CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach or bowels

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold, or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Y. W. C. A. NOTES;

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

A Weird, Spectacular Event, Giving Splendid Entertainment to All Who Attended.

The Halloween party given by the Young Women's Christian Association last evening, was a scene of weird enjoyment. There was every conceivable amusement appropriate to the occasion. Strange stories were told and goblin noises made which absolutely thrilled and chilled the nerves. Going to look on, that something of a report might be written of the affair, the visitor entered the association building on the floor where the office is located, and found everything as quiet as a dead mouse. Presently a human being entered, and the thrilled and chilled visitor was invited to a seat while the person asked for could be seen as she was down stairs attending the party. She came, but for the life of the king, kaiser or emperor, she appeared a living, breathing, frolicsome ghost who had been practicing the waltz, the strathspey, every antic known in dance or calisthenics, but there was no dancing, she said, and it was suspected that she might have added, that almost every other motion of which the human body is capable, were practiced amid shouts of merriment.

It was a splendid event of enlivening social interest which everybody present enjoyed with the wish that Halloween came once a week instead of once a year.

The association building from about 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock had many spectres and many were the weird sounds that issued from the gymnasium.

Many of the fifty girls who came, were masked during the early part of the evening, beyond recognition. After the masks were removed, they indulged in many mirth-provoking "stunts." Fortunes of many were told and ghost stories were recited and apples and doughnuts were in bountiful quantities served in a unique way, as refreshments. After the thrill and chill are over will be time to take a sane view of the situation. Meeting a real girl with ghost cloth on has a peculiar effect on nerves, especially when a body is sitting in a dimly lighted lobby when that girl emerges from the darkest corner and brings a surprise by approaching you. But, Oh, they had lots of fun and everybody is glad of it. The girls needed just such an enlivening tonic to add to their vim and activity. They will feel invigorated and benefited by the exercise and enjoyment they received. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." And why not apply the same rule in Jill's case, and say "All work and no play makes Jill a dull girl."

There were others present who used to be girls and they put as much energy into the play as the real girls. All present, whether girls or not, had a jolly good time, and the party may be classed among the very successful events of the season. Certainly no recent event has given more real, beneficial enjoyment than the jolly Halloween party.

Gymnasium Classes. The three children's gymnasium classes met Saturday morning with Miss Nutting, the physical director, and did some very satisfactory work under the careful and skilled tutor, who is always alert and enthusiastic in directing her work.

Sewing Class.

The children's sewing class met Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and spent a pleasant and beneficial hour.

Vesper Service.

As heretofore announced, the vesper service at 4 o'clock this evening, is to be led by Miss Grace Strickler. The subject is Living vs. Existence. Mrs. R. L. Reid will give a solo.

Geneva Club Meeting.

Monday night the Geneva club will hold its regular monthly business meeting at 7 o'clock, in the girls' club room. The meeting is important as the annual election of officers is to take place and final plans arranged for the ad party next Friday night.

Orchestra Interest.

There will be a first meeting Monday night in the Y. W. C. A. auditorium of all those interested in the invitation to join the Y. W. C. A. orchestra, for Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. members, plans for which have been arranged.

The Rubber Stamp.

Filson Young admits that it is no longer thought impolite for busy persons to send typewritten letters which may not treat of business. "But there is a piece of laziness which should not be tolerated, and that is the signing of a typewritten letter with a rubber stamp purporting to give a facsimile of the sender's handwriting. This really is to reduce what is individual in the communication to the vanishing point. There is nothing to show that your correspondent has ever seen the letter sent in his name. It is the least human of all methods of communication. For my part, I decline to answer or take any notice of a document so subscribed. It has all the dreariness, and none of the honesty, of a personal circular." Mr. Young adds: "I notice that it is the members of the Thos., Chas. and Jno. brigade who are chiefly addicted to this method."

CRAONNE—The scene of Napoleon's last victory before the end of the first empire was laid in the village of Craonne, France, in the hills a little more than half way on a straight line from Reims to Laon. The battle took place on the 7th of March, 1814, after Blucher had combined a force of 100,000 men at Laon. The emperor fell upon the advanced guard of this force at Craonne and drove it back upon Laon, where a battle took place two days later. Napoleon was here defeated and with only 30,000 at his back he was compelled to renounce all ideas of a further offensive, and he retired to Reims. The town has changed but little in 100 years, having scarcely more than 1,000 inhabitants. It overlooks the valley of the Aisne, as it threads its way through the high hills to the northwest of Reims.

TERNIER—A point of strategic importance, a little to the north of a line from Noyon to Laon, France, much coveted by reason of its location on the northern bank of the Oise and on the canal Crozat, which joins the Oise and the Somme, and principally because it is at the juncture of the double tracked railroad running to the north. From Ternier are direct lines to Noyon, Laon, Amiens, St. Quentin and many other points in the battle zone. Ternier's population of about 5,000 is interested principally in large railway workshops located there. The town is 27 miles northwest of the Craonne battlefields.

ten miles west of Laon and 17 miles east of Noyon, in the heart of one of the most densely wooded districts of that part of the country lies St. Gobain, which proudly lays claim to the distinction that it manufactures the largest mirrors in the world. No town in France is more thoroughly French, and none has suffered less from the successive Parisian earthquakes of the past century. The French government owns large tracts of land around and beyond St. Gobain; the remnant of the immense "sylvacuum" through which Agrippa opened a great Roman way connecting Rome with the British channel. The town's 4,000 inhabitants owe their well being to its glass company. One of the most curious features of St. Gobain is a subterranean lake about 1,300 square yards in area.

ANIZY—A small French town, eight miles southwest of Laon, and ten miles northeast of Soissons, which seems to have been a fortress of the Emperor Valentinian in the 4th century, and to have been pillaged by the vandals in the 5th. The revolution laid violent hands upon the town. Its buildings were demolished or defaced, its old trees were cut down and its fine old church, Ste. Genevieve, was turned into a meeting hall for the electors, who, after putting on the sacerdotal vestments, marched about the church carrying the dais, beat the crosses and carved stalls to pieces, smashed the poor-box, and stole what was worth stealing. They sold the established a saltpetre factory in the church.

VIC-SUR-SEILLE—A small town in Lorraine, 16 miles north of east of Nancy, whose principal possessions are the ruins of an old castle and some disused saltworks. The latter were abandoned when a rock salt mine was discovered at Dieuze. From Vic to the west the country is a vast unenclosed, arable plain, uninhabited, save in the towns or villages, with scarcely one hamlet or farm house on the roadside.

HERVE AND BATTICE—Two small villages in Belgium, a mile and a half apart, the latter seven miles from the German border, and the former 15 miles east of Liege. They are situated amid most picturesque scenery, in a country dotted with busy manufactories and pretty country houses. The making of glassware and laces is engaged in to a limited extent. The rock penetrated by most of the railway tunnels in this district is of a bluish limestone, frequently veined with quartz, and often used for building purposes.

ANTIVARI—A Montenegrin seaport, on a strip of country running between the Adriatic sea and the Sutoran range of mountains, with a population of about 3,500. At a few hundred yards it is invisible, hidden among olive groves. The fine bay of Antivari, with Prstan, its port, is distant about one hour's drive through a barren and forbidden country, shut in by mountains. The town is but 23 miles southeast of Austrian Cattaro. Fishing and olive oil refining are the principal industries.

SANOK—A district of Galicia, Austria, on the border of Hungary. The Carpathian mountains form the southern frontier and the San river runs through the district from south to many salt mines. Its capital of the same name, is on the left bank of the San, 30 miles southeast of Przemysl and 62 miles southwest of Tarnow. It has a population of about 2,500 and is the seat of an important cattle market.

KALISZ—On Russian Poland border in Kalisz, one of the oldest and finest cities of Poland, whose antiquity is indicated by an abundance of objects of ancient art and coins, which have been discovered on the site, as well as by numerous burial mounds existing in the vicinity. In 1706 Augustus the Strong of Poland decisively defeated the Swedes and several minor conflicts took place in 1813 and the town was the scene of the friendly meeting of the Russian and Prussian troops in 1835, in memory of which an iron obelisk was erected by Nicholas I. Kalisz is on the banks of the Proсна, which there forms the boundary of Prussia. Its population, of whom more than a third are Jews, is about 26,000. Ribbons, cloth, sugar, leather, and beer are its principal manufactures.

IVANGOROD—On the right bank of the Vistula, in Russian Poland, is the fortified town of Ivangorod, which forms with Warsaw, Novo-Georgievsk and Brest-Litovsk, the Polish "quadrilateral." It is 64 miles by rail southeast of Warsaw, at the confluence of the Wieprz with the Vistula. The town is defended by nine forts on the right bank and by three on the left bank of the Vistula. The works are about two miles in extent. The town's industries are few, its activities depending almost solely upon garrisons stationed there.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is sign you have been eating too much meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful
