SEVENTY YEARS OF AGE

Was a Former Resident of Keokuk, and a Member of Herman Lodge, I. O. O. F.

A letter has been received in Keokuk by John Eisenhuth, secretary of Herman lodge, I. O. O. F., from Evening Star lodge, at Louisiana, Mo., announcing the death of Chris W. Amfair, a former old and respected resident of Keokuk, who left here over twenty-five years ago. He was made an Odd Fellow in Keokuk and was a member in good standing of Herman lodge, I. O. O. F., at the time of his death. He will be well remembered by many Keokuk people as a man of many good traits of character and a genial friend and neighbor, and they will grieve to hear of his sudden and violent death. He was a bridge carpenter on the Burlington railroad, and was killed by being run down by a train, Saturday morning, February 12, on a bridge between Alton, Ill., and West Alton, Mo.

His remains were taken to Louisiana, Mo., and the burial took place there Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, under the auspices of Evening Star lodge, I. O. O. F. He left a son, William, and several other children, all over the age of sixteen years. He was about seventy years of age.

COUNTY CEMENT BID IS ALLOWED

Atlee Company of Fort Madison is Lowest Figurer and Net Cost to County is $1.17.

The board of supervisors in special session this morning at Fort Madison allowed the county cement bids. The Atlee company of Fort Madison was the lowest bidder, and was awarded the contract. The price quoted for Keokuk, Montrose, Donnellson and other points in the county except Fort Madison was $1.57 per barrel with an allowance of 10 cents per sack, or 40 cents per barrel. This makes the net price $1.17.

The price in Fort Madison was $1.48 per barrel, with the 40 cent discount, making the cement cost there $1.08.

What the War Moves Mean

By J. W. T. Mason, Former European Manager of the United Press.

(United Press Leased Wire Service) NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(11 a. m.)—The disaster which has overtaken the Slav forces in east Prussia has compelled a curtailment of the Russian battle front north of the Vistula and has put Warsaw in serious danger of flank and rear attacks.

The Russian movement upon Thorn, which has been swaying to and fro for a considerable time, near the German boundary, has been abandoned because of Gen. Von Baulow's Mazurian-Angerapp victory. The troops engaged in the Thorn advance, were threatened with an attack from the rear, after the Slav east Prussian defeat, and the men also were urgently needed for the northern defense of Warsaw.

This army is now doubtless being used to check the Germans at Ploesk where Petrograd reports say a German concentration is taking place. Ploesk is the nearest point to the Warsaw defenses on the north of the Vistula which Marshal Von Hindenburg has reached.

Since the beginning of the war, Marshal Von Hindenburg has persistently attempted to attack the Polish capital from both sides of the Vistula at once. In the present time he has never succeeded in developing the northern part of this double movement. This was the cause of the German retreat after the last Warsaw offensive.

Now, however, a hundred thousand Russians have been captured in East Prussia and possibly fifty thousand have been killed or wounded. This means three or four army corps have been permanently eliminated from the Slav strength between Warsaw and east Prussia.

No previous opportunity so favorable for flank and rear attacks on Warsaw has occurred since the war began. The condition of the roads, however, with thaws now beginning, will be valuable aids to the Russians in holding off Von Hindenburg until a Slav reorganization can be completed. Von Hindenburg strategy and Polish mud now grapple for one of the greatest struggles of the war.

SOCIETY

FATHER.

He was not the kind of a father that you read about in books; He wasn't long on language, and he wasn't strong on looks; He was not the sort of father that you hear about in plays; He was just a human father with a human father's ways.

No, he never balked at workin', but when he was through it once Right down to the grass was father, with the children, doing stunts. All of us could pile upon him, and he'd welcome all the pack. But I'm wondering after play time did we stay there—on his back.

Wasn't strong on dissipation; said his "gambl on the green"

Was to pluck faster than the kids could lick it clean. And the next best game he knew of was an equal one to beat. It was keeping leather covers up to the supply of feet.

JUSTICE TO ATTEND KAVANAUGH FUNERAL

Will Represent National Board at Funeral of Late Southern Association President.

M. E. Justice left here at noon today for Little Rock, Arkansas, where he will attend the funeral of Judge Kavanaugh who died there suddenly Sunday. He was, at the time of his death, president of the Southern association. He and Mr. Justice had been close friends for a number of years and had worked together constantly for the advancement of the national sport.

JURY TRIAL IS COMMENCED TODAY

Case is That of Louise B. Field vs. Sophia Konzen—Two New Actions are Filed.

The case of Louise B. Field vs. Sophia Konzen was taken up in the district court this afternoon when court reconvened after the holiday recess. The securing of a jury occupied the early part of the afternoon. Attorney Ballinger for the defendant challenged J. W. Glasford, claiming that Glasford was defendant in a suit which he claimed was pending in which Ballinger was the prosecuting attorney. Attorney McCoid for the plaintiff resisted the challenge, but the court held that a fair jury could be secured to both parties, and to expedite business excused the juror. Plaintiff's attorneys wanted the superior court's records shown. An exception to the court's ruling was noted for plaintiff.

S. F. Baker and Co. filed suit against A. R. Dodd et al, asking judgment for $33.67 claimed to be due for medicines. The same company brought suit against C. E. Toole and Bertha Toole, asking judgment for $63.

SUPREME COURT MAKES DECISION

California's Eight Hour Day Law for Women Applies to Hotel Waitresses.

(United Press Leased Wire Service.) WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The government today asked the supreme court of the United States to advance the Oregon land cases involving a dispute with the Southern Pacific over 2,300,000 acres of Oregon land.

Application of California's eight hour day law for women to hotel waitresses was sustained today by the supreme court.

The supreme court also held the California eight hour law is applicable to hospital nurses and women pharmacists in hospitals, the executive order of 1909 from public entry and private exploitation of three million acres of California and Wyoming lands, valued at millions, was sustained today by the supreme court.

The supreme court today affirmed conviction of Joseph Miller and the Joplin Mercantile company, Joplin, Missouri, or shipping liquor to Tulsa, Okla., "dry," by federal law as former "Indian country." The court held, however, that the Oklahoma state line law and its "dry" liquor regulations superseded the federal law of 1895. It sustained prohibition of liquor shipments from outside the state.

The interstate commerce commission's damage awards to shippers in reparation of rate over-charges are prima facie evidence of the amount of damage when railroads contest payment in the courts, the supreme court declared today. It however, sustained the railroad's right to a jury trial without submission of rebuttal evidence. The court held, however, that the commission's findings in reparation cases are not necessarily final and that the railroads may present rebuttal evidence. The decision went

By J. W. T. Mason, Former European Manager of the United Press.

(United Press Leased Wire Service) CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Incipient rioting, gun-play and wanton slugging of voters marked today's municipal primary election in Chicago. While Father Dearborn was polling what was expected to be the heaviest municipal vote in its history, scenes at the polling booths exceeded some of the wildest enacted during the palmiest days of old boss rule. By three o'clock this afternoon a score or more alleged strong arm men, repeaters and rioters were in police cells. Others were arrested by State's Attorney Hoyne's "flying squadron" for intimidating voters. Adherents of all parties and all candidates within parties were among those included within the police drag net which began to haul in offenders from the opening of the polls at five a. m.

Despite the numerous clashes, early reports from all over the city tended to show that the women were not to be frightened out of their franchise privileges. The most optimistic anticipation of woman suffrage workers were expected to be realized when the votes were counted late this afternoon.

Prohibition and Cummins. (United Press Leased Wire Service.) WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Prohibition talk in connection with the next national campaign received impetus here today from the suggestion that Senator Cummins might be a presidential candidate with a prohibition plank in his platform.

That the prohibition question will figure largely in some form or other was generally believed. Apparently it was the consensus of opinion that the net effect would be an increase in the prohibition candidates' vote and that neither of the two principal parties would espouse the issue.

How Other Half Lives.

(United Press Leased Wire Service.) CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Little Frankie Scheiczan's troubles are over. His frail little body got its first real rest today. Hungry for three days, his father hid with tuberculosis, the child died today of insufficient nourishment. South Chicago police who found the father too ill even to notify the police of his child's death, today sent coal and food to the house and will take up a collection to bury the baby.

Daily Stock Letter.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Today's stock market reflected the variety of rumors which grew out of the war developments abroad. The sinking of another neutral ship caused the marine underwriters to raise their rates for war risks, while the news of the Russian reverses and the retaliatory measures which Great Britain threatens to adopt against Germany in re- sponse for the submarine activities of the last few days, made it more difficult for shippers to get the ordinary protection. So far as Wall street was concerned, the feeling was one of uncertainty as to what the net result would be. The market showed a good deal of nervousness throughout the day and although there was no sensational selling, there was little disposition manifested to support the market's active shares in any aggressive way. The closing was dull, with many of the active issues above the low level of the day.
