confirming the diagnosis.

A century ago a workman, with the tools of that time, could make 5,000 pins a day. Now, with modern machinery, a workman can turn out 15,000,000 a day.

EYE-STRAIN. Measurements of human eyes demonstrate that there is probably no such thing in the world as an absolutely perfect eye. That would be a miracle which Nature with all her infinite ingenuity has never performed.

SPOILS SYSTEM IS DISCUSSED

Diplomatic Appointments in United States Are Not Made Because of Experience.

NOT SO IN EUROPE

Every Ambassador is Trained Man, Who Has Had Years of Schooling for Position.

[By Henry Wood, Rome Correspondent of the United Press.] ROME, July 29.—The unusual number of foreign complications arising under President Wilson's administration has caused a wide-spread discussion in the European press on the American "spoils" system of diplomatic appointments.

IN EUROPE there is no other profession so generally regarded as requiring a life's special training and education as that of diplomacy. Italy, for example, requires that every candidate for the diplomatic career must possess a title of nobility, two university degrees and be master of at least two modern foreign languages.

With this required preparation for a diplomat in Italy, Italians naturally look a trifle askance at the American system of appointing almost any man, regardless of his special qualifications, who has happened to place the successful political party sufficiently in his debt.

can may think in this way, at least Secretary of State Bryan had discovered in these days that to diplomatic notes one cannot reply by smiling or even with a verse from his 'evangel of peace.' He has learned too that the great questions of the Japanese in California must sooner or later be solved. In fact, ... Bryan, while permitting congress to discuss laws for restricting emigration from European countries, well knowing that the European countries will not attach any great importance to what the United States may do in this respect, has on the other hand counselled congress not to occupy itself with the law excluding the Japanese.

"However, in spite of this, the question continues to become more and more difficult to solve, and in the end its solution may possibly teach that after all it is expecting too much to transform in 48 hours a highly successful farmer, for instance, into a minister plenipotentiary."
