CITY NEWS.

—The merchants will have special offerings for Easter. The Gate City's advertising columns are a sure medium through which to reach the people and to tell them of these offers.
—The Upper Mississippi River Improvement association has sent out a bulletin calling the attention of the shippers to the practical use of the Mississippi river, in view of the effects of the Panama canal. The bulletin urges the construction of adequate boats and barges to carry the freight and thus compete with the sea routes, and also the establishment of the proper sort of terminals at each city.

—Yesterday was Palm Sunday. It was fittingly observed in all of the churches. In the Catholic churches the custom of presenting a palm leaf was followed.

—Easter is just six days away. In the churches special plans are being made for the Easter music which will be a feature of the services. Easter brings to a close the forty days of Lent.

—Several of the local teachers are planning to attend all or part of the sessions of the Southeastern Teachers' association in Davenport. There are a number of the local teachers who appear on the program. The sessions will begin on Thursday and continue until Saturday.

—All the robins and bluebirds which have been seen around here for the last month don't mean that spring has come, according to a Nauvoo prophet, who says that the martin is if the only sure sign of spring. Anyway, the frogs are singing and the kids are playing "chinsles" and the girls jumping rope. Why bother about a few martins?

—There is considerable activity promised this spring among the amateur gardeners of the city, especially among the school children, who have been asked to enter the garden contest which is to be conducted here. Available plots in the backyards have already been staked out by the youngsters, who are going to try their hands at intensive farming.

—The cold wind which blew most of the day recently and made walking somewhat disagreeable, failed to keep people indoors, however. There were as many autos in evidence along the roads as there have been on some of the more pleasant Sundays this spring. And the pedestrians failed to forego their Sunday walk just for little wind squalls.
