INDIANS LOSE TO RED SOX 5 TO 3

Bill Whittaker on Mound for Tribe in His Last Game in the Central Association.

ERRORS LOST THE GAME

Bierman, Burg and Miller Do Hurling for Burlington—Singleton Placed Ball Over Screen.

[Special to The Gate City.]

BURLINGTON, Ia., Sept. 2.—It took just thirteen of the Red Sox to whip the Keokuk Indians into submission here yesterday but they did it so what matters the number of men it took or the strenuous efforts of those who were engaged in the warfare. Bill Whittaker was on the mound for Sweet in his last Central association game of the season. He leaves tonight for Utica in the New York State league and should have very little trouble making good there. He is a great pitcher and the lost game yesterday was not due so much to his pitching as to his comrade's errors. For example the two runs that won the contest for the locals in the eighth were made off one lonesome hit. The two in the third came over in the same manner. The difference being that in the third John Singleton ran the ball over the left field fence. The two men, Whittaker and Singleton had been "kidding" each other during the game and when John came to bat he told Bill to groove one and he would be knocked off the mound. Bill declared that he didn't think it could be done and so saying he laid one in the rut. John did not knock Bill from the mound but did put the ball over the fence for a home run, a place much more pleasing for the local fans. Bierman started the game for the Manushers and during his tour of slab duty, which lasted a trifle more than six innings, allowed only four bingles. He was setting wild, however, and the local boss did the right thing by pulling him and giving Burg a chance. Burg started by walking one man and filled the sacks, there were two on when he took charge, and then striking out the next two men and ending the session for the Indians. Miller made an even better record. Manush had put himself in to hit for Burg in the eighth and Miller was sent to the slab in the ninth. Rowdy had all his stuff and was faced by three men, only. He whiffed them as fast as they came up and did it so easily that it seemed no effort. There is of course a good alibi for the Indians. The storm was threatening to break every minute and the day was the darkest a base ball game has been played for some time. Miller used nothing but his fast ball. The contest was a good one and should prove a good draw for the big bill today. The score:

School Boys of 1950 Will Have To Learn of Two Napoleons Now

[Written for the United Press.]
CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 2.—Ball-players will come and go—thousands of them—and the world will forget most of them as quickly as their names cease to appear in the box scores, but the names of two players who are about to pass out of the sport as active participants will live as long as the national pastime itself. The names of Napoleon Lajoie, famous Cleveland second baseman, and Hans Wagner, equally famous Pittsburgh shortstop, have been written in letters of fire on the walls of baseball's hall of fame. After nearly twenty years these Lancelots of the diamond are slowing up and soon must give way to younger men.

Started on Back Lots.
Napoleon Lajoie first gained fame on the lots of Woonsocket, R. I. His fielding and hitting ability excited the admiration of a scout of the Fall River, Mass., team who happened along one day. Lajoie signed a Fall River contract and proceeded immediately to make good. Billy Nash, Philadelphia National league manager saw the young Frenchman perform one August day and purchased his release. He was assigned to first base and played the position amazingly well. His batting for the first year in fast company was .328.

Previously Lajoie had been a hack driver. In one year the Rhode Island hack-driver rose from obscurity to fame. Lajoie was shifted from first base to second, where his fielding was so spectacular that he soon became known as the king of second basemen. His graceful and apparently careless manner of fielding the ball, caused him to be acknowledged the most finished fielder the game had ever known.

Jumped to American League.
In 1901 Lajoie jumped from the Philadelphia Nationals to the Athletics and was transferred to Cleveland in 1902. He led the National league in batting in his last year with that organization with a mark of .422. He led the American league in his first year with .376. In 1904 he

ENGLISH SUITS ARE FAVORED THIS FALL

Men's Clothes Will be Form Fitting Much the Same as in Spring.
Men's suits this fall will be more English than ever. At any rate they will be form fitting, with the short waisted, narrow shouldered appearance of the spring, with the main acquisition of wider lapels which by decreasing the space between the shoulders and the lapels will make the shoulders appear narrower than ever. This is the principal difference between the spring and fall cut.
The English suit will be worn almost entirely by young men; a more conservative cut being made for older men. The coats are to be close fitting and the trousers tight and minus all peg effect. The general idea is to make the wearer appear to be sprouting out of the suit—as though he was almost outgrowing it.
This cut is especially adaptable to a tall slender figure where the effect is marked. Patch pockets will be in vogue and vests worn entirely by the correct dresser. This is the last word in dressing according to local tail-

ADDRESS MUST BE ON POSTAL CARDS

Service Has Been Seriously Handicapped by Failure of People to Write Out Street and Number.

MAKE NO EXCEPTION

Order Must be Complied With—Postoffice Department Gets Many Requests for Mail Boxes.

By a ruling of the postoffice department, dated April 27, 1914, all return cards printed on envelopes purchased of the government by users thereof in city delivery cities must bear the street and number or postoffice box number of the purchaser; or the room number of the building if he is located in an office building and such building is sufficiently well known to be listed in the city directory—otherwise the street and number of the building must be given. The reason given by the department for this ruling is that "the great increase of indefinite addressing has become a source of serious embarrassment to the postal service and affects the efficiency of the service to the public."

The department also advises postmasters that "no exception is made in favor of prominent purchasers; the only exception being the case of purchasers having no street address or postoffice box number." This order was issued primarily to promote the efficiency of the postal service, a matter of great importance, especially to business men. When this view of the matter is brought to their notice it is not to be doubted that purchasers of special request envelopes will concur in the ruling.

The following communication has been received here in reference to additional mailing boxes: "Office of the fourth assistant postmaster general, Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—In view of the fact that the department will not be in a position to make deliveries on any more letter boxes or posts within sixty days, postmasters are requested to postpone further requests for these articles, as all requisitions on file will be filled as soon as possible. (Signed) James I. Blakeslee, "Fourth Asst. P. M. Gen." The above notice has been received by all postmasters in city delivery offices throughout the country.

PRESIDENT WILSON BACK AT CAPITAL

Will Deliver War Tax Message to Congress Within the Next Two Days.

[United Press Leased Wire Service.] WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Much refreshed by his week end vacation at Cornish, N. H., President Wilson returned here at 9:40 this morning. Upon the return of President Wilson, a score of important "war emergency" matters awaited his attention. On his desk awaiting his signature was the war risk insurance bill. Opening of the federal insurance bureau immediately is planned by the secretary of the treasury. How soon he will deliver a special message to congress asking a war revenue tax bill was another question before the president. It is believed the message will go in next week. Whether the government's $30,000,000 ship purchase bill shall be immediately pressed was another problem awaiting decision. Requests for federal troops in Montana in readiness for threatening out-breaks at Butte in the miners union quarrel were also before the president. A white house proclamation suspending drastic navigation regulations temporarily to induce American registry of ships was also expected in a few days.

The War Tax.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Within the next two days President Wilson will deliver to congress personally a message calling for a war tax to increase the country's falling revenues. He arranged today to call together the house and senate leaders previous to sending in the message. About $100,000,000 will be required.

KEOKUK CLIMATE IS CONTINENTAL

Not Being Affected by Great Body of Water City is Subject to Decided Changes.

Did you ever stop to consider the climate of Keokuk? Keokuk enjoys what is known as a continental climate, which means that not being affected by a great body of water, the city is subject to extremes. In the summer it is comparatively hot and in the winter comparatively cold. Again, in a continental climate like this there may be sudden rises and drops in the temperature in a single day. This is not true in marine climates

What's ahead?

Another car may be approaching on the wrong side of the road—a hay-wagon may be blocking the way. You don't know. You can't see. Klaxon. Tell the other fellow you're coming. He can hear you even if he is a half mile away. The Klaxon note carries—through culverts, around curves, over hills. It means danger. No one can mistake it. No matter where you are—whether in the country or in the noisy streets of the city—you get instant attention and a clear road. The Klaxon is entirely different from ordinary "electric horns." No other signal can produce the Klaxon note. Every Klaxon is built for permanent service—and guaranteed permanently. Unless you have driven behind a Klaxon you cannot appreciate the difference it makes in the safety and comfort of motoring.

There is a Klaxon for every size and type of car. The Klaxon $35, the Klaxonet $20, the Klaxet $12, the Hand Klaxon $10 where the temperature is influenced by a great body of water like an ocean or Lake Michigan. Here the body of water is slower to heat and, once heated, is slower to cool. The Mississippi river is not regarded as a body of water that will affect the climate. On a map of the United States with a well regulated scale of miles to the inch, the "Father of Waters" would be represented by a microscopic line. On the eastern shore of Lake Michigan there is a marine climate, where there are no sudden changes in the temperature. It is a great peach growing country. On the west shore of the lake is a continental climate and the growing of peaches is unsuccessful there. A typical continental climate in the middle west is that of Miles City, Montana, where the mercury has fallen as low as 65 degrees in the winter and risen to 110 degrees in the summer. Siberia is another good example. Last winter Keokuk enjoyed fairly mild weather; this summer it has been hotter than an average summer. Feel languid, weak, run-down? Headache?
