

The Perfectly Dressed Woman

The perfectly dressed woman doesn't always create the greatest interest in herself—but it's a pretty keen satisfaction she has every minute in knowing that she is perfectly gowned

Our stock of Redfern garments permits of a sufficiently great latitude in selection of style and color to give every buyer individuality in her dress. We have a display that insures you the suit or coat YOU want, if you come while the stock is complete. But of course we can't promise how long it will be complete.

You will be delighted with our showing of millinery, silk and wash waists and dresses for women, misses and children.

BIG DOLL PARADE AND PRIZE CONTEST

TO BE STAGED BY DUNCAN-SHELL NEXT SATURDAY.

3 SPLENDID PRIZES

EVERY GIRL SHOULD ENTER HER FAVORITE DOLL.

Impartial Judges to Decide Which Dolls Are the Neatest Dressed and Most Unique.

Any girl may enter her doll in the big doll parade and prize contest to be held in the Duncan-Schell store next Saturday, October 24. The first prize will be a large $10 doll or choice of any doll in our store and will be awarded the girl who has the neatest and most unique doll and doll buggy. If competing for first prize the doll must be in a doll go-cart or buggy and must sit or lie in the buggy during the parade.

The second and third prizes will be given for the neatest and most unique dolls, but to compete for these prizes the dolls need not be in doll buggies. The second prize will be choice of any doll selling for $5.00 or less in our store. The third prize will be choice of any doll selling for $3.00 or less in our store. Mrs. Charles Pond and Mrs. John W. Rovane have kindly consented to act as judges of the parade which will start in our store at 3:30 in the afternoon.

Dolls need not be expensive nor elaborate to compete in this big Duncan-Schell contest, as the prizes will be awarded for the most unique and neatest dolls and not because the doll or its clothes cost a large amount of money. The girl with the inexpensive doll has as equal a chance as the girl with the very expensive doll. All girls should enter and we hope that all will wish to make this the biggest doll event Keokuk has ever seen. Children entering this contest need not live in Keokuk, but may live in Hamilton, Warsaw or any other locality. No one girl can receive more than one prize.

From now until the contest (October 24th) Duncan-Schell will have a large doll and doll cart sale. The dolls we carry all have kid bodies and our assortment allows everybody to select the dolls they particularly like. Our stock of doll heads, doll shoes, doll hats, doll wigs and doll furs make it easy to repair or dress a doll for the contest. We will have a large doll display in one of our show windows and there you may see the splendid dolls that are to be given absolutely free as prizes.—Advertisement.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary.

Fifty years of married life is the record of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas McKenzie of 206 North Seventh street and all those years have been followed along paths of gladness and peace. Yesterday was the fiftieth anniversary of the day on which the sacred services were read which united them in holy bonds to remain unbroken until death ruthlessly snaps the golden chain.

Something more than sixteen years previous to this date, Mr. McKenzie came to this vicinity and continued his residence here since. He was a river man early in residence here, and was careful and intelligent in that field of industries, always prompt and energetic in the discharge of his duty.

On the 17th of October, 1864, occurred the marriage of Nicholas McKenzie and Miss Grace McCaffrey, a most worthy and popular young lady who has proven a gracious and affectionate helpmate to him, while he has been faithful and true as a devoted husband. They form a couple traveling along life's pathway which it is pleasant to see, each devoted to the other's comfort and happiness and as tender and considerate of each other as in the earlier days. They are a model couple and have hosts of friends in Keokuk where they are held in the highest respect. They have a large circle of friends here and the names of Mr. and Mrs. "Nick" McKenzie form a synonym for the heads of a happy and affectionate household. They have several sons and daughters who show their proper regard by the respect and homage they pay to their father and mother.

On retiring from active steamboat river life, Mr. McKenzie engaged in a responsible position with the United States government at the old canal here, which occupation he entered upon in 1877 and continued therein up to July of the present year, a period of thirty-seven years and all those years he gave faithful service, a record for length of duty that is worthy of being proud of. Under the new arrangement since the building of the dam, Mr. McKenzie might have continued in the government service, but he felt that age was creeping on and that his health demanded retirement, and rest. He has a pretty and comfortable home and there he abides in the midst of the members of his family, remaining at home buoyed up and strengthened by the happy consciousness of a life well spent and of duties faithfully performed. Most of his children have married and left the parental home, yet look back with fond affection for father and mother and happy recollections of the joyous hours spent in their childhood's home, sweet home.

An important event in the life of Mr. McKenzie's life, the war period was omitted in the regular order. When the clouds were rising, he was engaged in the government work here under Major Floyd who was in charge. He had been at this occupation about four years, and when the war actually began he enlisted in Company A, Second Iowa Infantry, and witnessed the surrender of Fort Donelson, by General Simon Bullivar Buckner, after General Floyd, a brother of Major Floyd, had made his memorable escape with other generals in command, leaving General Buckner with a much reduced force to either fight or take the consequences. Buckner could have escaped but declared he would surrender with his men, and he did.

The affair in celebration of the event was a quiet family reunion with no attempt at display and no formal invitations. A number of the children were present, who are residents of Keokuk. Captain Hugh McKenzie, his son, well known and popular in river circles, came to Keokuk to be present, and others will be here this afternoon or evening.

The home was a bower of pretty flowers, many sent in by friends, smiling from parlor to dining room. About noon those present sat down to a sumptuous and daintily prepared board. One of the features of the table was a very handsome cake, bearing fifty tapers, the number of years the happy couple have been wedded. This was prepared and sent by a friend.

Many messages of congratulation were received during the day, each one being highly appreciated by the recipients.

It was an epoch in the lives of this popular couple and Keokuk citizens will be pleased to know that an occasion which was intended to be recognized in a quiet way by the family, proved to be an event so elaborate and pleasing for they know in their hearts that Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie deserved all the attention and kind consideration showered upon them by their many friends on their golden wedding day.

A Wonderful Spring

WE never saw anything just like the "Way" Sagless Spring. It has many of the qualities of the most expensive box spring but sells at the price of an ordinary article.

It never sags or bags. It never doubles you up like a jack-knife. It never bumps you on the bed slats. It never rolls the occupants toward the center of the bed. It never creaks, and groans, and rattles when you turn over.

It is unbreakable as well as un-sag-gable. It will last a lifetime with ordinary care. There are no open links to come unhooked or tear the bedding. It is a most economical proposition too.

To prove all this we will send one to your home for 30 nights free trial. The Manufacturer's guarantee, as well as ours, gives you absolute protection. If it sags within 25 years the Manufacturers agree to furnish a new fabric free.

Price only $8.00

Think of it—more than nine thousand nights of luxurious ease guaranteed. No risk—no worry—no expense—it's all comfort. The very first time you go shopping, drop in and we will tell you more about it.

HENWOOD GLAD FOR SAVED NECK
Has Been Haunted for Months With Fear of Death on the Gallows.

[United Press Leased Wire Service.] DENVER, Colo., Oct. 17.—The commutation of sentence to life imprisonment by Governor E. M. Ammons, was the one thing that saved the reason of Harold F. Henwood, was the statement made by Henwood himself tonight, on the eve of his departure for the pen at Canon City, to begin his term for the murder of Sylvester L. Von Phul and George E. Copeland.

"For the past fifteen months I have been dead," he said. "I have been just as dead as I could be on any gallows, except for the haunting fear by day and night that I was to pay the penalty with a black cap over my head. I have been mad at times and in my lucid moments, I have often questioned whether I was not wholly mad at all times.

"I have lived in hell for fifteen months—the hell of doubt, of uncertainty, of waiting. But today I can see the light and I know how to live. I have learned that I love life. I am a nervous wreck, a walking shadow, yet with my few remaining faculties, I cling to the body and to life. God bless Governor Ammons."
