

WATER MAIN EXTENSION ON M'KINLEY AVENUE HALTED

Improvement of New Additions to City May be Impaired by Decision of Company Head.

NO MARKET FOR BONDS

Commissioner Collins Writes President of Company Urging That He Order Extensions.

The decision, recently made known to the city council, of President Hoffmaster of the Keokuk Water Works company, not to make the extension of water mains into the McKinley avenue district as agreed to early this spring, was today objected to by Commissioner J. A. M. Collins in a letter addressed to Mr. Hoffmaster.

In announcing his decision Mr. Hoffmaster stated that it would be impossible to make the extension at this time on account of the financial conditions in the east, resulting from the European war. He said that bonds for the improvement, which would cost about $2,300, could not be sold in the east, although he suggested that a market for a part of the bonds might be found in Keokuk.

Several Parties to Agreement.

Early this spring an agreement was made between property owners in the McKinley avenue district, the city officials, the water works company, and the Keokuk Electric company, in which each party agreed to make certain improvements that would complete the development of this district. Under the terms of that contract the water works company agreed to put in the water mains as far as Belknap place.

The property owners are complying with the terms of their contract by the construction of a number of houses, while the city already has spent about $6,600 in improving the streets by grading. At present the city is engaged in grading Palean street which they expect to complete within a week or ten days.

Car Line Extension.

The Keokuk Electric company has already placed rails, ties, etc., on the ground for the extension of the car line and at present expects to start active work on the extension as soon as the city can complete the grading of Palean street.

Whether or not a suspension of work by all parties to the agreement will result if the water works fails to live up to the terms of its agreement is a matter of conjecture. Commissioner Collins stated today that he was sure the extension of the water mains would be made and that the work would be completed. Under certain conditions the city can force the water works company to make the extension if such action is deemed advisable, it is understood.

Commissioner Collins' Letter.

The following is Commissioner Collins' letter to President Hoffmaster, of the water works company:

Mr. G. E. Hoffmaster,
President Keokuk Water Works Company.

Dear Sir:

Your Mr. Juengst has this day informed me of your inability to comply with our request of late date for the laying of your water mains on McKinley avenue to Belknap place.

You cannot imagine what a great disappointment and hardship this will be to those who have and are constructing houses in these two additions, nor can we easily estimate the financial loss to the city by such action.

This item, while it will be considerable, is not of as much importance just at present as the inextricable confusion in which it will involve our tax accounts with the county and state.

Before adopting the commission form of government the city made its own assessment and levee and collected at our own counters all moneys due. Now we are working under the incorporation law of the state and this is done through the county officers, and we are required to certify to them our needs for the different departments during the year, and we are limited in our expenditure to the amount so certified to.

Our water boundaries for taxation have already been fixed in conformity to this anticipated improvement being perfected before December 31, 1914. Should it not be completed by that time or before the tax is paid, the county will be compelled to collect for something the tax payers have not received, and we, the city, will be compelled to refund a like amount in each individual case on more than four hundred separate pieces of property. Just imagine the confusion taking place in our own office with hundreds of irate tax payers.

Bad as such a mix up would be, it would only entail trouble without financial loss, but if we are forced to re-adjust our tax boundaries in accordance with your decision not to do this work at this time but should decide to do so early in the spring our opportunity to assess this real estate for water purposes has passed and we have no recourse on the property for another year to reimburse us for an expenditure during the interim for fire hydrants.

Another Location.

This argument applies with equal force to the extension we purpose ordering on Fourteenth street from Ridge to Charles street (two squares). We must kindly insist that we be saved from all this trouble and loss to ourselves and the great inconvenience and distress it will entail on our constituents. They are looking to us for relief from their present trouble which will be multiplied many times over if they are forced to do without water during the winter months.

Please reconsider the matter in the light of the above statement of facts and order the pipes for this work and for 732 feet on Fourteenth street where we know you will have ten or more new customers. While we did contemplate ordering considerable new work for Reid's addition, yet most of the property, while not served by you, is never-the-less within the thousand feet fire limits and is now paying taxes. Therefore this improvement can be done at your convenience.

While the reasons above enumerated are certainly sufficient to cause you to make this improvement without further delay, they form but one side of a triangle of trouble and disappointment for the people involved, as well as the Keokuk Electric and Gas company and the street railway company, and the city. The building of the railway and the laying of gas mains is dependent on your laying the water mains, while all of these depended on the city and property owners putting in a sufficient storm and sanitary sewer system to accommodate the present and all future needs of these new additions. The city has performed her part at a cost of about $6,600, while the owners of these two tracts of land which you are to serve have expended about half as much. I trust you will consider your obligations to all the parties interested as imperative, and at once notify us of your intention to do the work. A reply at once will be appreciated as a levy must be made in a few days.

Yours truly,
J. A. M. COLLINS,
Commissioner.

ed practically its whole army to eventually strike France. It was said, however, that the allies have not yet been forced out of Belgium and that there will be considerable fighting in Belgian territory before German troops cross the Belgian-France frontier.

One reason the allies were not victorious in the first great conflict in Belgium, embassy officials said, was because France and England never thought any nation would violate the neutrality of Belgium.

Some time ago when France feared Germany might disregard this neutrality treaty, France began to fortify cities and towns along the Belgian border. So far the work has progressed extensively only in one city—Mauveuge, France.

LOSSES ARE APPALLING.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Admission by the war office that Namur has fallen has ended all hopes in England for a speedy conclusion of the war. It is now accepted that England will be compelled to send every available man, both from the British Isles and the colonies if the German invasion of France is to be checked. It is believed additional troops are already being sent forward as the transports were being outfitted for service yesterday. All of the London and the leading provincial newspapers are demanding the government explain the fall of Namur. They point out that it had been regarded as far stronger than Liege which is still claimed to be holding out. The officials at the war office, however, will not discuss it, saying it was held as long as possible and then the allied army fell back to the cover of the second defense line.

It is admitted that the British casualties to date are enormous, although no statement of the exact number is forthcoming. The total losses in both armies to date are declared to be appalling and officials say that when the figures are actually revealed they will "startle the world."

Discussing the fall of Namur, the military experts of the London newspapers profess to be mystified at its loss.

"It was one of the explicable events that makes the war a gamble," says the Times expert. It was defended by works stronger than those at Liege and had a far stronger garrison. Possession of Namur was as vital for Germany as for the allies and it was a fine stroke for the Germans to have rushed the place under the eyes of the allies. The retreat from the Sambre implies a retreat from the Meuse and an open door for the advance of the German army corps which has been marched to Bastogne and the south.

Many of the military experts suggest the French may have been overconfident. They think that, misled by the success of the early Belgian operations, some of the French corps commanders were too eager and advanced their lines too fast and without covering their positions. This is believed certain to have been the case in Lorraine, where the French apparently rushed pell mell into a carefully baited trap.

Reports persist that Nancy has actually been taken by the Germans and that they are now present in overwhelming force in the department of Meurthe Et Moselle. The war office claims it has no information to make public along this line.

NAMUR HAS FALLEN

PARIS, Aug. 25.—Driven to their own fortifications, the French and British armies were today strictly on the defensive. Against their lines the great tidal wave of Germans beat with tremendous force. Fresh columns of German troops have been rushed through to the attack while the regiments that carried the day yesterday have been withdrawn to rest and to refill their shattered columns. The German assault was admitted as tremendous today as on Saturday when the first great battle began.

Namur has fallen. The great fortress depended on to hold out for weeks, collapsed in three days. The German line, outspread like a giant fan, has enveloped the entire Belgian-French, German-French frontiers. Against the gap in the chain of fortresses, thousands of Germans are being hurled. The French and English, hidden in hastily constructed entrenchments are striving with desperation to hold their lines. The war office says they will hold. But it made the same promise about Namur and there is grave apprehension that at last the Germans are going to break through and that a real invasion of France is threatened.

The official bulletins issued today contain no informative details of the situation. The present position is said to be the secondary defense. But the strongest position is to be faced, it is stated. The general battle continues along secondary defenses, the statement stated and the allied forces will hold this line while the Russian

GERMAN MASS MOVEMENT.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Advice from the front today indicate that the German mass movement is moving straight south and southwest with the fighting continuing and the allies entrenched and on the defensive. The main strength of the army of the Moselle is operating in the neighborhood of Longwy but the war office experts say every possible offensive movement has been provided for. The Germans in Meurthe Et Moselle are admittedly in great strength and well supplied with artillery.

The war office promises casualty lists as soon as they can be issued with safety. Absolutely no figures are obtainable but it is stated that the percentage of officers killed and wounded is very large. Preparations have been made to receive the wounded as soon as they can be sent here. Emergency hospitals are in readiness everywhere. In addition many physicians have been sent across the channel to aid the French doctors in caring for the wounded.

STILL IN PROGRESS.

[By William Philip Simms, United Press Staff Correspondent.]

PARIS, Aug. 25.—The censorship curtain is again interposed between the great battle now in progress along the entire frontier and the French people. It is admitted fighting is still in progress and that the allied armies are acting entirely on the defensive. They have been forced back to the second line of defense. At certain portions of the line the German assault is so heavy that a further retrogression would cause no surprise. This is especially so along the Luxembourg line from Montmedy through Longwy to Spincourt. Here the German army of the Moselle is throwing its entire strength against the French lines.

There is deep disappointment over the loss of Namur. It had been accepted as certain the lines would hold indefinitely, thus enabling the allied center to throw the German assault back. But it took only two days for the German war machine to smash the French defense. The war office does not say whether all or only a portion of the Namur forts surrendered. But the military experts say that even though a few of the forts held out, they cannot long be held as the Germans in possession of outlying forts, can easily reduce all of the others. A definite statement dealing with the Namur situation is promised soon.

The war office insists that the French positions in Alsace from Mulhausen through Aitkirch are holding firm against the Germans who have been attacking them in force since Sunday.

No statement regarding losses has been made. It is admitted they are very great, but the war office withholds details on the ground that to make them public might furnish the enemy with important information.

A BELGIAN SORTIE.

PARIS, Aug. 25.—The war office this afternoon announced that the Germans in the north had assumed the offensive and that they have been attacking the combined English and French position since daylight today. The Belgian army essayed a sortie from Antwerp to attack the German rear and, having taken the first line of the Germans by surprise, threw them back as far as Maires, thirteen miles to the southeast. The Germans, heavily reinforced have resumed the offensive there.

In Lorraine, following the counter attacks of yesterday, the French

TO PUT ON FLESH AND INCREASE WEIGHT

A Physician's Advice.

Most thin people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. It's all a matter of the nature of the food. It isn't nature's way at all.

Thin folks stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They absorb just enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a semblance of health and strength. Stuffing won't help them. A dozen meals a day won't make them gain a single "stay there" pound. All the fat-producing elements of their food just stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste. What such people need is something that will prepare these fatty food elements so that their blood can absorb them and deposit them all about the body—something, too, that will multiply their red corpuscles and increase their blood's carrying power.

For such a condition I always recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe, a patented drug, but is a scientific combination of six of the most effective and powerful flesh building elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless, yet wonderfully effective and a single tablet eaten with each meal often has the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by Wilkinson & Co., and other good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.

ATTACK ANTWERP WITH AIRSHIP

ers of Hemixem got into action that a hit was scored. A shell from the fort penetrated the entire envelope of the dirigible and it fluttered to earth suddenly, entirely out of commission. Belgian soldiers were in waiting and as the crew of the airship tumbled out, they were quickly captured.

"The noise of the cannonading gave the alarm in the city. Hundreds of people rushed into the streets completely panic stricken. The whirr of the motor was easily discernable to those in the streets and many women fainted. The Zeppelin headed for the palace grounds and as soon as it got directly over head, the dropping of bombs began. The dirigible was compelled to remain at a high altitude that it was impossible for the crew to get the range of the palace although three or eight bombs dropped, exploded near the building. Two buildings were completely wrecked and a number of others including a hospital were badly damaged. Seven persons were killed and six wounded.
