ROUTINE MATTERS KEEP CONVENTION BUSY TODAY

Election of Officers Was One of the Important Duties Before U. B. F. and S. M. T.

BIG PARADE TOMORROW

Plans Being Pushed for Grand Affair Which Will Take Place at 10:30—Many Notables Here.

Today was devoted almost entirely to the business sessions of the two grand lodges of the negro secret orders which are meeting here. This was the third day of the sessions of the United Brothers of Friendship and the Sisters of the Mysterious Ten. It was one of the busiest days of the conventions have put in, as there is much of importance to be transacted by both branches before the sessions are brought to a close on Saturday. Election of officers was the chief business of the day.

Tomorrow will see only a short business session in the morning. At 10:30 o'clock, the big parade which will move up Main street, is scheduled. In the afternoon there will be speaking and music at Rand park, with a barbecue at noon. So that Friday will be the biggest day of the entire week. Tomorrow evening competitive drills, and installation of officers will be features of the evening program which will wind up with a big dance.

The delegates to the convention are pleased at the manner in which they are being received in Keokuk. They say they are having an excellent time here, and that wherever they go, they are gaining the reputation of being one of the most orderly conventions.

Last evening a very interesting program was held at Gibbons hall, and the musical numbers were especially enjoyable. The rain did not keep many of the delegates from attending the festivities. A dance given at the Hawkeye hall, attracted many of the younger delegates.

Tandy, an Interesting Figure.

There are many interesting figures in the convention, but Captain C. J. Tandy of St. Louis, is one of the men in whom Keokuk should feel an unusual amount of interest. Captain Tandy was one of General Noble's men, and his fervent statement: "I loved General Noble to his grave. There was no finer man than he," is echoed in the hearts of the few survivors in Keokuk of General Noble's soldier boys. Captain Tandy was a captain in the union army in the war of the rebellion, he has held official federal positions under General Noble, President Grant, and others, and is now in official life in St. Louis. He is very active, and is a most interesting and entertaining talker. Aus Hollowell, who is probably one of the best known of General Noble's men, met Captain Tandy in the hall of the court house this morning. Their hands clasped, and they each echoed the phrase: "He was the best man who ever lived."

Was Born Free Man.

Captain Tandy said he was born free, in conversation with a Gate City reporter. He enlisted when the war broke out and was made a captain of Company B of the Missouri National Guards. Later he served in the Thirtieth infantry. After the war was over, he was made a special land agent of the government, serving this time in peace, under General Noble. He was sent first to New Mexico and then to Oklahoma.

When General Grant passed through St. Louis on his way to Washington, Captain Tandy went to see him. Grant left an assemblage of 200 people to have a chat with the famous old colored man, in the parlor of the Benton home at St. Louis.

"General Grant told me," says Captain Tandy in recalling the incident, "that I should watch and when he got to Washington, I should remind him of the conversation. I did so, and when he arrived there I wrote him three lines. The result was my appointment as the first negro to be given a federal position in Missouri."

Serves in Many Ways.

Captain Tandy has served as collector of customs, United States marshal, and numerous other offices. He is now connected with the office of the circuit court clerk in the record department. He was a figure in the famous Missouri constitutional fight in the 70's.

"I have my commissions to show any one, too," said the old captain. "I tell my people it's one thing to talk a lot and another to be able to show the evidence. I've got the evidence." Any of the old soldiers, especially any of General Noble's command-

LINE OF PARADE TOMORROW The line of parade for the grand lodge of the United Brothers of Friendship and the Sisters of the Mysterious Ten, will be as follows: Hour of formation—10:30. Start at Fifth and Concert streets in front of Lee county court house. March down Fifth to Main, wheeling on Main street to Sixth; down Sixth to Johnson, and down Johnson to Second street. From Second and Johnson, march north to Main and out Main to Fourteenth; up Fourteenth to Blondeau, and out Blondeau to Fifteenth, and out Fifteenth to Rand park.

would be welcomed by Captain Tandy, if they care to meet him at the county court house. Mr. Hollowell is planning to get some of the old guard out to meet the distinguished visitor. Captain Tandy is a man of medium height, and has a gray beard. He is active, and says he is getting around famously.

Brilliant Young Attorney.

One of the brilliant younger men of the order who is attending the sessions is C. H. Calloway of Kansas City, Mo., an attorney at law, and the general attorney for the order. Mr. Calloway responded to the address of welcome by Mayor Moorhead on Tuesday afternoon, instead of Dr. Caston, who was made the presiding officer and turned the honor of responding over to Mr. Calloway.

Program for Tomorrow.

The two lodges plan to meet in business session at 9 o'clock, and at 10:30 o'clock a big parade will be held. A band from Hannibal will head the parade. At Rand park there will be a big barbecue, and in the afternoon the following are scheduled to speak: Grand Master Dr. J. T. Caston, Capt. Tandy, Prof. Hubbard, Edw. Hudson, Prof. Bruce, Attorney Calloway, Prof. Williams, Grand Princess Ida Garnett, Assistant Princess Katie Fields.

Competitive drill teams from St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Hannibal, Springfield, Joplin and Sedalia will put on work in the evening.

Reunion of Brothers.

David James of this city, and Professor W. R. Anderson of Montgomery City, Mo., met for the first time in forty years here Monday. They are brothers, and for two score years have not seen one another. Davy did not recognize his brother, but Professor Anderson remembered his brother, and it was not long before the identity was established.

Professor Anderson is older than the local man, and Mr. James says that when he saw him last he walked with erect carriage, now he is stooped and gray. He was consequently surprised to have a man say: "Is this you, Davy?" and to find that it was his brother. They last met at Quincy.

Voting for the Officers.

Balloting for the officers of the United Brothers of Friendship and the Sisters of the Mysterious Ten, was begun this afternoon. The balloting is done by means of the Australian system and involves considerable red tape. The nominations are all presented to a committee which has the names printed on an Australian ballot. The accredited delegates then vote their choice. In case of tie the vote is sent back to the delegates for their further consideration.

The results of the ballot will not be known until some time this afternoon, probably late, according to the officers of both orders.

Rivals for Next Meeting.

Columbia and St. Louis in Missouri, and Omaha, Neb., are the rivals for the 1915 convention of the U. B. F. and S. M. T. Omaha is making a tremendous bid for the next session, but St. Louis and Columbia are not going to be outdone in their bidding for the meeting. In the minds of many of the delegates the fight has resolved itself into one between the two Missouri cities.

How the Order Grew.

The United Brothers of Friendship, like all big institutions, had a small beginning. There were five pioneers of the order, and the early endowments were about $50. The endowments this year are something like $52,000, and the U. B. F. own their own orphan's home at Hannibal, and a big printing establishment at Sedalia. C. G. Williams is superintendent of the Searchlight Publishing company. The pioneers of the organization include Dr. T. H. Phillips of Keokuk, and Dr. J. H. Williams and Messrs. Tandy, Foster and Pettigrew. The personal friendship the members have for Dr. Phillips was a strong drawing card in bringing the convention here, said Dr. J. H. Williams, this afternoon in speaking of the growth of the organization, and of the work of the various pioneers.

Change in Constitution. At the session held at the district court room this morning the committee on the revised constitution made a part of its report. The committee, appointed a year ago, is changing the constitution of the order so that it will conform with the new laws of the state of Missouri regarding insurance. The order is incorporated in the state of Missouri.

The juvenile department of the order is being enlarged under the revised constitution and will be pushed much more strongly in the future. This department is for children and youths between the ages of 3 and 18. The committee on returns made its report today, showing the membership of the order has reached 20,000. This is an increase of 2,609 over that of last year, indicating a very healthy growth.

Nominations for the election of officers was on the schedule of work to be done this afternoon. The nominations will be made this afternoon and the election held either this evening at 8 o'clock or in the morning. The election is by the Australian ballot system and the election cannot be held until the tickets have been printed, a fact which accounts for the uncertainty of the time the election is to be held.

It was said by those in a position to know that Grand Master J. T. Caston would have no opposition for re-election and that another term for the popular head of the order was a certainty. There is quite a contest on between S. T. Pettigrew, one of the founders of the order, and J. W. Daniel, for the office of grand secretary. B. K. Bruce is said to have no opposition for re-election as grand treasurer. There is little opposition anticipated for the re-election of the officers of the board of managers. Some warm contests, however, are anticipated for the other offices to be named.

Convention Notes

J. Goins of Jefferson City, Mo., who is a pastor of the colored Baptist church in that city and editor of the Western Messenger, is here.

The convention delegates are pinning bouquets on themselves as being the champion rain bringers. They say they are responsible for the shower which came yesterday. One of the delegates from Missouri says that the colored old settlers in his town always bring rain whenever they meet, and that they have transferred some of their luck here.

The Searchlight from Sedalia, the official organ of the U. B. F. lodge, was being distributed among the delegates today. The paper is published by C. G. Williams and is a very creditable sheet.

Preparations for the big parade tomorrow are being completed. The Hannibal band will be here with a big delegation. A ball game between Hannibal and Keokuk will be played in the afternoon.

Alex Slater, of Jefferson City, Mo., gave a stag dinner in honor of Grand Master Caston at noon today. The dinner was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Draine, 1514 Blondeau street. An excellent repast was served. Those present were: Dr. J. T. Caston, A. W. Lloyd, George Slater, Duke Dicks, C. O. Dr. R. L. Hill, Dr. G. W. Brown, C. H. Brown, Dr. O. C. Queen, B. K. Bruce, W. S. Willibut and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Draine.

C. R. Foster of St. Louis, who was the seventh grand master of the order, serving during the year 1878-79, is one of the distinguished visitors present. Mr. Foster recalled today that when he was the grand master there were but twelve lodges, while at present there are 800. He also said that the first endowment ever paid was $12.00.

Captain C. H. Tandy is the only charter member present at the convention.

FUNERAL RECORD

William H. Kilroy. The funeral of William H. Kilroy was held at the residence, 319 Morgan street, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Rev. Ernest of St. Paul's German Evangelical church conducting the services in the presence of a large attendance of friends. The obsequies were under the auspices of Keokuk lodge, I. O. O. F. The pallbearers were Frank Wahlgren, T. S. Fraser, Jacob Schouten, John Engelhardt, Ed. S. Lofton and George Radasch.

Harvest Home Coming Picnic.

As the time for this picnic draws near the greater is the enthusiasm as all of the members, both young and old of Trinity M. E. Sunday school are anticipating a great time. This is to be an old time picnic, it seems, with games and various sports for all ages—from the primary department to the bible classes—the girls as well as the boys are to enter into the games and contests for the prizes. The primary department under the direction of Miss Anna Ritter who has this in charge is going to prove of great interest as it always does when it enters into any undertaking. The military maneuvers of the soldier boys and the contests in the drills will no doubt create much amusement while the drum corps will score a great hit. The singing by the little folks will be of interest, too; also the peanut scramble and peanut hunt will prove very interesting as well as amusing for them.

Each child of the Sunday school will get a treat at the picnic and it was unanimously decided last Sunday that any boy or girl under sixteen would be a child at the picnic. The other committees are busy with their part of the program and do not propose to permit the little people to have all the honors or fun. It is the desire of the teachers and the committees to have every member of the Sunday school and the parents in Kilbourne park sometime during the afternoon, if not all the afternoon as it is their purpose to make this day, August 27, to be one long remembered for the good fellowship existing.
