BIDS ARE OPENED BY CITY COUNCIL

Contract Will Not be Awarded Until Cost of the Grading Has Been Ascertained. Personal Injury Claim of Mrs. Mary Concannon Against City Settled for $75.

Bids submitted for contracts for paving Exchange street between Seventeenth and Kilbourne Place, Orleans between Thirteenth and Fourteenth, and Second, between Main and Blondevan, were opened by the city council at ten o'clock this morning. The lowest bid submitted was that of Cameron, Joyce and McManus. The contract for this work was not awarded this morning, but the council expects to award the contract within the next day or two. There is a considerable amount of grading to be done in the improvement of the streets and the council has asked the city engineer to prepare accurate estimates of the cost of the grading. The grading fund of the city is very low and the council wishes to learn the exact amount that must be expended from this fund before awarding the contract for the work. The council this morning settled a personal injury claim against the city for $75. The claim was filed by Mrs. Mary Concannon who slipped on an ice covered sidewalk on South Fifth street, January 20, breaking her arm in falling. Several claims of like nature already have been settled by the city, all of them personal injuries resulting from ice or snow covered walks. The council has received requests from two sources for the heads of the two buffaloes that escaped from the park Tuesday, both of which are now dead. One of the requests comes from George Higham who suggests the head be mounted and placed in the public library. The request for the other head was from Haubert's butcher shop.

MRS. MAZIE AREND HAS PASSED AWAY

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ferris and Was Born and Reared in Keokuk. AFTER A SHORT ILLNESS Leaves One Little Girl and an Infant Son, Only About Two Weeks Old.

Mrs. Mazie Arend, wife of August Arend died at the family home, 1523 Ridge street about one o'clock this afternoon. The cause of her death is given as spinal meningitis. Mrs. Arend, before marriage, was Miss Mazie Ferris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ferris, old and well known residents of Keokuk, who are almost overcome with grief over the loss of their daughter, to whom they were bound by the strongest ties of parental love and devotion. Two weeks ago, Mrs. Arend gave birth to a little boy and had not been well since, and with complications, her young life passed, leaving the sterner grief to two homes, her own and that of her devoted parents. She was born in Keokuk in the home where her parents still reside, and was reared and educated here. Keokuk continued to be her home until death claimed her. She was a member of the United Presbyterian church. She was a good and faithful daughter, a devoted wife and a kind and affectionate mother. She had many friends and neighbors among whom she associated and among whom she was popular socially, and who will grieve with the bereaved family. She is survived by her husband and two children, a little girl not yet three years old and an infant only about two weeks old, and four step-children, also by three brothers, Clarence, John, and Clyde Ferris, and one sister, Miss Sadie Ferris, all of Keokuk. Arrangements for the funeral had not been made.

Another Aerial Raid. [United Press Leased Wire Service.] LONDON, April 1.—English aviators have again bombarded the German submarine yards at Hoboken, near Antwerp, the admiralty announced this afternoon. The English flying corps commander reported he had good reason to believe that considerable damage was done. Only a few days ago a flotilla of English aeroplanes attacked the Hoboken submarine yards. Reports from Dutch sources asserted that one and that another was damaged by bombs.

BUFFALO DIED AT PARK LAST NIGHT

Animal That Was Captured and Returned to Its Pen, Died From Over Exertion. Several Requests Received by the City Council for Heads and Skins of the Two Animals.

The second of the two buffaloes that escaped from their pen in Rand park Tuesday morning early and which caused a big lot of excitement in the northwestern end of the city during the day and a half they were at liberty, died some time last night after it had been captured at the Walmsmith slaughter house on the Main street road and returned to the park. The cause of the animal's death, while not definitely established, is believed to have been from over exertion. From the time they broke out of their pen until they were killed or captured the two animals were pursuing or being pursued by men, boys, dogs and horses the greater part of the time. Unaccustomed to a great amount of exercise after their confinement of several years in the pen at the park, the animals literally ran themselves to death, it is believed. Persons who saw them yesterday while they still were at large said that their tongues were hanging out and that they appeared to be in great distress. The animal that died last night was captured shortly before noon yesterday by being driven into a pen at the Walmsmith slaughter house by a number of men on horseback after the other buffalo had been killed not far distant from this place. Once in the pen it was roped and tied up and later in the afternoon placed in a wagon used for hauling live stock and taken back to its pen in the park. It was believed by Park Superintendent Raber and others who saw it at this time that it would recover within a few days and its death during the night was a surprise. What disposition will be made of the heads and skins of the animals is not yet known. The city council has received a number of requests for the trophies which are said to be quite valuable.

ANDERSON JURY STILL HOLDS OUT

No Agreement Had Been Reached in the Carthage Murder Case at Late Hour This Afternoon. JUDGE REMAINS SILENT. It Was Expected That He Might Give the Jurors Additional Instructions Today.

CARTHAGE, Ill., April 1.—At 3:30 o'clock this afternoon the jury in the Clifford Anderson murder case was still out. For forty-six hours the twelve jurors, in whose hands rests Anderson's fate, has been deliberating without reaching an agreement. Efforts to get Judge Waggoner to discuss his plans for today were unsuccessful, last night. Today the judge did not address the jury, as it was intimated he might do. Attorneys for both sides fear a disagreement. It is believed a record for Hancock county has been established in the number of ballots taken. Newspaper reporters who are remaining to hear the verdict, have sent out all kinds of rumors as to how the jury stands. One was that the jury has stood eight to four for conviction ever since the first ballot was taken. Another rumor has it that two jurors want to give the defendant a life sentence and that six want to place no limitation on the sentence, while the remaining four are holding out that he acted in self defense when he killed Jacoby. There was still a third rumor current last night, one to the effect that all but two of the jurors stood for conviction.

SOCIETY

OLD HAWKEYE. (With apologies to Rev. Dr. Ezra B. Newcomb.) You may talk of Indiana, with its Washash shinin' clear, An' its trees an' rus'lin' corn fields, an' its fishin' ponds so dear. But fer right down solid comfort, an' the sights that you kin see, There ha'n't nothin' beats old Iowa—she's good enough fer me.

Hain't we got the dear old daddy of all the waters on the earth, An' can't it beat the Washash, fer length, an' depth, an' girth? An' what about our corn fields, an' our meadows, an' our trees, An' our fishin' pools, an' our song birds—what you goin' to do with these? I have traveled cross the mountains, an' o'er the sunny plain, I have loafed beside still waters, an' along the heavin' main, But I've never seen a country—'tis a pleasure to relate. But it orter take its hat off to this dear old Hawkeye state. Take our autumn jest fer instance, with its rich abundant store, Fillin' all our barns an' corn cribs till they couldn't hold no more, An' our flocks an' herds so num'rous, fat an' sleek as they can be, What's the matter with old Hawkeye?—Well she's good enough fer me. Then when dame natur' hangs a misty curtain o'er the scene, An' behind it with his magic brush, our trees of livin' green, Jack Frost with all the golden hues known only unto him, Paints, till they rival all the earth, an' make the heavens grow dim. I was born in this here dear old state among the woods an' hills, An' my heart is set upon it, an' its scenes, my memory fills, There ha'n't nothin' owned by Uncle Sam, accordin' as I see, That compares to dear old Iowa—she's good enough fer me. —Lelia Olive Walker, 1903. French, to Mr. Henry W. Tomlinson, the wedding to occur in June. The Frenches were former Keokuk residents. Mrs. Lathin Ayer and Mrs. E. G. Wollenweber planned a linen shower to be sent by parcel post to Miss French. It was the original intention to ask a half dozen friends to send gifts, but as the plan became known, the shower grew until it included sixty-five handsome pieces of linen, which were sent this week. Missing Ones Remembered. There was one very beautiful thought carried out in connection with the annual church supper in the Westminster chapel last night. Boxes of cake, tied in white ribbons, to which was fastened a pink carnation, were sent to forty shut in members of the church. The greater number of these were old people, by whom this little gift of remembrance was much appreciated. Three hundred and thirty grown people, and thirty-six children attended the supper, which was served on trays. The menu was: Cold ham Potatoes au gratin Baked beans with chili sauce Sandwiches Pickles Cake Coffee. Missionary Society Entertained. The Foreign Missionary society of the Trinity M. For London account also sales were fairly heavy, and it was believed that still larger orders overhanging the market, placed at a somewhat higher level; but both these influences were counterbalanced by a renewed influx of orders from the home public, whose imagination appeared to be stimulated, not only by the influences previously dominant, but by the stock exchange committee's announcement abolishing minimum price restrictions. Most stocks rose at the start and then quickly yielded under pressure; advanced again, declined again; repeated the process; rose, in the early afternoon to the best prices of the day and a level higher than yesterday's closing. Then in the final hour they became extremely irregular. The market as a whole suggested a somewhat tumultuous culmination of the recent excited movement. Poor Turkey. New Haven Register: Germany was glad enough to have the Turks come into the fight, hoping that they might be able to make trouble for Russia or some of the other allies in the far east. But now that it didn't turn out that way, Germany's answer to Turkey's appeal for help is laconic and conclusive. "We need all our officers. Do your best."
